Jungle Routes Strafed

SAIGON (AP) — High-flying American B52 bombers blanketed the Communist infiltration route through the jungled A Shau valley with about 500 tons of bombs in the past 24 hours, the U.S. Command said today.

The giant Stratofortresses made a record number of eight raids during the period, six of them Wednesday night and this morning against A Shau, due west of the big U.S. base at Da Nang.

The 20-mile-long valley enters South Vietnam from Laos about 30 miles below the demilitarized zone and has long been a vital infiltration route. It funnels supplies to most of the major Communist units operating in the northernmost area of South Vietnam, the sector where U.S. forces have recently been under heaviest attack.

The heavy strikes on the jungled valley were ordered after tactical bombers hitting the area in the past few days caused several landslides in areas where heavy rains had loosened embankments. The landslides caused Red supply convoys to bunch up at narrow points in the valley.

A U.S. spokesman said immediate assessment of the bomb damage was not available. The busiest 24 hours previously for the B52s was on Feb. 16, when seven raids were mounted.

While the B52s raided west of Da Nang, the U.S. Marines launched a new ground sweep southwest of the big American base and U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara left Washington on his ninth visit to Vietnam.

The U.S. Command said several battalions of the 7th Marine Regiment went out looking for enemy soldiers Wednesday in an area 12 miles south-southwest of Da Nang but made no contact in the first day of Operation Elliott.

Sporadic ground action was reported Wednesday, but reports to headquarters said 124 Communist soldiers were killed. Communist guns and mortars continued their harassing fire on the U.S. Marines south of the demilitarized zone, killing three Lathernecks and wounding 51 barrages on the sandbagged camps at Con Thien and Dong Ha.

The air war against North Vietnam continued unabated with 107 missions flown and two Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs lost to ground fire, making 597 U.S. combat planes reported lost over the North. One helicopter was also shot down over South Vietnam.

The two Thunderchief pilots were missing.

Major strikes were directed at the rail lines leading north from Hanoi to Red China, and Air Force pilots reported shooting up 23 boxcars in yards along the line running northeast from the capital.

It evidently was a major complex. The smoke from the raid rose 13,000 feet and was visible aboard the carriers 65 miles away in the Tonkin Gulf.

Air Force and Marine pilots also made a major effort against the Communist artillery positions which have been causing heavy casualties to the Marines below the demilitarized zone.

The weekly casualty report issued by U.S. Command reported a decline in American deaths but the reporting period, which ended last Saturday, did not include the hard fighting since then along the demilitarized zone.

McNamara told newsmen in Washington Wednesday night he would study how many more U.S. fighting men might be needed in Vietnam and check on progress of the pacification effort.

FIRST COTTON BLOOM reported was found Tuesday by Wayne Parker, on the C. D. Matthews farm, one-fourth of a mile north of Matthews. The land is farmed by Parker and his brother, Wade. The blooms were on a 90-acre cotton plot, waist high and of the Auburn M variety.

McNamara to Study Four Key Issues

SAIGON (AP) - The chief issues discussed during Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's visit to Saigon this weekend are expected to be more U. S. troops for the war, what to do about the Communist threat in the northern part of the country, the pacification program, the South Vietnamese army and U. S. aid.

Indications are that McNamara is planning a more searching review than he has made on some of his past trips. The U. S. Command is preparing to fight for plans it considers vital to military victory.

Here is how the major issues shape up:

Troop strength - This is the most widely publicized reason for McNamara's trip. Because of heavy North Vietnamese infiltration, U.S. commanders here want a major boost in manpower above the currently authorized 470,000 men. Military sources say Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U. S. commander, wants up to 200,000 more men than the 466,000 now in Vietnam.

Washington appears ready to boost the limit, possibly to around 550,000. But the Johnson administration is believed concerned because a larger increase will mean calling up reservists, greatly expanding the defense budget, and imposing a terrific strain on the inflation - ridden Vietnamese economy and the hard - pressed U.S.-Asian supply line.

The war in the north - U. S. Marines continue to take the heaviest casualties of any force in the country as they man positions below the demilitarized zone. U. S. bombers have not been able to silence the heavy artillery, rocket and mortar fire that have been responsible for most of the 8,000 U. S. casualties in the area so far this year. Some officers say the southern half of the demilitarized zone should be taken or that a seaborne invasion of the north should be carried out to encircle and destroy the Red guns.

Pacification - The latest in an eight - year series of pacification programs to win the loyalty of the countryside looked promising when it finally got off the ground in late February. However, government battalions assigned to protect the pacification workers have been killed or wounded, and whole teams have deserted. Corruption and devisive political maneuvering have been reported in some areas. The program is clearly sagging.

The South Vietnamese Army - Despite billions in aid and thousands of U. S. advisers, the Saigon government's troops with only a few notable exceptions have not been built into an effective, aggressive, dedicated military machine. Since American divisions were sent to Vietnam, Saigon's soldiers have been doing less and less fighting and launching fewer and fewer operations aimed at showdown battles with the enemy.

American aid - Reports to Washington by those outside the aid chain of command but charged with monitoring it remain pessimistic. The reports say only a small percentage of the annual $770 million flowing into the program will reach the peasants whose loyalty is the key to victory or defeat in Vietnam. U. S. sources have said no real improvement in the situation is possible unless some sort of control is maintained over funds and commodities once they pass into Vietnamese channels.

Two Fires Extinguished

Fire damaged a three-room cabin destroying the roof, one room and a porch at the rear of the Mrs. Pleas Malcolm residence, 113 Trotter, at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

The cabin is occupied by John Allen, who was working when the fire was discovered by a neighbor. Firemen had to break in the locked cabin to put out the fire of undetermined origin.

Allen said he built a fire in a coal stove before leaving at noon.

Firemen were called to put out a fire in a storage shed at the rear of the Little Giant Food Store, 523 Greer, at 2:17 p.m. Wednesday. The fire was believed to have started from burning trash.

Billings To Hear Case

BENTON - The attorney for Billy Gene Boshears, 103 Selma, charged with second degree murder in the shotgun slaying of Clennis Ables, 2010 Kentucky, Dec. 24, filed an application for a change of judge Wednesday in circuit court.

The attorney for Boshears asked that Judge Marshall Craig be disqualified from hearing the case on the grounds of prejudice.

The application was sustained. Judge William Billings of Kennett was named to hear the case. A trial date has not been set.

Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick said that new evidence may lead to the dismissal of the second degree murder charge against Boshears and the refiling of a first degree murder charge against him.

Two Injured In Accident

A four-car accident on East Malone near the intersection of Highway 61 at 5:12 p.m. Wednesday resulted in injuries to two drivers.

Genevieve Ozment, 106A Front St., was treated and released for a whiplash to the neck at Southeast Hospital in Cape Girardeau. Mrs. Ada Stone, 804 South Kingshighway, suffered injuries to the head and neck and was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Vestal M. Gosnell, 17, 740 East Kathleen, was charged with failure to have her car under control. Police said the accident occurred on wet pavement as the Gosnell vehicle skidded into the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Stone. Both cars were traveling east on Malone near the Martin Service Station when the impact occurred.

The Stone vehicle was forced into the rear of a car stopped for traffic driven by Genevieve G. Ozment. The Ozment vehicle was forced by the impact into the rear of another stopped car driven by Barbara M. Boyer, 720 Vernon.

In another accident on wet pavement Wednesday, Richard Copeland, 21, Bell City, was charged with destruction of city property after the car he was driving struck a whiteway pole on East Malone near Reuben. The accident occurred at 4:32 p.m. Copeland said another car had pulled in front of him and his car skidded into the pole after he touched his brakes.

41 Killed in German Crash

BERLIN (AP)— The fiery collision of a passenger train and a gasoline truck today near Langenweddingen, East Germany, took at least 41 lives and caused injuries to another 54 persons, the official East German news agency ADN reported.

ADN said that "among the dead and injured there were many children."

An earlier report from ADN said the explosion set four cars of the passenger train and the train station afire.

Wallace in Suit Not Policeman

The Richard Wallace whose name appears on the Scott county circuit court bar docket for July as defendant in a suit filed by Welfare Finance Corporation for collection of a note is not Richard N. Wallace, who is a policeman living at 309 Helen St.

The Wallace named in the suit is formerly of East Prairie and Oran. He was reported to have moved to Anna, Ill.

Case Dismissed When Witness Vanishes

BENTON -- A charge of selling intoxicants without a license against Louis Jimmerson, 108 Luther, president of the Sunset Improvement Club, was dismissed Wednesday in circuit court.

Scott County prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick said today the charge was dismissed when Willie Lane, formerly of Sikeston, the state's principal witness, failed to appear.

Lane had obtained permission of his employer to leave work and appear at the trial. He left home at about 8 a.m. Wednesday apparently intending to appear at the trial, but his whereabouts Wednesday were undetermined, Potashnick said.

Fears were expressed for Lane's safety when police could not find him. He reported for work today, but could not be reached this morning for comment.

Potashnick said Lane has been threatened twice at the point of pistols and has had to move his family.

Potashnick said today that he would like to refile the charge against Jimmerson but it will depend on Lane.

Lane was reported to have purchased liquor on April 26, at the Sunset Improvement Club. The transaction and signed affadavits concerning it formed the basis of a raid on the club the night of May 5, by Scott county authorities and Sikeston police.

Between 30 and 40 cases of beer and about three cases of whisky were confiscated.

Demonstrations were set off by about 75 patrons of the club following the raid. The group marched to the Cream Castle and hurled objects which broke the windows of two automobiles. They also appeared at the police station and sang freedom songs during two hours of unrest.

Viet Reds Getting More Adept With Mortar Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops fighting U.S. Marines below the demilitarized zone are using mortar and artillery fire with greater effect than ever before, say Pentagon experts.

The American sources suggested the North Vietnamese may have adopted an American technique — posting artillery spotters with forward infantry units.

It also was said the North Vietnamese may have better communications than in the past to transmit spotter information back to mortar and gun positions.

American experts said the increased effectiveness of enemy artillery and mortar fire is one of the most significant aspects of the heavy fighting around Con Thien this week.

In the past, the Communist North Vietnamese have aimed most of their mortar and artillery rounds at fixed U.S. positions.

But now, the American experts said, the enemy is hitting at moving U.S. units, firing salvos and then adjusting their ranges and directions as targets shift.

The North Vietnamese have dug in their artillery north of the Ben Hai River which forms the boundary between North and South Vietnam. The river runs through the middle of the six-mile-wide buffer zone, which has not lived up to its official demilitarized status for about a year.

The North Vietnamese troops bring mortars with them when they operate in the southern half of the demilitarized zone or below.

U.S. military sources said the volume of North Vietnamese mortar and gunfire has increased somewhat.

However, it is considered significant that the enemy is able not only to maintain heavy weapons fire but to increase its volume in the face of strong and persistent U.S. air attacks on supply lines carrying ammunition.

Rusk Pledges U.S. to Stay Until Viet Rights Assured

CHICAGO (AP)— In a speech that was delayed somewhat by demonstrators against the war in Vietnam, Secretary of State Dean Rusk pledged today that the United States will stay in that country "until the right of the South Vietnamese people to work out their own future, under a government of their own choice, has been secured."

As Rusk prepared to speak to delegates attending the Golden Anniversary convention of Lions International, a handful of demonstrators in the Chicago Stadium unfolded anti-Vietnamese War banners and began screaming:

"Mr. Rusk, you are a murderer."

Others in the audience ripped the banners away from the demonstrators and threw them on the ground. Ushers bodily removed two of the demonstrators from the stadium, dragging them out while they struggled.

The convention delegates booed when the demonstrators broke out their banners and cheered when they were ejected.

Rusk entered the stadium through a rear door and did not see a group of about 40 pickets at the main entrance.

He said there is more at stake than self determination for the Vietnamese — there is even more than security for the other nations of Southeast Asia.

"The greater question is whether aggression is to be allowed to succeed, thus opening the way for further aggression," Rusk asserted.

Rusk surveyed a wide range of foreign policy issues from Vietnam to the Middle East and to relations with the Communist world.

Discussing the war between Israel and the Arabs and how to settle it, Rusk restated the U.S. position in the United Nations General Assembly. Simply to order Israel to withdraw to positions held before the war broke out would be, Rusk said, "A prescription not for peace but for renewed hostilities.

"We believe that the goal must be a lasting settlement," he declared.

The United States is in Vietnam because the South was invaded from the North with "major organized units of the regular army," Rusk said.

Wrecked Apollo Craft Being Moved for Storage

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The wreckage of Apollo 1, built with visions of rocketing three astronauts to the moon, was packed in cardboard boxes and plastic bags today for trip by slow barge to Virginia.

The remains are being placed in a silver container the size of two house trailers which will protect the spacecraft components for 10 years should officials decide at a later date to reinvestigate the Apollo 1 fire.

The more than 1,000 packaged pieces of the ill-fated space vehicle leave Cape Kennedy next Wednesday aboard a flatbed trailer. They will then be hauled to an awaiting barge.

And six to eight days later Apollo 1 arrives at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Langley Research Center at Hampton, Va.

For the next decade, it will remain under the custody of Dr. Floyd L. Thompson, director of Langley and head of the review board which investigated the Apollo 1 fire that killed Air Force Lt. Cols. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee last Jan. 27.

Apollo 1's container— 40 feet long, 24 feet wide and 19 feet tall— will have a pure nitrogen atmosphere to prevent its components from corroding, NASA spokesmen said. The smalier pieces have been wrapped in nitrogen-filled plastic bags.

The container is made of steel, coated with aluminum. Three tiers of shelves for the boxes and bags line both sides and one end.

After arriving at Langley, the craft will be placed in a fenced-in area at the center's west end where NASA said it is to remain for 10 years.

No decision has been made as to what happens to Apollo 1 after that.

No Budget Cut Records Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1967 Congress may consider record high requests for new appropriations but at its current rate will fall considerably short of making record budget cuts.

It already has acted in whole or in part on requests for $126.8 billion in new funds. An estimated $20 billion still is to be considered.

That would make a total of $147 billion over which Congress has control, in addition to about $15 billion in permanent appropriations such as debt interest over which it has little or no control.

Of the 15 money bills slated for consideration this year, 11 have passed the House, and 4 have cleared both branches and become law.

Those enacted involved administration requests for $23.6 billion which were trimmed $284 million by Congress— a cut of 1.1 per cent.

The House has passed 11 bills for which requests totaled $126.8 billion. It cut them about $3 billion, or slightly less than 3 per cent.

If the Senate follows its normal pattern, some cuts made by the House will be restored. But even if the Senate goes along with the House on pending bills, the final budget cut for the year hardly is likely to reach the $5 billion goal set by members of the Appropriations Committees.

The current outlook is that the 1967 reduction will be in the neighborhood of $4 billion, or about 3 per cent.

That would be only half of the 6 per cent reduction voted by the 1963 Congress, which trimmed $6.5 billion from total requests for $110.3 billion, setting a modern record for cuts.

Billfold Missing

Jim Rodgers, 425 Helen, reported to police Wednesday afternoon that his dark brown billfold containing $51 in bills and a $6 check was missing from the family room at his residence. The billfold also contained credit cards and personal papers.

George Washington's father, Augustine, died in 1743 when his son was 11 years old.

Soviets Play up To Latins

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) --The Soviet Union began wooing Latin American members of the United Nations today in an effort to salvage something from the abortive U. N. Assembly session on the Middle East.

Assembly President Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan adjourned the 122-nation forum until next Wednesday to give members a chance to "bring about something that we might be able to refer to as a fruitful result."

Israeli officials, meanwhile, sought to allay a furor roused by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan's statement that the Gaza Strip, administered by Egypt before the June 5 war, would be incorporated into Israel.

Both the Israeli Defense Ministry and the Israeli delegation to the U. N. issued emphatic denials that the government of Israel had made any decision on the future of the strip.

Informed sources said Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov was urging the Latin Americans to try to draft an acceptable compromise resolution from salvageable parts of the rival Latin American and nonaligned proposals which failed to get the needed two-thirds majority in the assembly Tuesday.

The U. N. members split almost evenly over the nonaligned draft, which demanded that Israel pull its troops out of Egypt, Jordan and Syria, and the Latin American proposal coupling a withdrawal demand with a demand that the Arabs and the state of war they have maintained against Israel since 1948. The Russians and the Arabs backed the nonaligned resolution, while the United States and Israel supported the Latin American draft.

Defeat of the nonaligned resolution was another setback for the Soviet Union, which had asked for the emergency assembly session and sent Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to press the Arab case.

There was considerable agreement that any resolution which could be adopted by the assembly would be no more than a general expression of hope for a peaceful resolution of the crisis and that the matter would revert to the Security Council.

Downs Eyes Senate Race

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — State Sen. John E. Downs, D-St. Joseph, said today he is "definitely interested in running for lieutenant governor" in 1968.

First reports of the senator's possible plans for making the race came from Don Stimble, publisher of the Fulton Sun-Gazette, who said he had visited with Downs over the holiday.

Downs confirmed the report this morning but added he would not make a final decision until the incumbent, Thomas Eagleton, has announced his plans.

Some political observers have been speculating that Eagleton will seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by Edward V. Long.

Downs, 50, has been state senator from the 34th District for two terms and before that was a member of the House. He is a close friend of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and was an outspoken opponent of the Democratic Party "Establishment" against which Hearnes revolted in the 1964 campaign.

He has described his political philosophy as "Least Governs Best." He is a strong supporter of mental health legislation and has worked to upgrade wages and working conditions of state employes.

He served with the Marine Corps in World War II and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and five air medals. He was a lieutenant colonel when the war ended.

Station Wagon Enters Highway, Six Injured

Six persons were injured in a station wagon-car collision Wednesday at 7:50 a.m. on highway 162, three miles east of Gideon.

A 1960 Chevrolet station wagon, driven by Garner Cossey, 35, St. Louis, pulled out of a private drive into the path of a 1966 Oldsmobile, driven by Alphus Barfoot, 55, Malden.

Injured in the Cossey car were Billy Cossey, nine, and Sharon Cossey, 12, cut on their arms. They were treated by a Gideon physician.

Cleo Cossey, 31, received chest injuries; Kenneth-Cossey, 15, and the driver both received head cuts.

Barfoot was cut on his face and had broken ribs. The four were taken to the Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett.

In a collision Wednesday at 12:35 p.m. on route W, two and one-half miles north of Cape Girardeau, a 1963 Rambler, driven by Kenneth Reiker, 23, Cape Girardeau, pulled out of a private drive, and was struck in the rear by a 1966 Chevrolet truck, driven by Wesley Farrow, Jr., 16, Cape Girardeau.

Reiker received cuts and a bruised shoulder. He was treated by a physician.

Fighting Heats up In Congo

KINSHASA, The Cong (AP)— The government radio reported hard fighting between Congolese forces and foreign mercenaries at Bukavu today and described the situation in the eastern Congo as grave.

The mercenaries were reported Wednesday to have been airlifted to Bukavu and Kisangani (Stanleyville), two major eastern cities. Quoting Congolese sources, the Belgian radio in Brussels said the foreign soldiers had taken a number of important eastern points and that Congolese troops had counter-attacked in Kisangani.

President Joseph D. Mobutu decreed a state of emergency throughout the country Wednesday and compiained to the United Nations Security Council of aggression by invaders sent from "Western countries." It was widely believed that the mercenaries were acting on behalf of ex-Premier Moise Tshombe, kidnaped and taken to Algeria last week.

The Belgian consul in Bukavu, on the eastern border north of Tshombe's former stronghold in Katanga province, reported to Brussels that fighting had broken out in the eastern Congo but gave no details.

Mobutu said foreign settlers had attacked the Congolese army in Bukavu and fighting was in progress.

The U. S. consul in Bukavu, Truston F. Crigler, reported to Washington that the town was "under the control of mercenary-led national army dissidents."

Mobutu reported two planeloads of foreign commandos had seized the airport at Kisangani, formerly Stanleyville and the biggest city in the northeast Congo, while the government radio claimed foreign mercenaries had parachuted into Bukavu.

Mobutu did not mention Tshombe, but the government radio said Tuesday that 200 Belgian mercenaries were ready to fly to the Congo to try to free the former premier if he was returned to Kinshasa to face a death sentence for treason. Mobutu's government has sent representatives to Algiers seeking Tshombe's extradition.

Authoritative sources in Algiers said they had pieced together the story of Tshombe's kidnaping. They said his chartered plane was hijacked last Friday and forced to fly to Algeria by members of his own entourage who probably wanted to collect a big reward offered secretly by Mobutu's government.

Diplomats in Algiers say Algeria almost certainly will extradite Tshombe if it is convinced of a pro-Tshombe plot in the Congo. Algiers holds Tshombe responsible for the death of the Congo's first premier, leftist Patrice Lumumba.

Israel Plans Rival Route

By ED BLANCHE

ELATH, Israel (AP)— Israel is pouring millions of dollars into this sweltering little Red Sea port to build a rival trade route to the Suez Canal.

The Israelis want to build a dry Suez to their Mediterranean ports with a railroad, a major highway and an oil pipeline system through the Negev Desert.

They estimate that through the port they are carving out of rock and sand they could funnel at least 3 million to 4 million tons of general cargo, 2 million tons of bulk cargo and 20 million tons of oil every year to Europe.

Two things stand in the way: the reluctance of Western shipping lines to use Elath because of fears of blacklisting by Arab countries and lack of financial security.

Israeli experts argue that unloading oil at Elath and pumping it overland for shipment to Europe would reduce its cost to Europeans. Before the recent Arab-Israeli war and the blocking of the Suez Canal, Egypt charged $1 a ton for oil passing through the canal. According to Israeli experts, piping the oil across the Negev would cut charges 50 to 65 per cent.

Trans-Israel pipelines and freight routes would neutralize Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's use of the Suez Canal as a political weapon and would deal another blow to Egypt's already shaky economy. Before the war, Egypt earned $200 million a year from Suez. An alternate route to Europe would drastically reduce this.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Whatever else may be said of the 1967 Missouri legislature - its accomplishments and its failures- it continued to accept in broad general terms the program of the administration of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Like President Lyndon B. Johnson - and perhaps for the same reason - Hearnes has been an extremely effective administrator in terms of endorsement of his program by the legislative branch of government.

Both Johnson and Hearnes took with them to the White House and the governor's chair long records of legislative experience.

Even those who don't approve of the Great Society program cannot deny that Johnson is the most effective President in his dealings with Congress in the history of the country.

On a state level Hearnes has performed just as effectively. Both men continue to amass an outstanding record in this important aspect of their administrations.

In the legislative session which ended Friday Hearnes continued his high batting average of administration bills passed which he established in 1965.

This was far from the summer of discontent insofar as legislator relations with Hearnes were concerned.

And he is taking it far away from the hullabaloo of the state capital at his peaceful, new home in Charleston.

It's good to have our neighbor back in town for a couple of weeks.

For a year now civil war between Walter Reuther and other leaders has flared throughout American labor. It began, actually, when America's labor representative walked out of the International Labor Organizations' governing body in Geneva, Switzerland, in protest against the election of a Polish Communist official as chairman. George Meany approved the walkout. Reuther did not.

For a year now the CIA saga has involved U.S. unions. There have been charges that some unions fronted for Central Intelligence. Victor Reuther, brother of Walter, first hurled such accusations. Since then there have been scores of reports of American labor's involvement, not the CIA, but in building unions in Western Europe.

For a year now there have been reports of former CIO unions, going in for global labor activity on the industrial front, building worldwide unions and calling inter-hemispheric strikes in the auto and electronic fields.

Thus labor now is such a worldwide beat that it cannot be covered on the home front alone. To dig out the inside and untold background of these stories and others which will make the headlines in the coming months, our columnist Victor Riesel will jet to Geneva to cover the closing sessions of the ILO as well as other developments which affect the U.S. He will file a short series of background and ahead-of-the-news stories during a swift newsgathering swing-around.

Whatever else may be said about Soviet Premier Kosygin his actions have the jab of reality. Americans may have glowed a bit momentarily after President Johnson's assurances of lessened world dangers following the summit meeting at Glassboro, N.J.

The moment of happiness evaporated like a soap bubble pricked by a thorny bush - Hollybush, perhaps - when Kosygin announced that he would confer with Dictator Fidel Castro in Cuba on his way home to Russia. There the two gangsters conspired against the United States.

The purpose of this meeting was to bolster Communist defenses and outline subversive activity in this hemisphere right under our noses.

Many Americans feel strongly that our fighting now should either be confined to Cuba or that the burden of the Vietnam conflict and one in Cuba should be shouldered to protect this hemisphere.

Kosygin's decision to go to Cuba had the cold, sobering effect of a gun poked in the ribs. But it is useful in dispelling idel dreams.

The quickly ignited "spirit of Hollybush" as President Johnson was impelled to call it despite no evidence of accomplishment to ease world tensions was visible at least as long as whiff of cigarette smoke on a windy day.

Johnson is the disciple of the consensus of personal persuasion, which he has used to his benefit with colleagues in Congress.

He applied the same technique with Kosygin and expressed his pleasure at being able to look him in the eye and trying to reason with him.

Johnson even emphasized the Biblical derivation of his course - " 'come now' as Isaiah said: 'and let us reason together.'"

The American people were not long deluded. When Kosygin announced that he was flying to Cuba they recognized that Johnson and Isaiah and their philosophical approach didn't score at Glassboro.

THE FLIGHT THAT FAILED

There's a beautiful, beautiful field,
Far away in the land of the fair;
Happy landings to you, Amelia Earhart,
Farewell, First Lady of the Air.
--Amelia Earhart's Last Flight (1937 song)

Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred J. Noonan, disappeared over the Pacific 30 years ago Sunday, July 2. Miss Earhart had been the first woman to make a solo flight across the Atlantic, in 1932, and she would have been the first to circumnavigate the world by airplane if her 1937 flight had not been cut short by tragedy.

The twin-engine Lockheed Electra carrying Noonan and Miss Earhart was 2,500 miles from California when it vanished. "Gas is running low . . .unable to reach you by radio . . .we are circling but cannot see you," were the last words of the aviatrix to be heard by trackers on Howland Island. Scores of ships and planes combed 200,000 square miles of ocean for 15 days. They found nothing. To this day the rumor persists that Miss Earhart and Noonan were captured - some say executed - by the Japanese.

To mark the anniversary of the fatal flight, the Ninety-Nines - a worldwide organization of women pilots founded by Miss Earhart in 1929 - will hold a five-day international "fly-in" at Washington, D.C., which started Wednesday June 28. Shortly thereafter, Mrs. Ann Pellegreno will land at Detroit, in a 30-year-old sister ship of the Earhart plane, after completing a round-the-world solo flight.

WHY BOTHER?

One of the great insights on American business might be gained if an explanation could be found for the public attitude of people engaged in the so-called service industries.

Services spend fortunes to advertise themselves. At this level, the specified service is always ready, willing and able to care for the public needs which fall within its purview.

The citizen who responds to such advertising often meets with surly insults and a supercilious attitude which rapidly dissolves his hope of finding sympathy for his problems.

Since all this makes no sense to the would-be customer, the question is: Does the person who is performing the service for a livelihood feel that he has somehow won points by downgrading the public, and if so, why does he bother to advertise?

DANGEROUS FOLLY

Since air conditioning began to be fairly prevalent in automobiles, you do not see as many drivers going on their ways with the left hand on the car top. Whether they are holding the top down or holding it up is a moot question for which no one has the answer. It is known to all, however, that such one-handed motoring is dangerous folly.

Common sense, proper consideration for other people and any shred of the instinct of self-preservation all demand keeping at least two hands on the wheel. If you are a victim of the one-handed habit in question, break it before it breaks up both you, your vehicle and any passengers you may have, let alone strangers.

"That's fine. What enemies does he have?"

THE GREATEST CHALLENGE

A senior college student recently remarked: "I haven't the slightest interest in business. It's stuffy and dull and rigid. Business executives are selfish, narrow - minded and lacking in imagination. All they care about is profits. . . .I want to do something useful. . . . I want to help eliminate poverty and disease and slum conditons . . . .I'd like a little fun and excitement. Business? That's not for me." When a college senior speaks in this vein, it is clear evidence that there is something lacking in our educational process.

The head of one of the country's larges retailing concerns, Mr. Lester A. Burcham, has replied to this student, and to the apparently large number of young people who hold similar views, in a masterful discussion of business and the free market. He shows how profits are the backbone of national growth and well-being. He describes the challenges and opportunities of business in the marketplace, and the necessity of the successful enterprise to continually advance, and so contribute to the phenomenal rise of our nation.

As a practical matter, the progressive profitable business enterprise is doing more to remedy the most pressing social problems of our time in its role of taxpayer and employer than anything else. And as far as excitement is concerned, says Mr. Burcham, "Challenges, in my opinion, are more prevalent in the marketplace or business world than in any other field of activity because change is occurring so rapidly. The swift stream of new consumers, changing patterns of population, changing competition do not allow businessmen to get in a rut or become complacent."

The greatest challenge we all face is the preservation of freedom to manage, to test and try, to move ahead with boldness of spirit in the hope of reasonable reward -- in other words, the preservation of our United States system of government and free enterprise.

FROZEN NORTH - A NEW FRONTIER FOR INDUSTRY

People who still think of Alaska, our 49th state, as it was in the gold rush days may be surprised at facts about the state made known by "Petroleum Today" magazine.

It stated that during the summer months, when temperatures may reach 100 degrees, the frozen tundra thaws, and hillsides are blanketed with flowers. The gardens produce foot-long carrots and cabbages the size of soccer balls.

The magazine reported that one of the most dramatic developments has been the search for oil to help meet U.S. energy needs of the future. The Arctic operations have challenged the oilman's ingenuity. Most drilling is conducted in winter months when the surface is frozen, but the heat from the machinery on the right turns the ground soupy. One solution that oilmen have devised is reminiscent of selling ice boxes to Eskimos. A system of tubing carrying refrigerating fluid is placed in the icy ground beneath the rig, helping to keep the frozen North frozen.

In conclusion the magazine said that our largest state may be the new frontier fro coming generations, and that the oil industry is proving there are opportunities never dreamed of in the days of the gold rush.

A SPACE ASSET: MIRROR FOR EARTH

Probably one of the least "practical" occupations men can engage in is mountain climbing. For some, it is analagous to a nation spending its energy in climbing into space.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who happens to like climbing mountains "because they are there," defends both pursuits.

Just as mountain climbing has certain spinoff benefits - revealing patterns and relationships in the land stretched out before one's feet that could never be observed from the foot of the mountain -- so, too, does the nation's activity in space.

It is in this new "mountain-top" perspective which space provides on our home planet that Udall sees the greatest immediate rewards of the space program.

He offers this example: In just one pass, taking three minutes, Gemini astronauts photographed 80 per cent of the country of Peru. A mosaic of the picutres, which was given to the Peruvian government, shows patterns of land use, snow distribution, lake levels and geologic features of possible economic significance - all in a single glance.

The Interior Department and National Aeronautics and Space Administration are working together on a series of Earth Resources Observation Satellites to be placed in polar orbits so that the entire earth will turn under them.

As part of a worldwide system for the wise management of the earth's resources, the EROS spacecraft could employ sensors to detect such things as soil salinity or erosion or the state of the sea. Scientists look forward to the day when satellites can tell rye from barley, rice from soy beans. They will be able to monitor crop growth and predict yields in various parts of the world.

Noting that Americans alive today will consume more mineral resources than all mankind in all past history, Udall says remote sensing techniques will permit satellites to literally "prospect from the sky" - detecting and studying earth's mineral and oil structures.

It is true that it costs more to launch a space system into orbit than to send up an airplane, but once a satellite is up there, it stays up, and the longer it stays up the more economical it becomes.

One NASA scientist has figured that after six months a given space system breaks even with a DC-8; after one year, it breaks even with a Cadillac; after a year and a half, it breaks even with a Volkswagen, and beyond that even beats a motor scooter in "miles per gallon."

"We have succeeded in opening wide the door to outer space," says Udall, "and now we are turning around and looking back. We have made our earth not just the springboard to space research, but the object of it."

ASSAULTS ON POLICEMEN

The rising crime wave in this country threatens the personal security of every American. The first line of defense against this crime wave is our local police forces.

The local policeman is now being harassed from every side by self-appointed defenders of or apologists for the criminal, who are ready with an excuse for every crime and a charge against any policeman. The proposed police review boards are but one example of this kind of harassment.

But the greatest problem the police and the public face in dealing with crime is the obstacles placed by the courts in the way of convicting guilty persons and deterring crime by swift and severe punishment of those convicted. Criminals freed on technicalities, on probation or parole have long been an increasing threat to the general public. Now they are becoming a direct and immediate threat to the police themselves.

Last year in the state of New Jersey more than 10% of all police officers in the state were assaulted in the line of duty. Half of the assaults resulted in wounds severe enough o require a doctor's care. Our policy of leniency toward the criminal is now directly endangering the life and safety of our police officers, at the same time that constant harassment makes it more and more difficult to recruit policemen.

It will not always be possible to find men willing to risk injury and death to protect all of us, if we reward their faithfulness and diligence with spiteful criticism and wrist-slapping penalties for hardened criminals. HLH.

"So this is Jovial Jake Bumble's Happyland on Lake Bide-a-Wee! Frankly, it looks to me more like a disaster area."

"Are these other people guests— or refugees?"

"I am not one to raise moral issues on a vacation, Mr. Bumble, but are you sure those so-called honeymooners you put in the cottage next to us are really honeymooners? Did you ask to see their marriage license?"

"I can't swim in the lake because it's too cold and I can't swim in the pool because it's too warm."

"You mean you charge a dime apiece for your postcards? Why, at the resort we stayed last year, they gave us two for 15 cents."

"My husband lost $12.50 playing poker last night with those two rough-looking fellows from Brooklyn. What are you running here, Mr. Bumble, a gambling hall?"

"Things look kinda quiet here, Jake. What's the matter? That resort on the other side of the lake is really jumping. Heard they had to turn away 20 people yesterday."

"Another rainy day. That makes seven in a row. Do you think maybe it's time for us guests to start building an ark?"

"What'll we do, boss? Four parties have signed up for horseback riding this morning, and we've only got two horses, and one of them is too lame to work."

"Far be it for me to make complaints, Mr. Bumble, but some old lady is sitting in my favorite rocking chair on the front porch. You'll have to tell her to move. You know I've used that chair for the last six summers."

"Who called your comedian a comedian? He tells jokes like he was a moonlighting pallbearer."

"It looks like I left my checkbook at home, Jake. Well, just send the bill along to my office, and my secretary will take care of it— as soon as she gets back from her own vacation next month."

"Confidentially, if you could give me and my family a reduction in your rates, I'll be glad to handle any medical emergencies during our stay here. I'm only a veterinarian, but we don't have to tell that to your guests. After all, an upset stomach is an upset stomach, whether it's in a guest or a cow."

"What chance have us young single girls got for a romance, Jake, when the only bachelors here are you and that middle-aged bus boy from the Harvard Law School?"

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Good old Rep. Harley Staggers, the West Virginia Democrat, has been labor's public champion when it comes to the railway unions and opposition to a modified arbitration act to head off a railway strike. But he has been strangely secretive regarding another phase of transportation -- the airlines and their accidents.

As chairman of the house commerce committee, he has been holding closed - door hearings on airline accidents. The safety of the nation is not involved, but rather the safety of the public.

Hearings regarding the Apollo fire have been held in public. Investigations into railway wrecks and auto crack-ups are held in public. And past probes of airline accidents were held in public. But for some reason best known to himself, the venerable congressman from West Virginia has chosen to hold airplane accident probes behind a strick veil of secrecy.

The latest have involved two spring crashes over Ohio by Lake Central and TWA, plus the New Orleans tragedy when a Delta jet plowed into a motel, killing a group of schoolgirls on their spring vacation. The kin of all those killed would like to know the reason. So would the public in order to prevent further tragedies. Rep. Staggers, however, believes in secrecy.

BEHIND PREMIER KY

There were two basic reasons for the demotion of the grandstanding little Premier of South Vietnam, Nguyen Cao Ky:

1. He lost his best friend and supporter when Henry Cabot Lodge retired as U.S. ambassador.

2. He began to emulate his own announced heor, Adolf Hitler.

When Ellsworth Bunker replaced Lodge, Ky lost much of his immunity from criticism. Lodge was so grateful to Ky for bringing stability out of the chaos existing after President Diem was killed when South Vietnam suffered six different governments in 19 months, that he forgave Ky's washbuckling.

But Bunker didn't. Bunker had dealt with some of the most headlined and difficult personalities in the world -- Dictator Peron of Argentina, mild - mannered Premier Nehru of India, sex-crazy President Sukarno of Indonesia. So he was in no mood to take nonsense from a tin-horn little general determined to use the American army and the September elections to perpetuate himself in office.

SAIGON'S SMOKE - FILLED ROOM

It is true, as the state department announced, that the American embassy did not know Premier Ky was going to run for vice president instead of President. This was arranged in a smoke - filled room at the tan-sonhut air base between the generals.

But it was true that ambassador Bunker was exerting his not unimportant influence to get Ky out of the Presidential race and otherwise curb his dictatorial pyrotechnics. Ky knew this. So did the other generals.

In recent months Ky had violated all the rules. He had campaigned for President while still Premier. He had plastered the countryside with posters extolling Premier Ky. He had imposed as tight a censorship on the press as the censorship of Red China. He even censored the political announcements of the chief of state, general Nguyen Van Thieu. And he caused to be arrested novelist Vu Hanh after Vu had brought a libel suit against the pro - government newspaper, song, for calling VU pro-communist. Vu was certain to win the suit. Whereupon, very conveniently, Premier Ky put novelist Vu in jail.

This is almost the equivalent of having the Johnson administration jail two writers after Sen. Tom Dodd had sued them and they are about to win.

Ky's high - handedness finally got to the point where ambassador Bunker's frowns plus the rivalry of powerful general Nguyen Van Thieu forced him to step down one notch in the race for President.

NORTH CAROLINA BOMBINGS

Five carefully timed bombs exploded in Wadesboro, N.C., all placed in the homes or offices of the five members of the school board who had stood staunchly for school desegregation. In one case, the oil company office of James A. Hardison Jr., chairman of the school board, was rippted to smithereens.

Paradoxically, the bombings occurred in the home town of Lamar Caudle, who served as assistant attorney general in charge of the justice department's criminal division in the Truman administration, when anti-Negro trouble broke out in Columbia, Tenn., and when a Negro was kidnapped and taken across the North Carolina state line.

Caudle, though a southerner, moved immediately to invoke federal law. He called a grand jury to prosecute the guilty. There was no delay. Caudle's boss at that time was attorney general Tom Clark.

Today, Ramsey Clark, his son, is attorney general. Three days after the Wadesboro bombing the justice department was asked what it was going to do about the obvious flouting of federal law in North Carolina. The answer was: "We're investigating."

Styles Stem From Gaudy Stockings

NEW YORK (AP) — Current supershort styles stem from gaudy stockings, a fashion that baseball players thought of years ago. Once stockings were accessories. Now they are the costumes themselves.

At the fall collection previews Wednesday, the first of a four-day schedule arranged by the New York Couture Group, designers who seldom agree on anything were in unison in hailing the crazy leg as the root of all fashion.

As if to prove that diverse backgrounds means nothing, makers of banlon fabrics brought Ken Scott from Milan, Iranian-born Ferro Ettehadieh from his posh mansion in Palm Beach and Gayle Kirkpatrick from the garment district to show off their wares. Most of their offerings had to do with stockings.

Discotheque-loving Ferro believed that the curvy gams of girls should be covered with swirls of purple, pink, and green. Ken Scott sent his stocking stuffers out in hues like a fire in the night, while Kirkpatrick had painted conch shells and butterflies bigger than life on browns and blacks for his ladies' tights.

All three designers topped these tights, but very sparingly sometimes, with tunics or shifts. Anything longer was slit to the arm on the sides to preserve the all-important long view of loud legs.

Lilbourn was to have met Cairo and Pocahontas and Sikeston Blues were to have battled.

The tournament has been extended a day with the finals of the tournament tentatively set for Sunday afternoon.

Rain threatens again today and in case of another cancellation or cancellations the tournament will be moved ahead one day.

THE ANNUAL Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo will open its gates August 10-13 for one of the biggest shows in recent years.

James West and Molly Bee will be the stars of this year's attraction in which $5,500 in purses plus entry fees will be given away.

The arena is located on the Northwest Corner of the Sikeston airport, seats 10,000 and the Jaycee's report that more than 100,000 persons attended the 1965 and 1966 Jaycee Bootheel Rodeos.

GUNNERS WILL get two shots at deer in Missouri this fall--from Nov. 18 - 22 and Dec. 1-3.

The Missouri Conservation Commission apparently decided that too many does and fawns were killed in recent years.

It is the first time the season has been split and the first time it has run as long as eight days. A week has been the usual season.

The archery season on deer will run from October through Dec. 15. For the first time, the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service is opening part of the Mingo Refuge, near Puxico, for archery hunters.

The St. Louis Football Cardinals announced season ticket sales have reached a record 35,000. Sales will continue through July 31.

Headlining the speakers will be Johnny Oldham, Western Kentucky State University, Guy Strong, Kentucky Wesleyan College and Dick Campbell, Carson Newman College.

Bill McClain, Treadwell High School basketball coach in Memphis, Tenn. will also speak.

EVERYBODY AGREED it wasn't the normal pushing and shoving match ballplayers like to call a fight.

Both the Cincinnati Reds' and the St. Loui Cardinals' benches and bullpens emptied in the fifth inning of the Cardinals' 7-3 victory Monday night.

The fight started when pitcher Bob Gibson and the Reds' Tony Perez exchanged words after Perez flied out. The players massed around the mound and suddenly fists were flying.

"I got between Gibson and Perez," said Orlando Cepeda, who traded blows with second baseman Pete Rose, "and tried to separate them. People always talk about Latins fighting, and I didn't want anything like that here."

Cepeda said everything was under control until Cincinnati pitcher Bob Lee ran from the bullpen into the pack. "Lee came in, calling me and Gibson all sorts of names," Orlando said. "We didn't want to fight. That's for the birds."

Julian Javier went down on a close pitch by Don Nottebart in the third inning. In the fourth inning, Lou Brock was hit on the leg by a pitch. With Perez up in the fifth, Gibson sailed a pitch over Perez's head at the backstop.

"I don't think he was trying to hit me," Perez said, "but he might have thought he had to protect his team after Brock got hit. We started talking as I went back toward the dugout, but it was nothing serious.

"When we were on the mound," Perez continued, "Cepeda tried to prevent a fight. He told me in Spanish to take it easy. The fight started when Lee ran out. He though Cepeda was holding me."

STRENGTH IN NUMBERS

Overtime Duel to Reds

Aaron bided his time Wednesday night as Chicago's Rick Nye pitched around him in his first three trips to the plate. The fourth time, Aaron unloaded a three-run homer that helped Atlanta drop the Cubs 4-2.

Ruiz, Cincinnati's expert on National League benches, pinch hit for Jim Maloney in the 10th inning and made the most of his one trip to the plate. He doubled, stole third and then raced home with the winning run on Nelson Briles' wild pitch as the Reds shaded St. Louis 2-1.

Chicago's third straight loss to Atlanta kept the Cubs one-half game back of St. Louis in the battle for the National League lead. In other games, Los Angeles topped Pittsburgh 5-3, San Francisco nipped New York 2-1 and Philadelphia edged Houston 3-2.

Nye, only a rookie, knew enough to studiously avoid Aaron's menacing bat the first three times the Braves' slugger came to the plate.

Locked in a scoreless duel with Atlanta's Ken Johnson, Nye got into a hole in the seventh when Woody Woodward singled and Mack Jones walked.

Chuck Hartenstein relieved, and Aaron's 21st home run of the year sailed into the left field seats. Felipe Alou doubled home another Atlanta run in the eighth and that was enough to stand off a last-ditch Chicago rally in the ninth.

The Cardinals and Reds were tied at 1-1 after nine innings when Ruiz, who does so much bench sitting that he brings along his own cushion, batted for Maloney.

Gaylord Perry saved Mike McCormick's 10th victory with 2 2-3 innings of airtight relief as the Giants shaded the Mets.

Hal Lanier drove in San Francisco's winning run with a two-out single in the seventh and then Perry bailed McCormick out of a jam by getting Tommy Davis to rap into an inning ending double play in the bottom of the seventh.

Shoddy Houston fielding led to two of Philadelphia's three runs against the Astros as Rick Wise, with ninth-inning help from Dick Hall, won his third game.

Wise drove in a run with a fourth-inning single and successive errors on the hit by losing pitcher Mike Cuellar and Ed Mathews allowed another Phillie run to score.

"NEW MORALITY" RESULTS

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)— The "new morality" has greatly increased the number of young people in mental hospitals, a psychiatrist, Dr. Francis J. Braceland, told a Methodist meeting on medicine and theology.

He said reports from university and college psychiatrists show that liberalized college dormitory rules and more lenient attitudes toward sex have imposed stresses on some college women severe enough to cause emotional breakdowns.

THE NEW "WORD"

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)— According to the Canadian philosopher Marshall McLuhan, the spoken word gave way to the written word, but now "we are leaving the age of printing and passing into the age of electronic communications."

This has large implications for Protestant theology, says a theologian, the Rev. Dr. Howard Hageman. Writing in the Church Herald, he notes that God's Word had come to mean "the printed words of Scripture." However, he adds, "if the printed word is now slipping in favor of another kind of word," this forces "us to ask just what it is that we mean by the Word of God."

Mincher's Two-Run Shot In Ninth Gives 4-3 Win Over Boston

The California Angels had a terrible time hitting the ball Wednesday night, but almost every time they did it went out of the park.

Of the four hits they were allowed by Boston pitchers Jim Lonborg and Jose Santiago, the Angels made three of them good for homers, including Don Mincher's two-run shot in the bottom of the ninth that won the game 4-3. Roger Repoz and Paul Schaal hit the other ones.

Only Jim Fregosi had the temerity to hit anything less than a homer, a mere single. It came just before Mincher's homer, however, so perhaps the Angels will forgive the transgression.

The Red Sox themselves were 2-for-5 in the slugging department, getting homers from Joe Foy and George Thomas and just three other hits, all of them singles.

In other American League action Wednesday night, Chicago edged Baltimore 3-2 in 11 innings, Minnesota bombed New York 10-4, Detroit shaded Cleveland 3-2 and Washington beat Kansas City 5-3.

In the top of the ninth at Anaheim, the Red Sox, who had been trailing all the way, threatened to pull it out. With two out Jerry Adair singled and Thomas, two-run shot put them ahead 3-2.

Lonborg had pitched beautifully for seven innings for the Sox, giving up but two hits in all that time. Unfortunately, both hits were homers, Repoz' third of the season in the first inning and Schaal's fifth in the third.

George Brunet, in the meantime, was doing just about as well for the Angels. He allowed just three hits until the ninth, including Foy's 12th homer in the fourth inning. Thomas' homer in the ninth almost turned him into a loser, but Mincher's blast off Santiago put the winning smile on his face.

Chicago and Baltimore fought to a standstill until Tommie Agee delivered a single with two out in the 11th, scoring Jim Stewart who ran for J. C. Martin who led off the inning with a single.

Mike Adamson, 19, started his first game for the Orioles, stopped the Sox on three hits in six innings, driving in one run and scoring another.

Dick Reese and Ted Uhlaender carried the big sticks for the Twins, knocking in seven runs between them. Reese had a three-run homer and a total of four RBI while Uhlaender had a two-run shot and three runs batted in. It was the Twins' eighth straight victory.

Roy Oyler squeezed in Mickey Stanley in the eighth with the winning Detroit run after Stanley drove in Norm Cash with a triple earlier in the inning. Tony Horton homered for the Red Sox.

Frank Howard's 21st homer drove in two runs for Washington, and Cap Peterson's double accounted for two more. Howard's blast went 461 feet in the third inning and Peterson's hit came in the fifth.

67 Enrolled in Dexter Head Start

DEXTER - Sixty-seven children from Bernie, Bloomfield and Dexter are enrolled in the summer Head Start program at the First Missionary Baptist church.

The program differs from many other area Head Start programs in the Bootheel in that it is not attached to any school district. It is sponsored by the community action agency.

The church donated its facilities in kind for the program, including kitchen and classroom facilities, Gerald Fox, Head Start director, noted.

The Rev. Marshall E. Dark, pastor of the church, and church officials have cooperated in an effort to make the program a success, Fox said.

Head Start is primarily for preschool children from low-income families and strives to provide these children with social and learning experiences which may not have been available to them in their homes.

After participating in the program, the children should be better prepared to adjust to the learning experiences in the classroom when they start formal schooling.

The Dexter program has four classes, with the children divided into two groups for lunch, snacks and park activities.

The schedule calls for an hour of creative play in the morning, followed by a snack. The children also have a rest period and go to a nearby city park for an hour, where they use the playground facilities. They also get a hot lunch.

Play equipment used in the classrooms was donated in kind by the Bloomfield school system.

The children are given a medical checkup and any innoculations that are needed. At the end of the program a follow-up study will be made by the social worker, Mrs. Della Wiseman.

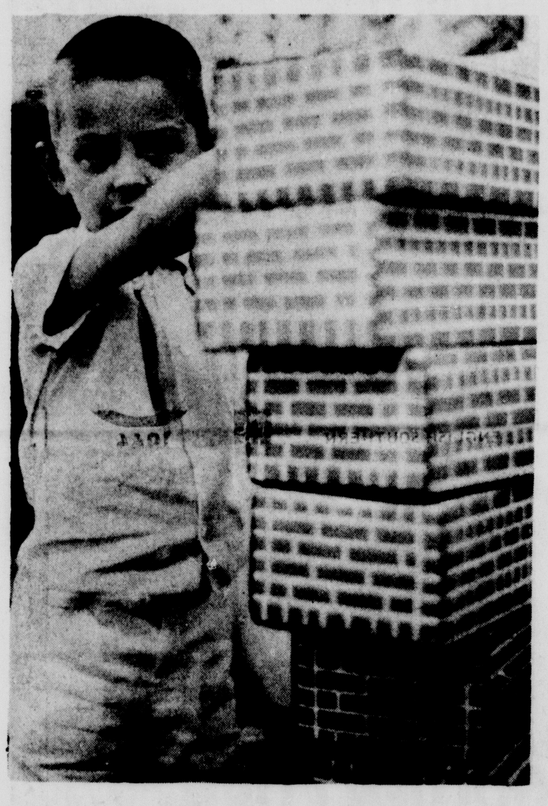

Other personnel in the Head Start program include:

Mrs. Ann C. Day, Mrs. Carolyn Brown, Miss Delores Banken and Mrs. Oralea Hawley, teachers.

Mrs. Mina Voss, Mrs. Georgia Griffin, Mrs. Doris Jean Pruitt, Mary Marie Phillips, Marilyn Kay Hale, Lora Berniece Durham, Leo Lasiter and Wanda Carwile, teacher-aides.

Mrs. Lida Thornburgh, secretary; Ruby Launis and Lola Young, cooks; Marie Miller, nurse, and Ruseel Dark, custodian.

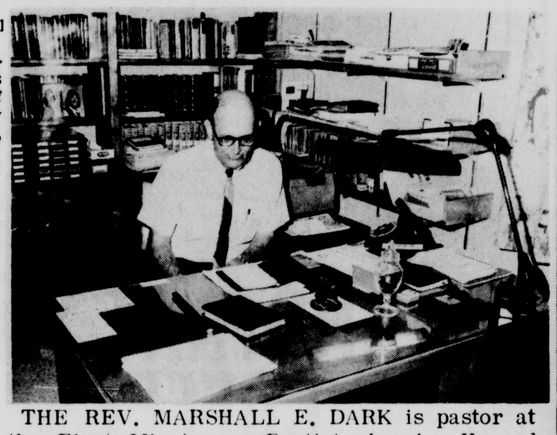

The Southeast Missouri Development Corporation at Portageville is administering the Head Start program for the six counties of Stoddard, Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

GREG REEVES builds a house with blocks at the Head Start program. The program is designed to help children adjust to the social and educational experiences of the formal classroom.

THE REV. MARSHALL E. DARK is pastor at the First Missionary Baptist church. He and other church officials have cooperated to make the Head Start program a success. The church facilities have been donated for the program.

THREE OFFICIALS OF the Head Start program at Dexter are, from left Gerald Fox, director, Mrs. Lida Thornburgh, secretary, and Mrs. Della Wiseman, social worker.

LOUISE BARNETT, left, and Oma Dejournet discuss the Head Start program at Dexter. Mrs. Dejournet, a teacher in the Sikeston schools, substituted as a teacher when one of the regular Head Start teachers at Dexter was ill last week.

$205,853 in Welfare Cash Disbursed

NEW MADRID -- County recipients of assistance from funds disbursed by county welfare for June were paid $205,852.50 with the greatest part of that amount going to those on the old age assistance list.

John M. Underwood, Sr., director, reported there were 1,536 on the old age assistance rolls and they received $105,311.68. Average old age assistance checks were $68.56. A total of 536 families with 1,685 children received $56,243.00 in the aid to dependent children category that being an average of $104.93 per family check.

From general relief funds 196 families of 228 persons received a total of $13,471 or an average check of $59.08 per person.

There were 235 persons on the rolls in the permanently and totally disabled field of the welfare service who received an average check of $70.13, the total for the month being $16,481.00 in the county.

The county had 79 persons on the pension for the blind list and each received $80 a month for a total of $6,320.00.

Service was given to 70 children and service was completed to two children, leaving a case load of 69. Of these children now being given services, 55 are in the homes of their parents or living with relatives, 12 are in foster boarding homes and two are in adoptive homes.

Amount spent for room and board, clothing, medicine, dental care and incidentals for the children under child welfare supervision from the county court was $318.87. Amount expended from state boarding funds was $318.88.

Amount expended under the drug and dental program totaled $7,388.07.

Fund for Capital Improvements To Shrink

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — An analysis of budget figures showed Wednesday next year's legislature won't have nearly as much money for capital improvements as was appropriated this year.

From general revenue (tax) money this year's legislature appriated about $546.3 million, including almost $75 million for capital improvements.

That was an increase of approximately 26.6 per cent over the previous year but not nearly all of the money can be spent in one year.

Studies by Arthur W. Betts, legislative fiscal affairs advisor, show that it takes most institutions three or four years to spend the money allotted to them for buildings. Each legislature has to reappropriate millions of dollars for this purpose.

Thus the $75 million allotted this time will stand up for several years.

Budget estimates indicate the next session may have only a little over $20 million for capital improvements. Much of this is expected to go for construction of a new maximum security prison, the location of which has not been determined.

Fred T. Wilkinson, state corrections director, has said he plans to ask the next legislature for about $17 million to build the new institution. Both Kansas City and St. Louis have been mentioned as potential sites.

John C. Vaughn, comptroller and budget director, hit his general revenue estimates almost on the nose for the 1966-67 fiscal year.

He estimated $445.6 million and collections totaled $445,119 million. That represented a gain of $30.437 million over the previous year, a little less than 10 per cent.

For the fiscal year started July 1, Vaughn has estimated intake of $475.3 million, based on normal growth. Most of last year's increase was accounted for by higher income and sales tax collections.

Table Rock Lake Fee Protest Meeting Slated

SHELL KNOB, Mo. (AP) -- With the federal regulations on recreation in the Table Rock lake area as the target, the Central Crossing Association— representing almost every tourist business in the vicinity — will amass its forces in Shell Knob at a meeting tonight.

The association's aim is the repeal of the "Golden Eagle Passport" program begun earlier this year under the Land and Water Conservation Act of 1965. High on the list of objections to the program has been the "use fees" charged tourists, campers, and fishermen in the 168 recreational sites involved.

Harold McIlrath, president of the association, said the group also will ask for an investigation of the policies and practices of all federal agencies concerned with the program.

Invitations to the meeting have been accepted by Rep. Durward Hall, R-Mo., and Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, D-Ark.

An observer is expected to attend on behalf of Sens. Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long of Missouri.

Representatives also are expected for Gov. Warren E. Hearne and Col. Frank Bane of the Little Rock Corps of Engineers.

Acceptances have been received from the mayors of Aurora, Neosho and Monett in Missouri, and Maryville, Ark.; the Southern Lakes Association, and the Ozarks Playground Association.

McIlrath pointed to a disturbance incident at Hermitage Beach on Pomme de Terre Reservoir Tuesday as "an indication of the rising public indignation about these areas."

It was reported by the Hickory County sheriff's office that 10 to 15 youths who had been drinking were involved in a dispute over entrance permits.

Skilled Worker Shortage Noted

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis metropolitan area needs considerably more skilled workers than it has, but it is not likely to get them in the near future, the St. Louis Regional Industrial Development Corp. reported Wednesday.

Dr. Sam Barone, associate professor of economics at St. Louis University, and Dr. Leroy J. Grossman, RIDC director of economic research, said the most pronounced shortages were in the general machine shop trades and a variety of skilled jobs pertaining to manufacturing.

The two men made a comprehensive study of labor supply and demand in the eight-county metropolitan area.

They found that there are critical shortages of nurses, medical technologist, therapists, licensed practical nurses and other medical personnel.

The demand for workers skilled in electronic data processing substantially exceeds the supply, the researchers said.

And there are not enough secretaries and stenographers to go around.

The answer to part of the problem, the report concluded, is to expand vocational and technical training facilities and step up in-plant training.

Half World Debt To U.S. Owed on World War 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Other nations now owe the United States more than $41 billion—about half in principal and interest from World War I debt.

Officials estimated today that foreign governments and organizations owe Uncle Sam about $20.8 billion as of last March 31 exclusive of interest and World War I debt.

Principal and interest from World War I added another $21 billion to the bill.

If past experience is any guide, the figures will go even higher.

Seventeen nations still owe money from World War I. At last listing 96 nations and 5 international organizations owed the other debt.

More than 99 per cent of the World War II and post-war debt is being repaid on time but the story is much different for World War I. Only Finland makes timely payments and is the only country not in arrears.

It's all legal, however. The United States in 1953 agreed that no further payments need be made on World War I debt until final settlement of German reparations. Payments actually stopped, except for Finland, in 1932.

What ever happened to the old fashioned Fourth of July, that I remember reading about and seeing in the movies? Back then (according to popular legend), the men, women, and children got together in the park for an old fashioned homey type picnic with ants and spills and all the usual fun a picnic has that certain way of bringing out.

The men drank beer, the kids ran wild, and the women gossiped and exchanged recipies as benefitted their more gentel nature. There were always sack races and pie eating contests, and lots of fireworks and swimming fun, and I think I even read once where they included a parade, a band and dancing in all these festivities.

I'm not real sure, but one thing I know they had, and that was togetherness.

Now its a different story and I totally blame my own sex! Ever since some nitwit of a woman stood up and demanded the right to vote, woman has had it! I would prefer to be a clinging vine any old time and be waited on and admired than to be thought of as just one of the fellows. You can pick the president any day of the week you like, just as long as you pull out a chair or open the car door for me. But oh no, someone had to open her big mouth and shout to the men that we were superior (we all knew it anyway, the big kick was not letting the men know we knew), and quickly man handed over all his rights, privileges, and his pants to us.

Listen lady, if men had had it so great, they wouldn't have been so anxious to get rid of it!!

Well anyway, as a result of all that stupidity on the part of some broad, this Fourth of July, found me fixing the picnic lunch, carting it to the park, the kids to the pool, women organizing the games, running here and there, and you know where the papas were? Yup, out on the golf course. They should have been doing the running and the organizing, and we ladies of gentler nature the fanning and the chatting.

Oh my, togetherness has long since gone, now its only femaleness, (and that word has just about lost its meaning).

All I can say is ladies, lets rebel! Let's sit right down on our middle age spread, and let the fellows run the show for awhile.

I'm pooped, to heck with progress, I say regress and maybe next year the fellows will light the firecrackers for a change.

Highway Toll Soars to 732

Late reports Wednesday of Independence Day weekend fatalities boosted the holiday traffic toll to 732, within range of the National Safety Council's estimate of 700 to 800.

The statistics broke a record no one wanted to break. The previous high mark for a Fourth of July weekend was 576 during last year's three-day holiday.

A nonholiday tally made by The Associated Press for comparative purposes showed 530 fatalities in a four-day period.

The Safety Council said the large number of fatalities reflects an increase in the number of drivers and motor vehicles and the millions of miles motorists traveled.

highlighted by the Thunderbirds, the famous U.S. Air Force official aerial demonstration team that will perform at 6:30 p.m., and the Screaming Eagles, a six-man skydiving team from Fort Campbell, Ky., performing several times.

Another main attraction will be a four - plane minimum interval take off (MITO) exercise, an event seldom seen by the public. The MITO exercise will consist of two B-52 Stratofortresses and two KC-135 Stratotankers lifting off the runway within 15 seconds of each other.

Static displays of tactical aircraft and equipment will be displayed with military personnel on hand to brief the public.

The purpose of the Open House is to report to the public how military tax dollars are being utilized.

While serving in Vietnam, the Yakutat will join other Navy and Coast Guard units for "Operation Market Time" patrols to help prevent infiltration of enemy troops and supplies into South Vietnam by sea.

Prior to the Vietnam assignment the duties of the Yakutat included collection of meteorological and oceanographic data, acting as aircraft ocean checkpoints and search and rescue of distressed ships and aircraft.

Burning Truck's Horn Saves Farm Family —

GOODMAN, Mo. (AP) — A freak accident, which resulted in the destruction of a two-story frame farm house, also sounded its own alarm and enabled Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Robbins to escape with their five children.

Ethmer Williams, Goodman volunteer fireman, said somehow a ton and a half truck caught fire in the yard. The electrical system was shorted and somehow the truck engine started. The truck rolled against the house setting it afire.

But fortunately the electrical short also started the horn that awakened the family, and enabled the seven occupants to escape.

A dozen Goodman and Neosho firemen were summoned to the farm, but the house was totally destroyed.

Model Expectant Parents

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Now both Rosie the whooping crane and her mate Crip, are model expectant parents and zoo officials hope the marriage will yield two infant birds of a rare species.

Fred Stark, director of the San Antonio zoo, said Wednesday Rosie's two eggs may hatch this weekend.

Crip and Rosie were mated last year. Rosie laid eggs on June 7 and 9.

There were 45 cranes left in the wild, Stark said, when officials counted them last spring. He said there are 12 more in captivity.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

By Lynn Twitty

Construction of the building units in the first phase of the school's building expansion plan should begin at once. The buildings included in this first phase are: an addition to the library at Senior High, enlargement of the kitchen and dining facilities, two classrooms to be added to the science-math complex and a nine-classroom, shop or laboratory expansion of the vocational school. The vocational school is a part of the comprehensive Senior High School and is used not only for day school classes for our high school classes and those of neighboring communities, but also for a very extensive day and evening school program for youth and adults.

The Clinton Construction Company of Sikeston was awarded the contract as a result of their low bid. The total bid for this phase of the building program was $505,124. The bid was about six percent above our estimated cost, due to, we assume, the extremely rapid rise of construction costs during the last few months. Some schools have reported bids coming in 20-25% over their original estimated cost of construction.

As usual, our budget is extremely tight but it is the opinion of the Board that all of the program as originally planned, (the second phase to include a new elementary school and field house) can be completed.

The units included in the first phase were placed first in priority because they most affect the educational program, because these facilities were the most crowded and because some federal funds allocated to us for expansion of the vocational school had to be committed before the end of the fiscal year, June 30th. Planning for school additions or new buildings is - or at least should be - a slow and painstaking process. Many people, in addition to the architects and engineers and including Board members, teachers, administrators and lay people are involved in numerous meetings and planning sessions. Logically the results should better serve the educational needs of our community and use the taxpayer's dollar more effectively than if we merely turn the whole job over to the architect. We expect, that if all goes well, the plans for the second phase - the elementary school and the field house, should be ready for final Board approval by late summer. Making predictions about when a building program, of this magnitude is completed, and which involves labor problems, the difficulty of getting materials on time, federal and state building and wage restrictions, the weather and a miscellany of other elements, is about as risky as handicapping a horse race, but somehow or other the Board will get these buildings which are essential for better schools for our kids and the adults whom we serve. We believe their past practice of placing first those buildings which are directly related to and most necessary for our educational program is and will continue to be sound. That is: classrooms, laboratories and libraries and then those extras which also are necessary for education, athletic facilities, field houses and auditoriums, but are not quite so important as a classroom where the student receives his basic education. Fortunately, we have somehow arrived at the point where some of these second priority buildings, such as the field house, can be added. We hope that some means of financing an auditorium-theatre type facility, possibly through a joint school board-city government action, can come in the not too distant future.

A recent federal court order prohibiting use of the "track" system in the Washington, D.C. public schools does not necessarily prohibit this type of student grouping or placement in all schools but does raise some questions about it.

The judge who made this ruling contended that children in that particular school were grouped on the basis of standarized tests which in many cases did not reveal the innate intelligence of the individual but rather scored him on the basis of experiences and those coming from lower income groups, primarily Negro children, had not had the experiences which enable them to score well.

We have used a modification of the track system in our school for several years. We place children into classes on the basis of a number of measures, only one of which is the standardized test. We also place them in individual classes on this basis rather than into tracks one, two or three in which the student takes all of his classes at a particular level. We find that children should be placed in a fast learning group, for example in English, but that he learns best in a slower learning class in another subject such as perhaps mathmetics.

We believe that it makes sense to place children into classes with other students whose abilities allow them to proceed at about the same rate, rather than to place the fast learner with a slow learner. In the latter system, the teacher must generally prepare either for the fast group or the slow group and the other is frequently lost or not challenged to learn.

The public school has long been the favorite, "whipping boy" of our society. Johnny can't read, and the fault is all in the schools. Forgetting that kids, on the average, read better than ever before. They can't spell. There are too many "frills". The slaughter on the highways is due to the school's failure to teach people to drive. Think of any ill in our society and the simplest way to explain it is to blame it on the schools.

Naturally the schools are not doing the job that could be done. In fact, we know how to do a darn sight better. But all of this takes more money and this in essence means more highly trained people and the support of a public that in most cases is reluctant to accept change. Then, too, sometimes we just simply don't do as well as we should, we fail, we make mistakes - fall flat on our faces. We also suspect that people in other vocations are not always 100% successful in obtaining their aims.

The latest in accusations against the schools is that they contribute to delinquency. This is what the President's Crime Commission stated in their report, "The schools have not adequately adapted to the new social and economic conditions, with the results that these shortcomings contribute to heightened delinquency".

They said that schools themselves are forcing student dropouts in some cases by failing to concentrate on slow learners, prejudging slum children as those whose learning abilities are lower than middle-class white people and in instances by labeling children as troublemakers, passing the word among teachers and making conditions so uncomfortable that the youth wants to leave school.

About anything that can be said applies to some school somewhere in the United States. Doubtless in some instances these accusations are true but if society expects schools to remedy all of its ills, to accomplish all of the good purposes that can be gained, then that society must be willing to pay the price in money, must accept the changes that are necessary, and to give education the attention that it must have if it is to achieve these goals.

The wages which can be paid to workers on public school construction jobs in certain Southeast Missouri counties, by law, can not be less than a minimum set by the Missouri Department of Labor for this section of the state. Incidentally, this rate may vary widely in the different sections of the state. Sikeston, in the St. Louis union jurisdiction, has the highest wage rate in the state. For example, New Madrid and Mississippi Counties are not in the St. Louis area and consequently can build very considerably cheaper than we can. Frequently, the minimum wage for certain crafts set by the union is above the state scale.

Some of the minimum scales which must be paid on our school building program, for which a contract was let last week, and this includes: the basic hourly rate; Health and Welfare; pensions; vacations and apprentice training and other fringe benefits. These hourly rates are: electricians, $6.42; laborers, $3.27; pipe fitters, $7.28 and plumbers, $5.46. Others of the various crafts range between these scales.

The meal was served by the Morley Eastern Star.

Practical Nurse Students Return

Students of Sikeston public schools practical nurse program returned June 28 from St. Joseph, where they attended the State National Association for Practical Nurse Education Service and Convention. They were guest at events prepared by the host chapter of the Licensed Practical Nurses Association June 26 and participated June 27 in the student processional which included 382 student nurses from all over Missouri.

This year Sikeston students won permanent possession of the original membership trophy, which must be won three consecutive years by the same school to become a permanent award. Also, Sikeston's LPN Association had the second greatest increase percentagewise in membership in the state.

This trip was made possible through the sponsorship of organizations, businesses and individuals throughout the area served by this training program. Students through individual and group projects also earned money to help defray expenses.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A statistical survey shows a sharp increase in the number of Australian missionaries serving overseas. The number rose 1,656 between 1959 and 1965 to a total of 4,416.

Davis Buys Business

July 6, 1917

Norman Davis, one of the partners in the Davis & Campbell straw firm, with offices in Peoples Bank building, bought Mr. Campbell's interest in the business last week and will conduct the business under his name alone.

To the Public! As a result of malicious gossip an article appeared in The St. Louis Globe-Democrat under the date of July 2, 1917, alleging among other things that arsenic had been found in flour of a Sikeston Milling Co., and that several hundred sacks had been confiscated. This statement is untrue. Not a sack of our flour has been confiscated. This statement is untrue. Not a sack of our flour has been confiscated here or anywhere else since we began business in 1893, and we hope our many friends and customers will not be misled, but will continued to demand the flour that has long been known as the standard few could equal and none excel. This article was inspired for the purpose of doing this concern and irreparable injury and we hope the public will weaken such underhanded efforts by placing no credence in the same. The Scott County Milling Co.

Tuesday morning two houses on North Handy street burned down and a third house was badly damaged by the fire. The fire originated in the house occupied by J. W. Walker and family, when a child in attempting to build a fire by using coal oil, dropped the can in the fire.

Thursday afternoon information came to the Standard office that the numbers drawn for Missouri in the first war draft had been released in St. Louis. The Sikeston numbers for both precincts were received over the telephone and the names corresponding to numbers looked up. This information is not official, but no doubt is nearly correct. Following are the names that correspond to the numbers received: Ward One -- Harry B. Crouch, Ralph L. Righter, Reginald C. Buell, John R. Miller, Bert Shuffit, Roy C. Edwards, Bernard G. Gill, Edman S. Erdman, Fred Leo Gintert, Chas. A. Andres, Tosie Herbert Walker, Adolph Sewell, colored and W. Henderson, colored. Ward two -- Elizah P. Casebeer, Elbert P. Ellis, Everett Couch, Raleigh C. Groves, James Little, Everett Ramsey, Harry Ethridge, Lee Perry, Chas. Wilson, Edward Stacy, Gid Morse, Curt Hughes, and Alvin I. Taylor.

Ann Landers

All That Chatter Okay Sugar!

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me what is happening to decent manners? I go to the market and the butcher says, "You are next, Honey." Then the checkout man says, "Here's your change, Doll." The senior citizen who carried my groceries to the car says, "Have a nice day, Sweetheart."

When the garage man called me "Beautiful" I decided to write a letter to Ann Landers. The final indignity occurred when I finished my letter to you, handed the letter to the postman and asked him to mail it. He said, "Of course I will, Sugar." I told him to skip it because I wanted to add another line.

(This one.) Where I was brought up, intimate names were reserved for a few favored few, on special occasions. Now they have become part of our everyday language. Is this the way it is everywhere or only in Los Angeles? --- MRS. WILL SUFFICE

Dear Mrs. Suffice: Folks are less formal than they used to be, and this goes for everywhere, not just Los Angeles. These people who use pet names are simply trying to be friendly -- not intimate. If you feel they are being TOO friendly, simply tell them, Baby.

Dear Ann Landers: There IS a way to handle crude people who pry into the lives of others and ask intimate questions.

I am an arrested alcoholic. For years I have been the victim of unbelievably cruel people who pose as "interested" friends. Because of my own insecurity, I had the ridiculous notion that I owed these people answers. I know now that I do not. Several months ago someone asked me, in the presence of my older child, whom we adopted, "What do you know about his REAL mother?"

It was on that day that I learned to cope with such boors. I now do one of three things:

1. Ignore the question -- as if I did not hear it.
2. If the person repeats the question and persists, I stare at him or her with a look of incredulity and say, "I don't think I heard your properly. Will you please repeat that?" If the question is repeated, I say, "I couldn't believe you were asking such a personal question." Then I go on and talk about something else.
3. Say, "I really don't care to discuss that subject with anyone."

I hope you will print my letter for the benefit of others who have not yet learned. I wish I had seen a letter like this 10 years ago. --- S. J.

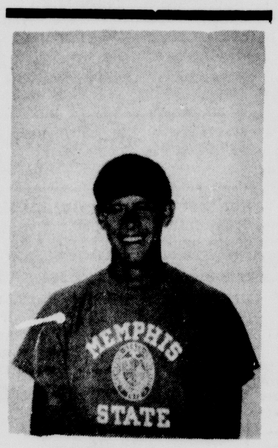

Dear S.: I am delighted to print your letter. It has a great deal of merit and I approve --- totally.

Confidential to: Who Needs Him? You do. And so do your children. Stop being such a stubborn mule and tell him you are sorry for behaving in such an outrageous manner. It is apparent that you did not have all the facts, which is usually the case when people go off half-cocked. An old English philosopher once said, "The degree of one's emotions varies inversely with one's knowledge of the facts -- the less you know, the hotter he gets."

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Judge Rules Man Can't Shed His Spooky Wife

BY Jack Strass L.L.D.

While insanity may be grounds for getting married, Feeney insisted it was also grounds for ending one, namely his. Immediately upon returning from his honeymoon, he claimed his wife became spooky. First, she began hearing things. Then, she began seeing things.

The payoff came, however, when she began waking him up in the middle of the night and insisting that people were running around in the basement. This might have been possible except for the fact that their house had no basement.

Whereupon, Feeney put his wife into a mental institution and started an action to annul their marriage on the grounds that his wife had not had the mental capacity to enter into the marriage.

"No sooner had we unpacked our honeymoon bags," he told the judge, "it became crystal clear. The woman I married was as nutty as a jay bird."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Feeney a reprieve from his marriage?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that while a marriage requires the mutual consent of two people of sound mind, there was no proof that Feeney's wife was of unsound mind at the time they were married. As a matter of fact, noted the judge, Feeney noticed his wife's mental illness after they returned from their honeymoon, but not before.

Settlement Looms In Bridge Dispute

CARUTHERSVILLE - An official of the bureau of public roads predicts that the dispute over the Mississippi River bridge proposed for Caruthersville will be settled this week.

The differences of opinion over the bridge center around the horizontal clearance between bridge piers. The Missouri Highway Department has planned 800 foot spans while the Corps of Engineers, prodded by navigation interests, is urging 900 foot spans.

Jack Wilkes, head of the bureau of Public Road's bridge division, said that "we fully expect to make a compromise recommendation, probably some time next week."

A report from Washington said that Wilkes visited the Missouri Highway Department in Jefferson City to discuss the bridge plans. There were indications that a compromise might have been reached.

Marvin J. Snider, head of the Missouri highway agency, voiced great displeasure two weeks ago about not being able to find out the status of the application to build the bridge.

However, the state agency and the bureau of public roads has been in general agreement over the bridge specifications and argued that the added cost of the wider spans, about $1.5 million, was not necessary.

The application submitted by Missouri seeks a permit to put one pier at each side of the river's 1,600 foot navigable portion and one pier in the middle to create two 800 foot spans.

Navigation interests and the corps of engineers, however, urge wider spans. They have proposed that there either be two 900 foot spans or an irregular arrangement of piers.

Snider told the Journal that he had conferred with Wilkes and agreed to make changes in the bridge plans. However, until they are acted upon by the U.S. coast guard, which has the final authority since the department of transportation came into existence, the specifications will be uncertain.

Snider, who is chief engineer of the state agency, said he was impressed by Wilkes' apparent interest in getting the bridge question resolved. He also said the engineers are working in Jefferson City now to determine the best structural design for the bridge.

Shipping interests claim that tows moving downstream with the current require wider clearance than do tows going against the current, which are easier to control. This has been their argument for the wider spans.

Wilkes indicated that with the plans in the hands of the coast guard the final answer to the big question should be given soon.

The bridge, which will cross the Mississippi River just south of Caruthersville, is part of the Interstate System and is to be financed with 90 per cent federal funds, and 10 per cent from the states of Missouri and Tennessee.

It will carry Interstate 155, a spur route to ink with I-55 south of Hayti and I-40 near Jackson, Tenn. It will be the only bridge across the Mississippi between Memphis and Cairo.

Dear Sir:

People who voice their opinions on the war in Vietnam are divided into two categories - either "hawks" or "doves." There is another group, however, which fits into neither category and might properly be called "owls." Their wisdom allows them to learn from history, so as not to repeat it and make the same mistakes.

The "owls" see the similarity between the Vietnamese war and the "police action" of Korea, the war which America didn't win, and don't want this to happen again. Realizing that the stalemate of Korea brought no peace, they advocate peace through victory.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Earl M. Compton

AT&T Ordered To Trim Profits

WASHINGTON (AP)— The government has ordered giant American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to curb profits on part of its operations and to slash its interstate rates $120 million a year.

The Federal Communications Commission ordered AT&T Wednesday to operate its interstate and foreign operations which account for about 25 per cent of the company's over-all revenues— within a profit range of 7 to 7.5 per cent.

The commission in a unanimous 107-page order also directed the company to submit by Sept. 1 a plan for reducing interstate rates by $120 million a year. The plan is to become effective 30 days later.

AT&T called the FCC order "most disappointing. If allowed to stand for the long pull, this restriction on our earning prospects would inevitably slow down our effort to provide constantly more and better communications service to the public."

The FCC recalled that before 1964 it permitted AT&T to maintain interstate earnings at the 7.5 per cent level. In the spring of 1965 when profits inched past 8 per cent, the commission urged AT&T to cut its rates.

This resulted in lowered rates for long distance telephone calls in the evening.

But despite these rate reductions put into effect in late 1965, Bell System profits continued to rise. Last year, according to FCC figures, AT&T interstate earnings were 8.56 per cent.

In specifying that the Bell System by Sept. 1 must submit a plan to reduce rates by $120 million— about 3 per cent of its interstate earnings— the FCC did not say how the reduction is to be accomplished.

FTC Cracks Down on Pain Killer Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission says advertising which makes false claims about the benefits of various headache remedies must be halted— fast, fast, fast.

Control yourself, the commission in effect told manufacturers of pain relievers Wednesday in proposing a new rule aimed at what it called "unfair and deceptive advertising practices" the FTC said are used to push sales on nonprescription painkillers.

The commission implied the public is likely to swallow claims that one type of pain reliever works faster or is stronger even though, said the FTC, it appears the various brands are equally effective.

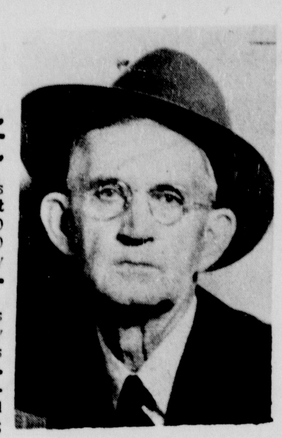

Indicating it may have reached the end of its rope in accepting such advertising, the commission set Sept. 15 as the deadline for filing written comments on its proposed rule.

The FTC announcement of the proposed new rule specified no products, companies or advertisements. The commission estimated there are about 40 producers and 100 distributors of analgesic drugs.

The FTC said advertisers should make claims of faster, stronger or longer-lasting analgesics a thing of the past unless they can prove a significant difference does exist in the individual brand.

Jungle Routes Strafed

SAIGON (AP) — High-flying American B52 bombers blanketed the Communist infiltration route through the jungled A Shau valley with about 500 tons of bombs in the past 24 hours, the U.S. Command said today.

The giant Stratofortresses made a record number of eight raids during the period, six of them Wednesday night and this morning against A Shau, due west of the big U.S. base at Da Nang.

The 20-mile-long valley enters South Vietnam from Laos about 30 miles below the demilitarized zone and has long been a vital infiltration route. It funnels supplies to most of the major Communist units operating in the northernmost area of South Vietnam, the sector where U.S. forces have recently been under heaviest attack.

The heavy strikes on the jungled valley were ordered after tactical bombers hitting the area in the past few days caused several landslides in areas where heavy rains had loosened embankments. The landslides caused Red supply convoys to bunch up at narrow points in the valley.

A U.S. spokesman said immediate assessment of the bomb damage was not available. The busiest 24 hours previously for the B52s was on Feb. 16, when seven raids were mounted.

While the B52s raided west of Da Nang, the U.S. Marines launched a new ground sweep southwest of the big American base and U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara left Washington on his ninth visit to Vietnam.

The U.S. Command said several battalions of the 7th Marine Regiment went out looking for enemy soldiers Wednesday in an area 12 miles south-southwest of Da Nang but made no contact in the first day of Operation Elliott.

Sporadic ground action was reported Wednesday, but reports to headquarters said 124 Communist soldiers were killed. Communist guns and mortars continued their harassing fire on the U.S. Marines south of the demilitarized zone, killing three Lathernecks and wounding 51 barrages on the sandbagged camps at Con Thien and Dong Ha.

The air war against North Vietnam continued unabated with 107 missions flown and two Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs lost to ground fire, making 597 U.S. combat planes reported lost over the North. One helicopter was also shot down over South Vietnam.

The two Thunderchief pilots were missing.

Major strikes were directed at the rail lines leading north from Hanoi to Red China, and Air Force pilots reported shooting up 23 boxcars in yards along the line running northeast from the capital.

It evidently was a major complex. The smoke from the raid rose 13,000 feet and was visible aboard the carriers 65 miles away in the Tonkin Gulf.

Air Force and Marine pilots also made a major effort against the Communist artillery positions which have been causing heavy casualties to the Marines below the demilitarized zone.

The weekly casualty report issued by U.S. Command reported a decline in American deaths but the reporting period, which ended last Saturday, did not include the hard fighting since then along the demilitarized zone.

McNamara told newsmen in Washington Wednesday night he would study how many more U.S. fighting men might be needed in Vietnam and check on progress of the pacification effort.

FIRST COTTON BLOOM reported was found Tuesday by Wayne Parker, on the C. D. Matthews farm, one-fourth of a mile north of Matthews. The land is farmed by Parker and his brother, Wade. The blooms were on a 90-acre cotton plot, waist high and of the Auburn M variety.

McNamara to Study Four Key Issues

SAIGON (AP) - The chief issues discussed during Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's visit to Saigon this weekend are expected to be more U. S. troops for the war, what to do about the Communist threat in the northern part of the country, the pacification program, the South Vietnamese army and U. S. aid.

Indications are that McNamara is planning a more searching review than he has made on some of his past trips. The U. S. Command is preparing to fight for plans it considers vital to military victory.

Here is how the major issues shape up:

Troop strength - This is the most widely publicized reason for McNamara's trip. Because of heavy North Vietnamese infiltration, U.S. commanders here want a major boost in manpower above the currently authorized 470,000 men. Military sources say Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U. S. commander, wants up to 200,000 more men than the 466,000 now in Vietnam.

Washington appears ready to boost the limit, possibly to around 550,000. But the Johnson administration is believed concerned because a larger increase will mean calling up reservists, greatly expanding the defense budget, and imposing a terrific strain on the inflation - ridden Vietnamese economy and the hard - pressed U.S.-Asian supply line.

The war in the north - U. S. Marines continue to take the heaviest casualties of any force in the country as they man positions below the demilitarized zone. U. S. bombers have not been able to silence the heavy artillery, rocket and mortar fire that have been responsible for most of the 8,000 U. S. casualties in the area so far this year. Some officers say the southern half of the demilitarized zone should be taken or that a seaborne invasion of the north should be carried out to encircle and destroy the Red guns.

Pacification - The latest in an eight - year series of pacification programs to win the loyalty of the countryside looked promising when it finally got off the ground in late February. However, government battalions assigned to protect the pacification workers have been killed or wounded, and whole teams have deserted. Corruption and devisive political maneuvering have been reported in some areas. The program is clearly sagging.

The South Vietnamese Army - Despite billions in aid and thousands of U. S. advisers, the Saigon government's troops with only a few notable exceptions have not been built into an effective, aggressive, dedicated military machine. Since American divisions were sent to Vietnam, Saigon's soldiers have been doing less and less fighting and launching fewer and fewer operations aimed at showdown battles with the enemy.

American aid - Reports to Washington by those outside the aid chain of command but charged with monitoring it remain pessimistic. The reports say only a small percentage of the annual $770 million flowing into the program will reach the peasants whose loyalty is the key to victory or defeat in Vietnam. U. S. sources have said no real improvement in the situation is possible unless some sort of control is maintained over funds and commodities once they pass into Vietnamese channels.

Two Fires Extinguished

Fire damaged a three-room cabin destroying the roof, one room and a porch at the rear of the Mrs. Pleas Malcolm residence, 113 Trotter, at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

The cabin is occupied by John Allen, who was working when the fire was discovered by a neighbor. Firemen had to break in the locked cabin to put out the fire of undetermined origin.

Allen said he built a fire in a coal stove before leaving at noon.

Firemen were called to put out a fire in a storage shed at the rear of the Little Giant Food Store, 523 Greer, at 2:17 p.m. Wednesday. The fire was believed to have started from burning trash.

Billings To Hear Case

BENTON - The attorney for Billy Gene Boshears, 103 Selma, charged with second degree murder in the shotgun slaying of Clennis Ables, 2010 Kentucky, Dec. 24, filed an application for a change of judge Wednesday in circuit court.

The attorney for Boshears asked that Judge Marshall Craig be disqualified from hearing the case on the grounds of prejudice.

The application was sustained. Judge William Billings of Kennett was named to hear the case. A trial date has not been set.

Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick said that new evidence may lead to the dismissal of the second degree murder charge against Boshears and the refiling of a first degree murder charge against him.

Two Injured In Accident

A four-car accident on East Malone near the intersection of Highway 61 at 5:12 p.m. Wednesday resulted in injuries to two drivers.

Genevieve Ozment, 106A Front St., was treated and released for a whiplash to the neck at Southeast Hospital in Cape Girardeau. Mrs. Ada Stone, 804 South Kingshighway, suffered injuries to the head and neck and was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Vestal M. Gosnell, 17, 740 East Kathleen, was charged with failure to have her car under control. Police said the accident occurred on wet pavement as the Gosnell vehicle skidded into the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Stone. Both cars were traveling east on Malone near the Martin Service Station when the impact occurred.

The Stone vehicle was forced into the rear of a car stopped for traffic driven by Genevieve G. Ozment. The Ozment vehicle was forced by the impact into the rear of another stopped car driven by Barbara M. Boyer, 720 Vernon.

In another accident on wet pavement Wednesday, Richard Copeland, 21, Bell City, was charged with destruction of city property after the car he was driving struck a whiteway pole on East Malone near Reuben. The accident occurred at 4:32 p.m. Copeland said another car had pulled in front of him and his car skidded into the pole after he touched his brakes.

41 Killed in German Crash

BERLIN (AP)— The fiery collision of a passenger train and a gasoline truck today near Langenweddingen, East Germany, took at least 41 lives and caused injuries to another 54 persons, the official East German news agency ADN reported.

ADN said that "among the dead and injured there were many children."

An earlier report from ADN said the explosion set four cars of the passenger train and the train station afire.

Wallace in Suit Not Policeman

The Richard Wallace whose name appears on the Scott county circuit court bar docket for July as defendant in a suit filed by Welfare Finance Corporation for collection of a note is not Richard N. Wallace, who is a policeman living at 309 Helen St.

The Wallace named in the suit is formerly of East Prairie and Oran. He was reported to have moved to Anna, Ill.

Case Dismissed When Witness Vanishes

BENTON -- A charge of selling intoxicants without a license against Louis Jimmerson, 108 Luther, president of the Sunset Improvement Club, was dismissed Wednesday in circuit court.

Scott County prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick said today the charge was dismissed when Willie Lane, formerly of Sikeston, the state's principal witness, failed to appear.

Lane had obtained permission of his employer to leave work and appear at the trial. He left home at about 8 a.m. Wednesday apparently intending to appear at the trial, but his whereabouts Wednesday were undetermined, Potashnick said.

Fears were expressed for Lane's safety when police could not find him. He reported for work today, but could not be reached this morning for comment.

Potashnick said Lane has been threatened twice at the point of pistols and has had to move his family.

Potashnick said today that he would like to refile the charge against Jimmerson but it will depend on Lane.

Lane was reported to have purchased liquor on April 26, at the Sunset Improvement Club. The transaction and signed affadavits concerning it formed the basis of a raid on the club the night of May 5, by Scott county authorities and Sikeston police.

Between 30 and 40 cases of beer and about three cases of whisky were confiscated.

Demonstrations were set off by about 75 patrons of the club following the raid. The group marched to the Cream Castle and hurled objects which broke the windows of two automobiles. They also appeared at the police station and sang freedom songs during two hours of unrest.

Viet Reds Getting More Adept With Mortar Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops fighting U.S. Marines below the demilitarized zone are using mortar and artillery fire with greater effect than ever before, say Pentagon experts.

The American sources suggested the North Vietnamese may have adopted an American technique — posting artillery spotters with forward infantry units.

It also was said the North Vietnamese may have better communications than in the past to transmit spotter information back to mortar and gun positions.

American experts said the increased effectiveness of enemy artillery and mortar fire is one of the most significant aspects of the heavy fighting around Con Thien this week.

In the past, the Communist North Vietnamese have aimed most of their mortar and artillery rounds at fixed U.S. positions.

But now, the American experts said, the enemy is hitting at moving U.S. units, firing salvos and then adjusting their ranges and directions as targets shift.

The North Vietnamese have dug in their artillery north of the Ben Hai River which forms the boundary between North and South Vietnam. The river runs through the middle of the six-mile-wide buffer zone, which has not lived up to its official demilitarized status for about a year.

The North Vietnamese troops bring mortars with them when they operate in the southern half of the demilitarized zone or below.

U.S. military sources said the volume of North Vietnamese mortar and gunfire has increased somewhat.

However, it is considered significant that the enemy is able not only to maintain heavy weapons fire but to increase its volume in the face of strong and persistent U.S. air attacks on supply lines carrying ammunition.

Rusk Pledges U.S. to Stay Until Viet Rights Assured

CHICAGO (AP)— In a speech that was delayed somewhat by demonstrators against the war in Vietnam, Secretary of State Dean Rusk pledged today that the United States will stay in that country "until the right of the South Vietnamese people to work out their own future, under a government of their own choice, has been secured."

As Rusk prepared to speak to delegates attending the Golden Anniversary convention of Lions International, a handful of demonstrators in the Chicago Stadium unfolded anti-Vietnamese War banners and began screaming:

"Mr. Rusk, you are a murderer."

Others in the audience ripped the banners away from the demonstrators and threw them on the ground. Ushers bodily removed two of the demonstrators from the stadium, dragging them out while they struggled.

The convention delegates booed when the demonstrators broke out their banners and cheered when they were ejected.

Rusk entered the stadium through a rear door and did not see a group of about 40 pickets at the main entrance.

He said there is more at stake than self determination for the Vietnamese — there is even more than security for the other nations of Southeast Asia.

"The greater question is whether aggression is to be allowed to succeed, thus opening the way for further aggression," Rusk asserted.

Rusk surveyed a wide range of foreign policy issues from Vietnam to the Middle East and to relations with the Communist world.

Discussing the war between Israel and the Arabs and how to settle it, Rusk restated the U.S. position in the United Nations General Assembly. Simply to order Israel to withdraw to positions held before the war broke out would be, Rusk said, "A prescription not for peace but for renewed hostilities.

"We believe that the goal must be a lasting settlement," he declared.

The United States is in Vietnam because the South was invaded from the North with "major organized units of the regular army," Rusk said.

Wrecked Apollo Craft Being Moved for Storage

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The wreckage of Apollo 1, built with visions of rocketing three astronauts to the moon, was packed in cardboard boxes and plastic bags today for trip by slow barge to Virginia.

The remains are being placed in a silver container the size of two house trailers which will protect the spacecraft components for 10 years should officials decide at a later date to reinvestigate the Apollo 1 fire.

The more than 1,000 packaged pieces of the ill-fated space vehicle leave Cape Kennedy next Wednesday aboard a flatbed trailer. They will then be hauled to an awaiting barge.

And six to eight days later Apollo 1 arrives at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Langley Research Center at Hampton, Va.

For the next decade, it will remain under the custody of Dr. Floyd L. Thompson, director of Langley and head of the review board which investigated the Apollo 1 fire that killed Air Force Lt. Cols. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee last Jan. 27.

Apollo 1's container— 40 feet long, 24 feet wide and 19 feet tall— will have a pure nitrogen atmosphere to prevent its components from corroding, NASA spokesmen said. The smalier pieces have been wrapped in nitrogen-filled plastic bags.

The container is made of steel, coated with aluminum. Three tiers of shelves for the boxes and bags line both sides and one end.

After arriving at Langley, the craft will be placed in a fenced-in area at the center's west end where NASA said it is to remain for 10 years.

No decision has been made as to what happens to Apollo 1 after that.

No Budget Cut Records Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1967 Congress may consider record high requests for new appropriations but at its current rate will fall considerably short of making record budget cuts.

It already has acted in whole or in part on requests for $126.8 billion in new funds. An estimated $20 billion still is to be considered.

That would make a total of $147 billion over which Congress has control, in addition to about $15 billion in permanent appropriations such as debt interest over which it has little or no control.

Of the 15 money bills slated for consideration this year, 11 have passed the House, and 4 have cleared both branches and become law.

Those enacted involved administration requests for $23.6 billion which were trimmed $284 million by Congress— a cut of 1.1 per cent.

The House has passed 11 bills for which requests totaled $126.8 billion. It cut them about $3 billion, or slightly less than 3 per cent.

If the Senate follows its normal pattern, some cuts made by the House will be restored. But even if the Senate goes along with the House on pending bills, the final budget cut for the year hardly is likely to reach the $5 billion goal set by members of the Appropriations Committees.

The current outlook is that the 1967 reduction will be in the neighborhood of $4 billion, or about 3 per cent.

That would be only half of the 6 per cent reduction voted by the 1963 Congress, which trimmed $6.5 billion from total requests for $110.3 billion, setting a modern record for cuts.

Billfold Missing

Jim Rodgers, 425 Helen, reported to police Wednesday afternoon that his dark brown billfold containing $51 in bills and a $6 check was missing from the family room at his residence. The billfold also contained credit cards and personal papers.

George Washington's father, Augustine, died in 1743 when his son was 11 years old.

Soviets Play up To Latins

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) --The Soviet Union began wooing Latin American members of the United Nations today in an effort to salvage something from the abortive U. N. Assembly session on the Middle East.

Assembly President Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan adjourned the 122-nation forum until next Wednesday to give members a chance to "bring about something that we might be able to refer to as a fruitful result."

Israeli officials, meanwhile, sought to allay a furor roused by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan's statement that the Gaza Strip, administered by Egypt before the June 5 war, would be incorporated into Israel.

Both the Israeli Defense Ministry and the Israeli delegation to the U. N. issued emphatic denials that the government of Israel had made any decision on the future of thestrip.

Informed sources said Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov was urging the Latin Americans to try to draft an acceptable compromise resolution from salvageable parts of the rival Latin American and nonaligned proposals which failed to get the needed two-thirds majority in the assembly Tuesday.

The U. N. members split almost evenly over the nonaligned draft, which demanded that Israel pull its troops out of Egypt, Jordan and Syria, and the Latin American proposal coupling a withdrawal demand with a demand that the Arabs and the state of war they have maintained against Israel since 1948. The Russians and the Arabs backed the nonaligned resolution, while the United States and Israel supported the Latin American draft.

Defeat of the nonaligned resolution was another setback for the Soviet Union, which had asked for the emergency assembly session and sent Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to press the Arab case.

There was considerable agreement that any resolution which could be adopted by the assembly would be no more than a general expression of hope for a peaceful resolution of the crisis and that the matter would revert to the Security Council.

Downs Eyes Senate Race

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — State Sen. John E. Downs, D-St. Joseph, said today he is "definitely interested in running for lieutenant governor" in 1968.

First reports of the senator's possible plans for making the race came from Don Stimble, publisher of the Fulton Sun-Gazette, who said he had visited with Downs over the holiday.

Downs confirmed the report this morning but added he would not make a final decision until the incumbent, Thomas Eagleton, has announced his plans.

Some political observers have been speculating that Eagleton will seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by Edward V. Long.

Downs, 50, has been state senator from the 34th District for two terms and before that was a member of the House. He is a close friend of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and was an outspoken opponent of the Democratic Party "Establishment" against which Hearnes revolted in the 1964 campaign.

He has described his political philosophy as "Least Governs Best." He is a strong supporter of mental health legislation and has worked to upgrade wages and working conditions of state employes.

He served with the Marine Corps in World War II and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and five air medals. He was a lieutenant colonel when the war ended.

Station Wagon Enters Highway, Six Injured

Six persons were injured in a station wagon-car collision Wednesday at 7:50 a.m. on highway 162, three miles east of Gideon.

A 1960 Chevrolet station wagon, driven by Garner Cossey, 35, St. Louis, pulled out of a private drive into the path of a 1966 Oldsmobile, driven by Alphus Barfoot, 55, Malden.

Injured in the Cossey car were Billy Cossey, nine, and Sharon Cossey, 12, cut on their arms. They were treated by a Gideon physician.

Cleo Cossey, 31, received chest injuries; Kenneth-Cossey, 15, and the driver both received head cuts.

Barfoot was cut on his face and had broken ribs. The four were taken to the Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett.

In a collision Wednesday at 12:35 p.m. on route W, two and one-half miles north of Cape Girardeau, a 1963 Rambler, driven by Kenneth Reiker, 23, Cape Girardeau, pulled out of a private drive, and was struck in the rear by a 1966 Chevrolet truck, driven by Wesley Farrow, Jr., 16, Cape Girardeau.

Reiker received cuts and a bruised shoulder. He was treated by a physician.

Fighting Heats up In Congo

KINSHASA, The Cong (AP)— The government radio reported hard fighting between Congolese forces and foreign mercenaries at Bukavu today and described the situation in the eastern Congo as grave.

The mercenaries were reported Wednesday to have been airlifted to Bukavu and Kisangani (Stanleyville), two major eastern cities. Quoting Congolese sources, the Belgian radio in Brussels said the foreign soldiers had taken a number of important eastern points and that Congolese troops had counter-attacked in Kisangani.

President Joseph D. Mobutu decreed a state of emergency throughout the country Wednesday and compiained to the United Nations Security Council of aggression by invaders sent from "Western countries." It was widely believed that the mercenaries were acting on behalf of ex-Premier Moise Tshombe, kidnaped and taken to Algeria last week.

The Belgian consul in Bukavu, on the eastern border north of Tshombe's former stronghold in Katanga province, reported to Brussels that fighting had broken out in the eastern Congo but gave no details.

Mobutu said foreign settlers had attacked the Congolese army in Bukavu and fighting was in progress.

The U. S. consul in Bukavu, Truston F. Crigler, reported to Washington that the town was "under the control of mercenary-led national army dissidents."

Mobutu reported two planeloads of foreign commandos had seized the airport at Kisangani, formerly Stanleyville and the biggest city in the northeast Congo, while the government radio claimed foreign mercenaries had parachuted into Bukavu.

Mobutu did not mention Tshombe, but the government radio said Tuesday that 200 Belgian mercenaries were ready to fly to the Congo to try to free the former premier if he was returned to Kinshasa to face a death sentence for treason. Mobutu's government has sent representatives to Algiers seeking Tshombe's extradition.

Authoritative sources in Algiers said they had pieced together the story of Tshombe's kidnaping. They said his chartered plane was hijacked last Friday and forced to fly to Algeria by members of his own entourage who probably wanted to collect a big reward offered secretly by Mobutu's government.

Diplomats in Algiers say Algeria almost certainly will extradite Tshombe if it is convinced of a pro-Tshombe plot in the Congo. Algiers holds Tshombe responsible for the death of the Congo's first premier, leftist Patrice Lumumba.

Israel Plans Rival Route

By ED BLANCHE

ELATH, Israel (AP)— Israel is pouring millions of dollars into this sweltering little Red Sea port to build a rival trade route to the Suez Canal.

The Israelis want to build a dry Suez to their Mediterranean ports with a railroad, a major highway and an oil pipeline system through the Negev Desert.

They estimate that through the port they are carving out of rock and sand they could funnel at least 3 million to 4 million tons of general cargo, 2 million tons of bulk cargo and 20 million tons of oil every year to Europe.

Two things stand in the way: the reluctance of Western shipping lines to use Elath because of fears of blacklisting by Arab countries and lack of financial security.

Israeli experts argue that unloading oil at Elath and pumping it overland for shipment to Europe would reduce its cost to Europeans. Before the recent Arab-Israeli war and the blocking of the Suez Canal, Egypt charged $1 a ton for oil passing through the canal. According to Israeli experts, piping the oil across the Negev would cut charges 50 to 65 per cent.

Trans-Israel pipelines and freight routes would neutralize Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's use of the Suez Canal as a political weapon and would deal another blow to Egypt's already shaky economy. Before the war, Egypt earned $200 million a year from Suez. An alternate route to Europe would drastically reduce this.

Jungle Routes Strafed

SAIGON (AP) — High-flying American B52 bombers blanketed the Communist infiltration route through the jungled A Shau valley with about 500 tons of bombs in the past 24 hours, the U.S. Command said today.

The giant Stratofortresses made a record number of eight raids during the period, six of them Wednesday night and this morning against A Shau, due west of the big U.S. base at Da Nang.

The 20-mile-long valley enters South Vietnam from Laos about 30 miles below the demilitarized zone and has long been a vital infiltration route. It funnels supplies to most of the major Communist units operating in the northernmost area of South Vietnam, the sector where U.S. forces have recently been under heaviest attack.

The heavy strikes on the jungled valley were ordered after tactical bombers hitting the area in the past few days caused several landslides in areas where heavy rains had loosened embankments. The landslides caused Red supply convoys to bunch up at narrow points in the valley.

A U.S. spokesman said immediate assessment of the bomb damage was not available. The busiest 24 hours previously for the B52s was on Feb. 16, when seven raids were mounted.

While the B52s raided west of Da Nang, the U.S. Marines launched a new ground sweep southwest of the big American base and U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara left Washington on his ninth visit to Vietnam.

The U.S. Command said several battalions of the 7th Marine Regiment went out looking for enemy soldiers Wednesday in an area 12 miles south-southwest of Da Nang but made no contact in the first day of Operation Elliott.

Sporadic ground action was reported Wednesday, but reports to headquarters said 124 Communist soldiers were killed. Communist guns and mortars continued their harassing fire on the U.S. Marines south of the demilitarized zone, killing three Lathernecks and wounding 51 barrages on the sandbagged camps at Con Thien and Dong Ha.

The air war against North Vietnam continued unabated with 107 missions flown and two Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs lost to ground fire, making 597 U.S. combat planes reported lost over the North. One helicopter was also shot down over South Vietnam.

The two Thunderchief pilots were missing.

Major strikes were directed at the rail lines leading north from Hanoi to Red China, and Air Force pilots reported shooting up 23 boxcars in yards along the line running northeast from the capital.

It evidently was a major complex. The smoke from the raid rose 13,000 feet and was visible aboard the carriers 65 miles away in the Tonkin Gulf.

Air Force and Marine pilots also made a major effort against the Communist artillery positions which have been causing heavy casualties to the Marines below the demilitarized zone.

The weekly casualty report issued by U.S. Command reported a decline in American deaths but the reporting period, which ended last Saturday, did not include the hard fighting since then along the demilitarized zone.

McNamara told newsmen in Washington Wednesday night he would study how many more U.S. fighting men might be needed in Vietnam and check on progress of the pacification effort.

FIRST COTTON BLOOM reported was found Tuesday by Wayne Parker, on the C. D. Matthews farm, one-fourth of a mile north of Matthews. The land is farmed by Parker and his brother, Wade. The blooms were on a 90-acre cotton plot, waist high and of the Auburn M variety.

McNamara to Study Four Key Issues

SAIGON (AP) - The chief issues discussed during Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's visit to Saigon this weekend are expected to be more U. S. troops for the war, what to do about the Communist threat in the northern part of the country, the pacification program, the South Vietnamese army and U. S. aid.

Indications are that McNamara is planning a more searching review than he has made on some of his past trips. The U. S. Command is preparing to fight for plans it considers vital to military victory.

Here is how the major issues shape up:

Troop strength - This is the most widely publicized reason for McNamara's trip. Because of heavy North Vietnamese infiltration, U.S. commanders here want a major boost in manpower above the currently authorized 470,000 men. Military sources say Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U. S. commander, wants up to 200,000 more men than the 466,000 now in Vietnam.

Washington appears ready to boost the limit, possibly to around 550,000. But the Johnson administration is believed concerned because a larger increase will mean calling up reservists, greatly expanding the defense budget, and imposing a terrific strain on the inflation - ridden Vietnamese economy and the hard - pressed U.S.-Asian supply line.

The war in the north - U. S. Marines continue to take the heaviest casualties of any force in the country as they man positions below the demilitarized zone. U. S. bombers have not been able to silence the heavy artillery, rocket and mortar fire that have been responsible for most of the 8,000 U. S. casualties in the area so far this year. Some officers say the southern half of the demilitarized zone should be taken or that a seaborne invasion of the north should be carried out to encircle and destroy the Red guns.

Pacification - The latest in an eight - year series of pacification programs to win the loyalty of the countryside looked promising when it finally got off the ground in late February. However, government battalions assigned to protect the pacification workers have been killed or wounded, and whole teams have deserted. Corruption and devisive political maneuvering have been reported in some areas. The program is clearly sagging.

The South Vietnamese Army -Despite billions in aid and thousands of U. S. advisers, the Saigon government's troops with only a few notable exceptions have not been built into an effective, aggressive, dedicated military machine. Since American divisions were sent to Vietnam, Saigon's soldiers have been doing less and less fighting and launching fewer and fewer operations aimed at showdown battles with the enemy.

American aid - Reports to Washington by those outside the aid chain of command but charged with monitoring it remain pessimistic. The reports say only a small percentage of the annual $770 million flowing into the program will reach the peasants whose loyalty is the key to victory or defeat in Vietnam. U. S. sources have said no real improvement in the situation is possible unless some sort of control is maintained over funds and commodities once they pass into Vietnamese channels.

Two Fires Extinguished

Fire damaged a three-room cabin destroying the roof, one room and a porch at the rear of the Mrs. Pleas Malcolm residence, 113 Trotter, at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

The cabin is occupied by John Allen, who was working when the fire was discovered by a neighbor. Firemen had to break in the locked cabin to put out the fire of undetermined origin.

Allen said he built a fire in a coal stove before leaving at noon.

Firemen were called to put out a fire in a storage shed at the rear of the Little Giant Food Store, 523 Greer, at 2:17 p.m. Wednesday. The fire was believed to have started from burning trash.

Billings To Hear Case

BENTON - The attorney for Billy Gene Boshears, 103 Selma, charged with second degree murder in the shotgun slaying of Clennis Ables, 2010 Kentucky, Dec. 24, filed an application for a change of judge Wednesday in circuit court.

The attorney for Boshears asked that Judge Marshall Craig be disqualified from hearing the case on the grounds of prejudice.

The application was sustained. Judge William Billings of Kennett was named to hear the case. A trial date has not been set.

Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick said that new evidence may lead to the dismissal of the second degree murder charge against Boshears and the refiling of a first degree murder charge against him.

Two Injured In Accident

A four-car accident on East Malone near the intersection of Highway 61 at 5:12 p.m. Wednesday resulted in injuries to two drivers.

Genevieve Ozment, 106A Front St., was treated and released for a whiplash to the neck at Southeast Hospital in Cape Girardeau. Mrs. Ada Stone, 804 South Kingshighway, suffered injuries to the head and neck and was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Vestal M. Gosnell, 17, 740 East Kathleen, was charged with failure to have her car under control. Police said the accident occurred on wet pavement as the Gosnell vehicle skidded into the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Stone. Both cars were traveling east on Malone near the Martin Service Station when the impact occurred.

The Stone vehicle was forced into the rear of a car stopped for traffic driven by Genevieve G. Ozment. The Ozment vehicle was forced by the impact into the rear of another stopped car driven by Barbara M. Boyer, 720 Vernon.

In another accident on wet pavement Wednesday, Richard Copeland, 21, Bell City, was charged with destruction of city property after the car he was driving struck a whiteway pole on East Malone near Reuben. The accident occurred at 4:32 p.m. Copeland said another car had pulled in front of him and his car skidded into the pole after he touched his brakes.

41 Killed in German Crash

BERLIN (AP)— The fiery collision of a passenger train and a gasoline truck today near Langenweddingen, East Germany, took at least 41 lives and caused injuries to another 54 persons, the official East German news agency ADN reported.

ADN said that "among the dead and injured there were many children."

An earlier report from ADN said the explosion set four cars of the passenger train and the train station afire.

Wallace in Suit Not Policeman

The Richard Wallace whose name appears on the Scott county circuit court bar docket for July as defendant in a suit filed by Welfare Finance Corporation for collection of a note is not Richard N. Wallace, who is a policeman living at 309 Helen St.

The Wallace named in the suit is formerly of East Prairie and Oran. He was reported to have moved to Anna, Ill.

Case Dismissed When Witness Vanishes

BENTON -- A charge of selling intoxicants without a license against Louis Jimmerson, 108 Luther, president of the Sunset Improvement Club, was dismissed Wednesday in circuit court.

Scott County prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick said today the charge was dismissed when Willie Lane, formerly of Sikeston, the state's principal witness, failed to appear.

Lane had obtained permission of his employer to leave work and appear at the trial. He left home at about 8 a.m. Wednesday apparently intending to appear at the trial, but his whereabouts Wednesday were undetermined, Potashnick said.

Fears were expressed for Lane's safety when police could not find him. He reported for work today, but could not be reached this morning for comment.

Potashnick said Lane has been threatened twice at the point of pistols and has had to move his family.

Potashnick said today that he would like to refile the charge against Jimmerson but it will depend on Lane.

Lane was reported to have purchased liquor on April 26, at the Sunset Improvement Club. The transaction and signed affadavits concerning it formed the basis of a raid on the club the night of May 5, by Scott county authorities and Sikeston police.

Between 30 and 40 cases of beer and about three cases of whisky were confiscated.

Demonstrations were set off by about 75 patrons of the club following the raid. The group marched to the Cream Castle and hurled objects which broke the windows of two automobiles. They also appeared at the police station and sang freedom songs during two hours of unrest.

Viet Reds Getting More Adept With Mortar Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops fighting U.S. Marines below the demilitarized zone are using mortar and artillery fire with greater effect than ever before, say Pentagon experts.

The American sources suggested the North Vietnamese may have adopted an American technique — posting artillery spotters with forward infantry units.

It also was said the North Vietnamese may have better communications than in the past to transmit spotter information back to mortar and gun positions.

American experts said the increased effectiveness of enemy artillery and mortar fire is one of the most significant aspects of the heavy fighting around Con Thien this week.

In the past, the Communist North Vietnamese have aimed most of their mortar and artillery rounds at fixed U.S. positions.

But now, the American experts said, the enemy is hitting at moving U.S. units, firing salvos and then adjusting their ranges and directions as targets shift.

The North Vietnamese have dug in their artillery north of the Ben Hai River which forms the boundary between North and South Vietnam. The river runs through the middle of the six-mile-wide buffer zone, which has not lived up to its official demilitarized status for about a year.

The North Vietnamese troops bring mortars with them when they operate in the southern half of the demilitarized zone or below.

U.S. military sources said the volume of North Vietnamese mortar and gunfire has increased somewhat.

However, it is considered significant that the enemy is able not only to maintain heavy weapons fire but to increase its volume in the face of strong and persistent U.S. air attacks on supply lines carrying ammunition.

Rusk Pledges U.S. to Stay Until Viet Rights Assured

CHICAGO (AP)— In a speech that was delayed somewhat by demonstrators against the war in Vietnam, Secretary of State Dean Rusk pledged today that the United States will stay in that country "until the right of the South Vietnamese people to work out their own future, under a government of their own choice, has been secured."

As Rusk prepared to speak to delegates attending the Golden Anniversary convention of Lions International, a handful of demonstrators in the Chicago Stadium unfolded anti-Vietnamese War banners and began screaming:

"Mr. Rusk, you are a murderer."

Others in the audience ripped the banners away from the demonstrators and threw them on the ground. Ushers bodily removed two of the demonstrators from the stadium, dragging them out while they struggled.

The convention delegates booed when the demonstrators broke out their banners and cheered when they were ejected.

Rusk entered the stadium through a rear door and did not see a group of about 40 pickets at the main entrance.

He said there is more at stake than self determination for the Vietnamese — there is even more than security for the other nations of Southeast Asia.

"The greater question is whether aggression is to be allowed to succeed, thus opening the way for further aggression," Rusk asserted.

Rusk surveyed a wide range of foreign policy issues from Vietnam to the Middle East and to relations with the Communist world.

Discussing the war between Israel and the Arabs and how to settle it, Rusk restated the U.S. position in the United Nations General Assembly. Simply to order Israel to withdraw to positions held before the war broke out would be, Rusk said, "A prescription not for peace but for renewed hostilities.

"We believe that the goal must be a lasting settlement," he declared.

The United States is in Vietnam because the South was invaded from the North with "major organized units of the regular army," Rusk said.

Wrecked Apollo Craft Being Moved for Storage

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The wreckage of Apollo 1, built with visions of rocketing three astronauts to the moon, was packed in cardboard boxes and plastic bags today for trip by slow barge to Virginia.

The remains are being placed in a silver container the size of two house trailers which will protect the spacecraft components for 10 years should officials decide at a later date to reinvestigate the Apollo 1 fire.

The more than 1,000 packaged pieces of the ill-fated space vehicle leave Cape Kennedy next Wednesday aboard a flatbed trailer. They will then be hauled to an awaiting barge.

And six to eight days later Apollo 1 arrives at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Langley Research Center at Hampton, Va.

For the next decade, it will remain under the custody of Dr. Floyd L. Thompson, director of Langley and head of the review board which investigated the Apollo 1 fire that killed Air Force Lt. Cols. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee last Jan. 27.

Apollo 1's container— 40 feet long, 24 feet wide and 19 feet tall— will have a pure nitrogen atmosphere to prevent its components from corroding, NASA spokesmen said. The smaller pieces have been wrapped in nitrogen-filled plastic bags.

The container is made of steel, coated with aluminum. Three tiers of shelves for the boxes and bags line both sides and one end.

After arriving at Langley, the craft will be placed in a fenced-in area at the center's west end where NASA said it is to remain for 10 years.

No decision has been made as to what happens to Apollo 1 after that.

No Budget Cut Records Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1967 Congress may consider record high requests for new appropriations but at its current rate will fall considerably short of making record budget cuts.

It already has acted in whole or in part on requests for $126.8 billion in new funds. An estimated $20 billion still is to be considered.

That would make a total of $147 billion over which Congress has control, in addition to about $15 billion in permanent appropriations such as debt interest over which it has little or no control.

Of the 15 money bills slated for consideration this year, 11 have passed the House, and 4 have cleared both branches and become law.

Those enacted involved administration requests for $23.6 billion which were trimmed $284 million by Congress— a cut of 1.1 per cent.

The House has passed 11 bills for which requests totaled $126.8 billion. It cut them about $3 billion, or slightly less than 3 per cent.

If the Senate follows its normal pattern, some cuts made by the House will be restored. But even if the Senate goes along with the House on pending bills, the final budget cut for the year hardly is likely to reach the $5 billion goal set by members of the Appropriations Committees.

The current outlook is that the 1967 reduction will be in the neighborhood of $4 billion, or about 3 per cent.

That would be only half of the 6 per cent reduction voted by the 1963 Congress, which trimmed $6.5 billion from total requests for $110.3 billion, setting a modern record for cuts.

Billfold Missing

Jim Rodgers, 425 Helen, reported to police Wednesday afternoon that his dark brown billfold containing $51 in bills and a $6 check was missing from the family room at his residence. The billfold also contained credit cards and personal papers.

George Washington's father, Augustine, died in 1743 when his son was 11 years old.

Soviets Play up To Latins

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) --The Soviet Union began wooing Latin American members of the United Nations today in an effort to salvage something from the abortive U. N. Assembly session on the Middle East.

Assembly President Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan adjourned the 122-nation forum until next Wednesday to give members a chance to "bring about something that we might be able to refer to as a fruitful result."

Israeli officials, meanwhile, sought to allay a furor roused by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan's statement that the Gaza Strip, administered by Egypt before the June 5 war, would be incorporated into Israel.

Both the Israeli Defense Ministry and the Israeli delegation to the U. N. issued emphatic denials that the government of Israel had made any decision on the future of the strip.

Informed sources said Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov was urging the Latin Americans to try to draft an acceptable compromise resolution from salvageable parts of the rival Latin American and nonaligned proposals which failed to get the needed two-thirds majority in the assembly Tuesday.

The U. N. members split almost evenly over the nonaligned draft, which demanded that Israel pull its troops out of Egypt, Jordan and Syria, and the Latin American proposal coupling a withdrawal demand with a demand that the Arabs and the state of war they have maintained against Israel since 1948. The Russians and the Arabs backed the nonaligned resolution, while the United States and Israel supported the Latin American draft.

Defeat of the nonaligned resolution was another setback for the Soviet Union, which had asked for the emergency assembly session and sent Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to press the Arab case.

There was considerable agreement that any resolution which could be adopted by the assembly would be no more than a general expression of hope for a peaceful resolution of the crisis and that the matter would revert to the Security Council.

Downs Eyes Senate Race

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — State Sen. John E. Downs, D-St. Joseph, said today he is "definitely interested in running for lieutenant governor" in 1968.

First reports of the senator's possible plans for making the race came from Don Stimble, publisher of the Fulton Sun-Gazette, who said he had visited with Downs over the holiday.

Downs confirmed the report this morning but added he would not make a final decision until the incumbent, Thomas Eagleton, has announced his plans.

Some political observers have been speculating that Eagleton will seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by Edward V. Long.

Downs, 50, has been state senator from the 34th District for two terms and before that was a member of the House. He is a close friend of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and was an outspoken opponent of the Democratic Party "Establishment" against which Hearnes revolted in the 1964 campaign.

He has described his political philosophy as "Least Governs Best." He is a strong supporter of mental health legislation and has worked to upgrade wages and working conditions of state employes.

He served with the Marine Corps in World War II and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and five air medals. He was a lieutenant colonel when the war ended.

Station Wagon Enters Highway, Six Injured

Six persons were injured in a station wagon-car collision Wednesday at 7:50 a.m. on highway 162, three miles east of Gideon.

A 1960 Chevrolet station wagon, driven by Garner Cossey, 35, St. Louis, pulled out of a private drive into the path of a 1966 Oldsmobile, driven by Alphus Barfoot, 55, Malden.

Injured in the Cossey car were Billy Cossey, nine, and Sharon Cossey, 12, cut on their arms. They were treated by a Gideon physician.

Cleo Cossey, 31, received chest injuries; Kenneth-Cossey, 15, and the driver both received head cuts.

Barfoot was cut on his face and had broken ribs. The four were taken to the Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett.

In a collision Wednesday at 12:35 p.m. on route W, two and one-half miles north of Cape Girardeau, a 1963 Rambler, driven by Kenneth Reiker, 23, Cape Girardeau, pulled out of a private drive, and was struck in the rear by a 1966 Chevrolet truck, driven by Wesley Farrow, Jr., 16, Cape Girardeau.

Reiker received cuts and a bruised shoulder. He was treated by a physician.

Fighting Heats up In Congo

KINSHASA, The Cong (AP)— The government radio reported hard fighting between Congolese forces and foreign mercenaries at Bukavu today and described the situation in the eastern Congo as grave.

The mercenaries were reported Wednesday to have been airlifted to Bukavu and Kisangant (Stanleyville), two major eastern cities. Quoting Congolese sources, the Belgian radio in Brussels said the foreign soldiers had taken a number of important eastern points and that Congolese troops had counter-attacked in Kisangani.

President Joseph D. Mobutu decreed a state of emergency throughout the country Wednesday and compiained to the United Nations Security Council of aggression by invaders sent from "Western countries." It was widely believed that the mercenaries were acting on behalf of ex-Premier Moise Tshombe, kidnaped and taken to Algeria last week.

The Belgian consul in Bukavu, on the eastern border north of Tshombe's former stronghold in Katanga province, reported to Brussels that fighting had broken out in the eastern Congo but gave no details.

Mobutu said foreign settlers had attacked the Congolese army in Bukavu and fighting was in progress.

The U. S. consul in Bukavu, Truston F. Crigler, reported to Washington that the town was "under the control of mercenary-led national army dissidents."

Mobutu reported two planeloads of foreign commandos had seized the airport at Kisangani, formerly Stanleyville and the biggest city in the northeast Congo, while the government radio claimed foreign mercenaries had parachuted into Bukavu.

Mobutu did not mention Tshombe, but the government radio said Tuesday that 200 Belgian mercenaries were ready to fly to the Congo to try to free the former premier if he was returned to Kinshasa to face a death sentence for treason. Mobutu's government has sent representatives to Algiers seeking Tshombe's extradition.

Authoritative sources in Algiers said they had pieced together the story of Tshombe's kidnaping. They said his chartered plane was hijacked last Friday and forced to fly to Algeria by members of his own entourage who probably wanted to collect a big reward offered secretly by Mobutu's government.

Diplomats in Algiers say Algeria almost certainly will extradite Tshombe if it is convinced of a pro-Tshombe plot in the Congo. Algiers holds Tshombe responsible for the death of the Congo's first premier, leftist Patrice Lumumba.

Israel Plans Rival Route

By ED BLANCHE

ELATH, Israel (AP)— Israel is pouring millions of dollars into this sweltering little Red Sea port to build a rival trade route to the Suez Canal.

The Israelis want to build a dry Suez to their Mediterranean ports with a railroad, a major highway and an oil pipeline system through the Negev Desert.

They estimate that through the port they are carving out of rock and sand they could funnel at least 3 million to 4 million tons of general cargo, 2 million tons of bulk cargo and 20 million tons of oil every year to Europe.

Two things stand in the way; the reluctance of Western shipping lines to use Elath because of fears of blacklisting by Arab countries and lack of financial security.

Israeli experts argue that unloading oil at Elath and pumping it overland for shipment to Europe would reduce its cost to Europeans. Before the recent Arab-Israeli war and the blocking of the Suez Canal, Egypt charged $1 a ton for oil passing through the canal. According to Israeli experts, piping the oil across the Negev would cut charges 50 to 65 per cent.

Trans-Israel pipelines and freight routes would neutralize Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's use of the Suez Canal as a political weapon and would deal another blow to Egypt's already shaky economy. Before the war, Egypt earned $200 million a year from Suez. An alternate route to Europe would drastically reduce this.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Whatever else may be said of the 1967 Missouri legislature - its accomplishments and its failures- it continued to accept in broad general terms the program of the administration of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Like President Lyndon B. Johnson - and perhaps for the same reason - Hearnes has been an extremely effective administrator in terms of endorsement of his program by the legislative branch of government.

Both Johnson and Hearnes took with them to the White House and the governor's chair long records of legislative experience.

Even those who don't approve of the Great Society program cannot deny that Johnson is the most effective President in his dealings with Congress in the history of the country.

On a state level Hearnes has performed just as effectively. Both men continue to amass an outstanding record in this important aspect of their administrations.

This was far from the summer of discontent insofar as legislator relations with Hearnes were concerned.

And he is taking it far away from the hullabaloo of the state capital at his peaceful, new home in Charleston.

It's good to have our neighbor back in town for a couple of weeks.

For a year now civil war between Walter Reuther and other leaders has flared throughout American labor. It began, actually, when America's labor representative walked out of the International Labor Organizations' governing body in Geneva, Switzerland, in protest against the election of a Polish Communist official as chairman. George Meany approved the walkout. Reuther did not.

For a year now the CIA saga has involved U.S. unions. There have been charges that some unions fronted for Central Intelligence. Victor Reuther, brother of Walter, first hurled such accusations. Since then there have been scores of reports of American labor's involvement, not the CIA, but in building unions in Western Europe.

For a year now there have been reports of former CIO unions, going in for global labor activity on the industrial front, building worldwide unions and calling inter-hemispheric strikes in the auto and electronic fields.

Thus labor now is such a worldwide beat that it cannot be covered on the home front alone.

To dig out the inside and untold background of these stories and others which will make the headlines in the coming months, our columnist Victor Riesel will jet to Geneva to cover the closing sessions of the ILO as well as other developments which affect the U.S. He will file a short series of background and ahead-of-the-news stories during a swift newsgathering swing-around.

Whatever else may be said about Soviet Premier Kosygin his actions have the jab of reality.

Americans may have glowed a bit momentarily after President Johnson's assurances of lessened world dangers following the summit meeting at Glassboro, N.J.

The moment of happiness evaporated like a soap bubble pricked by a thorny bush - Hollybush, perhaps - when Kosygin announced that he would confer with Dictator Fidel Castro in Cuba on his way home to Russia. There the two gangsters conspired against the United States.

The purpose of this meeting was to bolster Communist defenses and outline subversive activity in this hemisphere right under our noses.

Many Americans feel strongly that our fighting now should either be confined to Cuba or that the burden of the Vietnam conflict and one in Cuba should be shouldered to protect this hemisphere.

Kosygin's decision to go to Cuba had the cold, sobering effect of a gun poked in the ribs. But it is useful in dispelling idel dreams.

The quickly ignited "spirit of Hollybush" as President Johnson was impelled to call it despite no evidence of accomplishment to ease world tensions was visible at least as long as whiff of cigarette smoke on a windy day.

Johnson is the disciple of the consensus of personal persuasion, which he has used to his benefit with colleagues in Congress.

He applied the same technique with Kosygin and expressed his pleasure at being able to look him in the eye and trying to reason with him.

Johnson even emphasized the Biblical derivation of his course - " 'come now' as Isaiah said: 'and let us reason together."

The American people were not long deluded. When Kosygin announced that he was flying to Cuba they recognized that Johnson and Isaiah and their philosophical approach didn't score at Glassboro.

THE FLIGHT THAT FAILED

There's a beautiful, beautiful field,
Far away in the land of the fair;
Happy landings to you, Amelia Earhart,
Farewell, First Lady of the Air.
--Amelia Earhart's Last Flight (1937 song)

Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred J. Noonan, disappeared over the Pacific 30 years ago Sunday, July 2. Miss Earhart had been the first woman to make a solo flight across the Atlantic, in 1932, and she would have been the first to circumnavigate the world by airplane if her 1937 flight had not been cut short by tragedy.

The twin-engine Lockheed Electra carrying Noonan and Miss Earhart was 2,500 miles from California when it vanished. "Gas is running low . . .unable to reach you by radio . . .we are circling but cannot see you," were the last words of the aviatrix to be heard by trackers on Howland Island. Scores of ships and planes combed 200,000 square miles of ocean for 15 days. They found nothing. To this day the rumor persists that Miss Earhart and Noonan were captured - some say executed - by the Japanese.

To mark the anniversary of the fatal flight, the Ninety-Nines - a worldwide organization of women pilots founded by Miss Earhart in 1929 - will hold a five-day international "fly-in" at Washington, D.C., which started Wednesday June 28. WHY BOTHER?

One of the great insights on American business might be gained if an explanation could be found for the public attitude of people engaged in the so-called service industries.

Services spend fortunes to advertise themselves. At this level, the specified service is always ready, willing and able to care for the public needs which fall within its purview.

The citizen who responds to such advertising often meets with surly insults and a supercilious attitude which rapidly dissolves his hope of finding sympathy for his problems.

Since all this makes no sense to the would-be customer, the question is: Does the person who is performing the service for a livelihood feel that he has somehow won points by downgrading the public, and if so, why does he bother to advertise?

DANGEROUS FOLLY

Since air conditioning began to be fairly prevalent in automobiles, you do not see as many drivers going on their ways with the left hand on the car top. Whether they are holding the top down or holding it up is a moot question for which no one has the answer. It is known to all, however, that such one-handed motoring is dangerous folly.

Common sense, proper consideration for other people and any shred of the instinct of self-preservation all demand keeping at least two hands on the wheel. If you are a victim of the one-handed habit in question, break it before it breaks up both you, your vehicle and any passengers you may have, let alone strangers.

THE GREATEST CHALLENGE

A senior college student recently remarked: "I haven't the slightest interest in business. It's stuffy and dull and rigid. Business executives are selfish, narrow - minded and lacking in imagination. All they care about is profits. . . .I want to do something useful. . . . I want to help eliminate poverty and disease and slum conditons . . . .I'd like a little fun and excitement. Business? That's not for me." When a college senior speaks in this vein, it is clear evidence that there is something lacking in our educational process.

The head of one of the country's larges retailing concerns, Mr. Lester A. Burcham, has replied to this student, and to the apparently large number of young people who hold similar views, in a masterful discussion of business and the free market. He shows how profits are the backbone of national growth and well-being. He describes the challenges and opportunities of business in the marketplace, and the necessity of the successful enterprise to continually advance, and so contribute to the phenomenal rise of our nation. markets.'

As a practical matter, the progressive profitable business enterprise is doing more to remedy the most pressing social problems of our time in its role of taxpayer and employer than anything else. And as far as excitement is concerned, says Mr. Burcham, "Challenges, in my opinion, are more prevalent in the marketplace or business world than in any other field of activity because change is occurring so rapidly. The swift stream of new consumers, changing patterns of population, changing competition do not allow businessmen to get in a rut or become complacent."

The greatest challenge we all face is the preservation of freedom to manage, to test and try, to move ahead with boldness of spirit in the hope of reasonable reward -- in other words, the preservation of our United States system of government and free enterprise.

FROZEN NORTH - A NEW FRONTIER FOR INDUSTRY

People who still think of Alaska, our 49th state, as it was in the gold rush days may be surprised at facts about the state made known by "Petroleum Today" magazine.

It stated that during the summer months, when temperatures may reach 100 degrees, the frozen tundra thaws, and hillsides are blanketed with flowers. The gardens produce foot-long carrots and cabbages the size of soccer balls.

The magazine reported that one of the most dramatic developments has been the search for oil to help meet U.S. energy needs of the future. The Arctic operations have challenged the oilman's ingenuity. Most drilling is conducted in winter months when the surface is frozen, but the heat from the machinery on the right turns the ground soupy. One solution that oilmen have devised is reminiscent of selling ice boxes to Eskimos. A system of tubing carrying refrigerating fluid is placed in the icy ground beneath the rig, helping to keep the frozen North frozen.

In conclusion the magazine said that our largest state may be the new frontier fro coming generations, and that the oil industry is proving there are opportunities never dreamed of in the days of the gold rush.

A SPACE ASSET: MIRROR FOR EARTH

Probably one of the least "practical" occupations men can engage in is mountain climbing. For some, it is analagous to a nation spending its energy in climbing into space.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who happens to like climbing mountains "because they are there," defends both pursuits.

Just as mountain climbing has certain spinoff benefits - revealing patterns and relationships in the land stretched out before one's feet that could never be observed from the foot of the mountain -- so, too, does the nation's activity in space.

It is in this new "mountain-top" perspective which space provides on our home planet that Udall sees the greatest immediate rewards of the space program.

He offers this example: In just one pass, taking three minutes, Gemini astronauts photographed 80 per cent of the country of Peru. A mosaic of the picutres, which was given to the Peruvian government, shows patterns of land use, snow distribution, lake levels and geologic features of possible economic significance - all in a single glance.

The Interior Department and National Aeronautics and Space Administration are working together on a series of Earth Resources Observation Satellites to be placed in polar orbits so that the entire earth will turn under them.

As part of a worldwide system for the wise management of the earth's resources, the EROS spacecraft could employ sensors to detect such things as soil salinity or erosion or the state of the sea. Scientists look forward to the day when satellites can tell rye from barley, rice from soy beans. They will be able to monitor crop growth and predict yields in various parts of the world.

Noting that Americans alive today will consume more mineral resources than all mankind in all past history, Udall says remote sensing techniques will permit satellites to literally "prospect from the sky" - detecting and studying earth's mineral and oil structures.

It is true that it costs more to launch a space system into orbit than to send up an airplane, but once a satellite is up there, it stays up, and the longer it stays up the more economical it becomes.

One NASA scientist has figured that after six months a given space system breaks even with a DC-8; after one year, it breaks even with a Cadillac; after a year and a half, it breaks even with a Volkswagen, and beyond that even beats a motor scooter in "miles per gallon."

"We have succeeded in opening wide the door to outer space," says Udall, "and now we are turning around and looking back. We have made our earth not just the springboard to space research, but the object of it."

ASSAULTS ON POLICEMEN

The rising crime wave in this country threatens the personal security of every American. The first line of defense against this crime wave is our local police forces.

The local policeman is now being harassed from every side by self-appointed defenders of or apologists for the criminal, who are ready with an excuse for every crime and a charge against any policeman. The proposed police review boards are but one example of this kind of harassment.

But the greatest problem the police and the public face in dealing with crime is the obstacles placed by the courts in the way of convicting guilty persons and deterring crime by swift and severe punishment of those convicted. Criminals freed on technicalities, on probation or parole have long been an increasing threat to the general public. Now they are becoming a direct and immediate threat to the police themselves.

Last year in the state of New Jersey more than 10% of all police officers in the state were assaulted in the line of duty. Half of the assaults resulted in wounds severe enough o require a doctor's care. Our policy of leniency toward the criminal is now directly endangering the life and safety of our police officers, at the same time that constant harassment makes it more and more difficult to recruit policemen.

It will not always be possible to find men willing to risk injury and death to protect all of us, if we reward their faithfulness and diligence with spiteful criticism and wrist-slapping penalties for hardened criminals. HLH.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a summer resort owner gets tired of hearing:

"Are these other people guests— or refugees?"

"I am not one to raise moral issues on a vacation, Mr. Bumble, but are you sure those so-called honeymooners you put in the cottage next to us are really honeymooners? Did you ask to see their marriage license?"

"I can't swim in the lake because it's too cold and I can't swim in the pool because it's too warm."

"You mean you charge a dime apiece for your postcards? Why, at the resort we stayed last year, they gave us two for 15 cents."

"My husband lost $12.50 playing poker last night with those two rough-looking fellows from Brooklyn. What are you running here, Mr. Bumble, a gambling hall?"

"Things look kinda quiet here, Jake. What's the matter? That resort on the other side of the lake is really jumping. Heard they had to turn away 20 people yesterday."

"Another rainy day. That makes seven in a row. Do you think maybe it's time for us guests to start building an ark?"

"What'll we do, boss? Four parties have signed up for horseback riding this morning, and we've only got two horses, and one of them is too lame to work."

"Far be it for me to make complaints, Mr. Bumble, but some old lady is sitting in my favorite rocking chair on the front porch. You'll have to tell her to move. You know I've used that chair for the last six summers."

"Who called your comedian a comedian? He tells jokes like he was a moonlighting pallbearer."

"It looks like I left my checkbook at home, Jake. Well, just send the bill along to my office, and my secretary will take care of it— as soon as she gets back from her own vacation next month."

"Confidentially, if you could give me and my family a reduction in your rates, I'll be glad to handle any medical emergencies during our stay here. I'm only a veterinarian, but we don't have to tell that to your guests. After all, an upset stomach is an upset stomach, whether it's in a guest or a cow."

"What chance have us young single girls got for a romance, Jake, when the only bachelors here are you and that middle-aged bus boy from the Harvard Law School?"

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Good old Rep. Harley Staggers, the West Virginia Democrat, has been labor's public champion when it comes to the railway unions and opposition to a modified arbitration act to head off a railway strike. But he has been strangely secretive regarding another phase of transportation -- the airlines and their accidents.

As chairman of the house commerce committee, he has been holding closed - door hearings on airline accidents. The safety of the nation is not involved, but rather the safety of the public.

Hearings regarding the Apollo fire have been held in public. Investigations into railway wrecks and auto crack-ups are held in public. And past probes of airline accidents were held in public. But for some reason best known to himself, the venerable congressman from West Virginia has chosen to hold airplane accident probes behind a strick veil of secrecy.

The latest have involved two spring crashes over Ohio by Lake Central and TWA, plus the New Orleans tragedy when a Delta jet plowed into a motel, killing a group of schoolgirls on their spring vacation. The kin of all those killed would like to know the reason. So would the public in order to prevent further tragedies. Rep. Staggers, however, believes in secrecy.

BEHIND PREMIER KY

There were two basic reasons for the demotion of the grandstanding little Premier of South Vietnam, Nguyen Cao Ky:

1. He lost his best friend and supporter when Henry Cabot Lodge retired as U.S. ambassador.

2. He began to emulate his own announced heor, Adolf Hitler.

When Ellsworth Bunker replaced Lodge, Ky lost much of his immunity from Washington criticism. Lodge was so grateful to Ky for bringing stability out of the chaos existing after President Diem was killed when South Vietnam suffered six different governments in 19 months, that he forgave Ky's washbuckling.

But Bunker didn't. Bunker had dealt with some of the most headlined and difficult personalities in the world -- Dictator Peron of Argentina, mild - mannered Premier Nehru of India, sex-crazy President Sukarno of Indonesia. So he was in no mood to take nonsense from a tin-horn little general determined to use the American army and the September elections to perpetuate himself in office.

SAIGON'S SMOKE - FILLED ROOM

It is true, as the state department announced, that the American embassy did not know Premier Ky was going to run for vice president instead of President. This was arranged in a smoke - filled room at the tan-sonhut air base between the generals.

But it was true that ambassador Bunker was exerting his not unimportant influence to get Ky out of the Presidential race and otherwise curb his dictatorial pyrotechnics. Ky knew this. So did the other generals.

In recent months Ky had violated all the rules. He had campaigned for President while still Premier. He had plastered the countryside with posters extolling Premier Ky. He had imposed as tight a censorship on the press as the censorship of Red China. He even censored the political announcements of the chief of state, general Nguyen Van Thieu. And he caused to be arrested novelist Vu Hanh after Vu had brought a libel suit against the pro - government newspaper, song, for calling VU pro-communist. Vu was certain to win the suit. Whereupon, very conveniently, Premier Ky put novelist Vu in jail.

This is almost the equivalent of having the Johnson administration jail two writers after Sen. Tom Dodd had sued them and they are about to win.

Ky's high - handedness finally got to the point where ambassador Bunker's frowns plus the rivalry of powerful general Nguyen Van Thieu forced him to step down one notch in the race for President.

NORTH CAROLINA BOMBINGS

Five carefully timed bombs exploded in Wadesboro, N.C., all placed in the homes or offices of the five members of the school board who had stood staunchly for school desegregation. In one case, the oil company office of James A. Hardison Jr., chairman of the school board, was rippted to smithereens.

Paradoxically, the bombings occurred in the home town of Lamar Caudle, who served as assistant attorney general in charge of the justice department's criminal division in the Truman administration, when anti-Negro trouble broke out in Columbia, Tenn., and when a Negro was kidnapped and taken across the North Carolina state line.

Caudle, though a southerner, moved immediately to invoke federal law. He called a grand jury to prosecute the guilty. There was no delay. Caudle's boss at that time was attorney general Tom Clark.

Today, Ramsey Clark, his son, is attorney general. Three days after the Wadesboro bombing the justice department was asked what it was going to do about the obvious flouting of federal law in North Carolina. The answer was: "We're investigating."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Whatever else may be said of the 1967 Missouri legislature - its accomplishments and its failures- it continued to accept in broad general terms the program of the administration of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Like President Lyndon B. Johnson - and perhaps for the same reason - Hearnes has been an extremely effective administrator in terms of endorsement of his program by the legislative branch of government.

Both Johnson and Hearnes took with them to the White House and the governor's chair long records of legislative experience.

Even those who don't approve of the Great Society program cannot deny that Johnson is the most effective President in his dealings with Congress in the history of the country.

On a state level Hearnes has performed just as effectively. Both men continue to amass an outstanding record in this important aspect of their administrations.

This was far from the summer of discontent insofar as legislator relations with Hearnes were concerned.

And he is taking it far away from the hullabaloo of the state capital at his peaceful, new home in Charleston.

It's good to have our neighbor back in town for a couple of weeks.

For a year now civil war between Walter Reuther and other leaders has flared throughout American labor. It began, actually, when America's labor representative walked out of the International Labor Organizations' governing body in Geneva, Switzerland, in protest against the election of a Polish Communist official as chairman. George Meany approved the walkout. Reuther did not.

For a year now the CIA saga has involved U.S. unions. There have been charges that some unions fronted for Central Intelligence. Victor Reuther, brother of Walter, first hurled such accusations. Since then there have been scores of reports of American labor's involvement, not the CIA, but in building unions in Western Europe.

For a year now there have been reports of former CIO unions, going in for global labor activity on the industrial front, building worldwide unions and calling inter-hemispheric strikes in the auto and electronic fields.

Thus labor now is such a worldwide beat that it cannot be covered on the home front alone.

Whatever else may be said about Soviet Premier Kosygin his actions have the jab of reality.

Americans may have glowed a bit momentarily after President Johnson's assurances of lessened world dangers following the summit meeting at Glassboro, N.J.

The moment of happiness evaporated like a soap bubble pricked by a thorny bush - Hollybush, perhaps - when Kosygin announced that he would confer with Dictator Fidel Castro in Cuba on his way home to Russia. There the two gangsters conspired against the United States.

The purpose of this meeting was to bolster Communist defenses and outline subversive activity in this hemisphere right under our noses.

Many Americans feel strongly that our fighting now should either be confined to Cuba or that the burden of the Vietnam conflict and one in Cuba should be shouldered to protect this hemisphere.

Kosygin's decision to go to Cuba had the cold, sobering effect of a gun poked in the ribs. But it is useful in dispelling idel dreams.

The quickly ignited "spirit of Hollybush" as President Johnson was impelled to call it despite no evidence of accomplishment to ease world tensions was visible at least as long as whiff of cigarette smoke on a windy day.

Johnson is the disciple of the consensus of personal persuasion, which he has used to his benefit with colleagues in Congress.

He applied the same technique with Kosygin and expressed his pleasure at being able to look him in the eye and trying to reason with him.

Johnson even emphasized the Biblical derivation of his course - " 'come now' as Isaiah said: 'and let us reason together.'"

The American people were not long deluded.

When Kosygin announced that he was flying to Cuba they recognized that Johnson and Isaiah and their philosophical approach didn't score at Glassboro.

THE FLIGHT THAT FAILED

There's a beautiful, beautiful field,
Far away in the land of the fair;
Happy landings to you, Amelia Earhart,
Farewell, First Lady of the Air.
--Amelia Earhart's Last Flight (1937 song)

Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred J. Noonan, disappeared over the Pacific 30 years ago Sunday, July 2. Miss Earhart had been the first woman to make a solo flight across the Atlantic, in 1932, and she would have been the first to circumnavigate the world by airplane if her 1937 flight had not been cut short by tragedy.

The twin-engine Lockheed Electra carrying Noonan and Miss Earhart was 2,500 miles from California when it vanished. "Gas is running low . . .unable to reach you by radio . . .we are circling but cannot see you," were the last words of the aviatrix to be heard by trackers on Howland Island. Scores of ships and planes combed 200,000 square miles of ocean for 15 days. They found nothing. To this day the rumor persists that Miss Earhart and Noonan were captured - some say executed - by the Japanese.

In any event, Amelia Earhart is not forgotten. A giant hangar at Boston International Airport bears her name; so does a 20-foot high stone lighthouse on Howland Island. U.S. commemorative air mail stamps carry her picture. There is an Amelia Earhart Peak in Yosemite National Park.

In an idle moment I wrote: 'Before I die, I want to pick an egg from under a hen and determine if the flavor is different from the eggs I get at the supermarkets.'

Our reader, W. C. Kinney, president of Vita Green Farms, Vista, California, replies that he has been studying eggs and nutrition for the past thirty years, and is now 20 to 50 years ahead of his time.

Among the 10,000 printed words he sent me, I have chosen to quote the following: 'If you wish the best taste, flavor aroma, and generally excellent nutrient egg when you reach under the hen for it, you will have to be sure the hen had the best mineralized high proteinaceous grass, bugs, wheat, corn, etc. it was possible to procure or produce, and that she was "free as a bird" to wisely choose these foods.'

FROZEN NORTH - A NEW FRONTIER FOR INDUSTRY

People who still think of Alaska, our 49th state, as it was in the gold rush days may be surprised at facts about the state made known by "Petroleum Today" magazine.

It stated that during the summer months, when temperatures may reach 100 degrees, the frozen tundra thaws, and hillsides are blanketed with flowers. The gardens produce foot-long carrots and cabbages the size of soccer balls.

The magazine reported that one of the most dramatic developments has been the search for oil to help meet U.S. energy needs of the future. The Arctic operations have challenged the oilman's ingenuity. Most drilling is conducted in winter months when the surface is frozen, but the heat from the machinery on the right turns the ground soupy. One solution that oilmen have devised is reminiscent of selling ice boxes to Eskimos. A system of tubing carrying refrigerating fluid is placed in the icy ground beneath the rig, helping to keep the frozen North frozen.

In conclusion the magazine said that our largest state may be the new frontier fro coming generations, and that the oil industry is proving there are opportunities never dreamed of in the days of the gold rush.

A SPACE ASSET: MIRROR FOR EARTH

Probably one of the least "practical" occupations men can engage in is mountain climbing. For some, it is analagous to a nation spending its energy in climbing into space.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who happens to like climbing mountains "because they are there," defends both pursuits.

Just as mountain climbing has certain spinoff benefits - revealing patterns and relationships in the land stretched out before one's feet that could never be observed from the foot of the mountain -- so, too, does the nation's activity in space.

It is in this new "mountain-top" perspective which space provides on our home planet that Udall sees the greatest immediate rewards of the space program.

He offers this example: In just one pass, taking three minutes, Gemini astronauts photographed 80 per cent of the country of Peru. A mosaic of the picutres, which was given to the Peruvian government, shows patterns of land use, snow distribution, lake levels and geologic features of possible economic significance - all in a single glance.

The Interior Department and National Aeronautics and Space Administration are working together on a series of Earth Resources Observation Satellites to be placed in polar orbits so that the entire earth will turn under them.

As part of a worldwide system for the wise management of the earth's resources, the EROS spacecraft could employ sensors to detect such things as soil salinity or erosion or the state of the sea. Scientists look forward to the day when satellites can tell rye from barley, rice from soy beans. They will be able to monitor crop growth and predict yields in various parts of the world.

Noting that Americans alive today will consume more mineral resources than all mankind in all past history, Udall says remote sensing techniques will permit satellites to literally "prospect from the sky" - detecting and studying earth's mineral and oil structures.

It is true that it costs more to launch a space system into orbit than to send up an airplane, but once a satellite is up there, it stays up, and the longer it stays up the more economical it becomes.

One NASA scientist has figured that after six months a given space system breaks even with a DC-8; after one year, it breaks even with a Cadillac; after a year and a half, it breaks even with a Volkswagen, and beyond that even beats a motor scooter in "miles per gallon."

"We have succeeded in opening wide the door to outer space," says Udall, "and now we are turning around and looking back. We have made our earth not just the springboard to space research, but the object of it."

The greates sin any nation can commit is to educate its people away from God. We are doing just that, by barring the Bible from our schools. Many nations in the past have tried that when they became prosperous but there is no record of one getting by with it. Neither will we.

H.L. Hunt Says

ASSAULTS ON POLICEMEN

The rising crime wave in this country threatens the personal security of every American. The first line of defense against this crime wave is our local police forces.

The local policeman is now being harassed from every side by self-appointed defenders of or apologists for the criminal, who are ready with an excuse for every crime and a charge against any policeman. The proposed police review boards are but one example of this kind of harassment.

But the greatest problem the police and the public face in dealing with crime is the obstacles placed by the courts in the way of convicting guilty persons and deterring crime by swift and severe punishment of those convicted. Criminals freed on technicalities, on probation or parole have long been an increasing threat to the general public. Now they are becoming a direct and immediate threat to the police themselves.

Last year in the state of New Jersey more than 10% of all police officers in the state were assaulted in the line of duty. Half of the assaults resulted in wounds severe enough o require a doctor's care. Our policy of leniency toward the criminal is now directly endangering the life and safety of our police officers, at the same time that constant harassment makes it more and more difficult to recruit policemen.

It will not always be possible to find men willing to risk injury and death to protect all of us, if we reward their faithfulness and diligence with spiteful criticism and wrist-slapping penalties for hardened criminals. HLH.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a summer resort owner gets tired of hearing:

"Are these other people guests— or refugees?"

"I am not one to raise moral issues on a vacation, Mr. Bumble, but are you sure those so-called honeymooners you put in the cottage next to us are really honeymooners? Did you ask to see their marriage license?"

"I can't swim in the lake because it's too cold and I can't swim in the pool because it's too warm."

"You mean you charge a dime apiece for your postcards? Why, at the resort we stayed last year, they gave us two for 15 cents."

"My husband lost $12.50 playing poker last night with those two rough-looking fellows from Brooklyn. What are you running here, Mr. Bumble, a gambling hall?"

"Things look kinda quiet here, Jake. What's the matter? That resort on the other side of the lake is really jumping. Heard they had to turn away 20 people yesterday."

"Another rainy day. That makes seven in a row. Do you think maybe it's time for us guests to start building an ark?"

"What'll we do, boss? Four parties have signed up for horseback riding this morning, and we've only got two horses, and one of them is too lame to work."

"Far be it for me to make complaints, Mr. Bumble, but some old lady is sitting in my favorite rocking chair on the front porch. You'll have to tell her to move. You know I've used that chair for the last six summers."

"Who called your comedian a comedian? He tells jokes like he was a moonlighting pallbearer."

"It looks like I left my checkbook at home, Jake. Well, just send the bill along to my office, and my secretary will take care of it— as soon as she gets back from her own vacation next month."

"Confidentially, if you could give me and my family a reduction in your rates, I'll be glad to handle any medical emergencies during our stay here. I'm only a veterinarian, but we don't have to tell that to your guests. After all, an upset stomach is an upset stomach, whether it's in a guest or a cow."

"What chance have us young single girls got for a romance, Jake, when the only bachelors here are you and that middle-aged bus boy from the Harvard Law School?"

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Good old Rep. Harley Staggers, the West Virginia Democrat, has been labor's public champion when it comes to the railway unions and opposition to a modified arbitration act to head off a railway strike. But he has been strangely secretive regarding another phase of transportation -- the airlines and their accidents.

As chairman of the house commerce committee, he has been holding closed - door hearings on airline accidents. The safety of the nation is not involved, but rather the safety of the public.

Hearings regarding the Apollo fire have been held in public. Investigations into railway wrecks and auto crack-ups are held in public. And past probes of airline accidents were held in public. But for some reason best known to himself, the venerable congressman from West Virginia has chosen to hold airplane accident probes behind a strick veil of secrecy.

The latest have involved two spring crashes over Ohio by Lake Central and TWA, plus the New Orleans tragedy when a Delta jet plowed into a motel, killing a group of schoolgirls on their spring vacation. The kin of all those killed would like to know the reason. So would the public in order to prevent further tragedies. Rep. Staggers, however, believes in secrecy.

BEHIND PREMIER KY

There were two basic reasons for the demotion of the grandstanding little Premier of South Vietnam, Nguyen Cao Ky:

1. He lost his best friend and supporter when Henry Cabot Lodge retired as U.S. ambassador.

2. He began to emulate his own announced heor, Adolf Hitler.

When Ellsworth Bunker replaced Lodge, Ky lost much of his immunity from criticism. Lodge was so grateful to Ky for bringing stability out of the chaos existing after President Diem was killed when South Vietnam suffered six different governments in 19 months, that he forgave Ky's washbuckling.

But Bunker didn't. Bunker had dealt with some of the most headlined and difficult personalities in the world -- Dictator Peron of Argentina, mild - mannered Premier Nehru of India, sex-crazy President Sukarno of Indonesia. So he was in no mood to take nonsense from a tin-horn little general determined to use the American army and the September elections to perpetuate himself in office.

SAIGON'S SMOKE - FILLED ROOM

It is true, as the state department announced, that the American embassy did not know Premier Ky was going to run for vice president instead of President. This was arranged in a smoke - filled room at the tan-sonhut air base between the generals.

But it was true that ambassador Bunker was exerting his not unimportant influence to get Ky out of the Presidential race and otherwise curb his dictatorial pyrotechnics. Ky knew this. So did the other generals.

In recent months Ky had violated all the rules. He had campaigned for President while still Premier. He had plastered the countryside with posters extolling Premier Ky. He had imposed as tight a censorship on the press as the censorship of Red China. He even censored the political announcements of the chief of state, general Nguyen Van Thieu. And he caused to be arrested novelist Vu Hanh after Vu had brought a libel suit against the pro - government newspaper, song, for calling VU pro-communist. Vu was certain to win the suit. Whereupon, very conveniently, Premier Ky put novelist Vu in jail.

This is almost the equivalent of having the Johnson administration jail two writers after Sen. Tom Dodd had sued them and they are about to win.

Ky's high - handedness finally got to the point where ambassador Bunker's frowns plus the rivalry of powerful general Nguyen Van Thieu forced him to step down one notch in the race for President.

NORTH CAROLINA BOMBINGS

Five carefully timed bombs exploded in Wadesboro, N.C., all placed in the homes or offices of the five members of the school board who had stood staunchly for school desegregation. In one case, the oil company office of James A. Hardison Jr., chairman of the school board, was rippted to smithereens.

Paradoxically, the bombings occurred in the home town of Lamar Caudle, who served as assistant attorney general in charge of the justice department's criminal division in the Truman administration, when anti-Negro trouble broke out in Columbia, Tenn., and when a Negro was kidnapped and taken across the North Carolina state line.

Caudle, though a southerner, moved immediately to invoke federal law. He called a grand jury to prosecute the guilty. There was no delay. Caudle's boss at that time was attorney general Tom Clark.

Today, Ramsey Clark, his son, is attorney general. Three days after the Wadesboro bombing the justice department was asked what it was going to do about the obvious flouting of federal law in North Carolina. The answer was: "We're investigating."

Styles Stem From Gaudy Stockings

NEW YORK (AP) — Current supershort styles stem from gaudy stockings, a fashion that baseball players thought of years ago. Once stockings were accessories. Now they are the costumes themselves.

At the fall collection previews Wednesday, the first of a four-day schedule arranged by the New York Couture Group, designers who seldom agree on anything were in unison in hailing the crazy leg as the root of all fashion.

As if to prove that diverse backgrounds means nothing, makers of banlon fabrics brought Ken Scott from Milan, Iranian-born Ferro Ettehadieh from his posh mansion in Palm Beach and Gayle Kirkpatrick from the garment district to show off their wares. Most of their offerings had to do with stockings.

Discotheque-loving Ferro believed that the curvy gams of girls should be covered with swirls of purple, pink, and green. Ken Scott sent his stocking stuffers out in hues like a fire in the night, while Kirkpatrick had painted conch shells and butterflies bigger than life on browns and blacks for his ladies' tights.

All three designers topped these tights, but very sparingly sometimes, with tunics or shifts. Anything longer was slit to the arm on the sides to preserve the all-important long view of loud legs.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Jackson, Oran, and Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Grooms of Chaffee are the parents of the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-lengh gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta with the bouffant skirt made of sequin frosted lace with scalloped lace at the hemline. The bodice featured a scalloped neckline and long sleeves that came to lily points over the fingers. Her train was chapel length. Styles Stem From Gaudy Stockings

NEW YORK (AP) — Current supershort styles stem from gaudy stockings, a fashion that baseball players thought of years ago. Once stockings were accessories. Now they are the costumes themselves.

At the fall collection previews Wednesday, the first of a four-day schedule arranged by the New York Couture Group, designers who seldom agree on anything were in unison in hailing the crazy leg as the root of all fashion.

As if to prove that diverse backgrounds means nothing, makers of banlon fabrics brought Ken Scott from Milan, Iranian-born Ferro Ettehadieh from his posh mansion in Palm Beach and Gayle Kirkpatrick from the garment district to show off their wares. Most of their offerings had to do with stockings.

Discotheque-loving Ferro believed that the curvy gams of girls should be covered with swirls of purple, pink, and green. Ken Scott sent his stocking stuffers out in hues like a fire in the night, while Kirkpatrick had painted conch shells and butterflies bigger than life on browns and blacks for his ladies' tights.

All three designers topped these tights, but very sparingly sometimes, with tunics or shifts. Anything longer was slit to the arm on the sides to preserve the all-important long view of loud legs.

The tournament has been extended a day with the finals of the tournament tentatively set for Sunday afternoon.

Rain threatens again today and in case of another cancellation or cancellations the tournament will be moved ahead one day.

EVERYBODY AGREED it wasn't the normal pushing and shoving match ballplayers like to call a fight.

Both the Cincinnati Reds' and the St. Loui Cardinals' benches and bullpens emptied in the fifth inning of the Cardinals' 7-3 victory Monday night.

The fight started when pitcher Bob Gibson and the Reds' Tony Perez exchanged words after Perez flied out. The players massed around the mound and suddenly fists were flying.

"I got between Gibson and Perez," said Orlando Cepeda, who traded blows with second baseman Pete Rose, "and tried to separate them. People always talk about Latins fighting, and I didn't want anything like that here."

Cepeda said everything was under control until Cincinnati pitcher Bob Lee ran from the bullpen into the pack. "Lee came in, calling me and Gibson all sorts of names," Orlando said. "We didn't want to fight. That's for the birds."

Julian Javier went down on a close pitch by Don Nottebart in the third inning. In the fourth inning, Lou Brock was hit on the leg by a pitch. With Perez up in the fifth, Gibson sailed a pitch over Perez's head at the backstop.

"I don't think he was trying to hit me," Perez said, "but he might have thought he had to protect his team after Brock got hit. We started talking as I went back toward the dugout, but it was nothing serious.

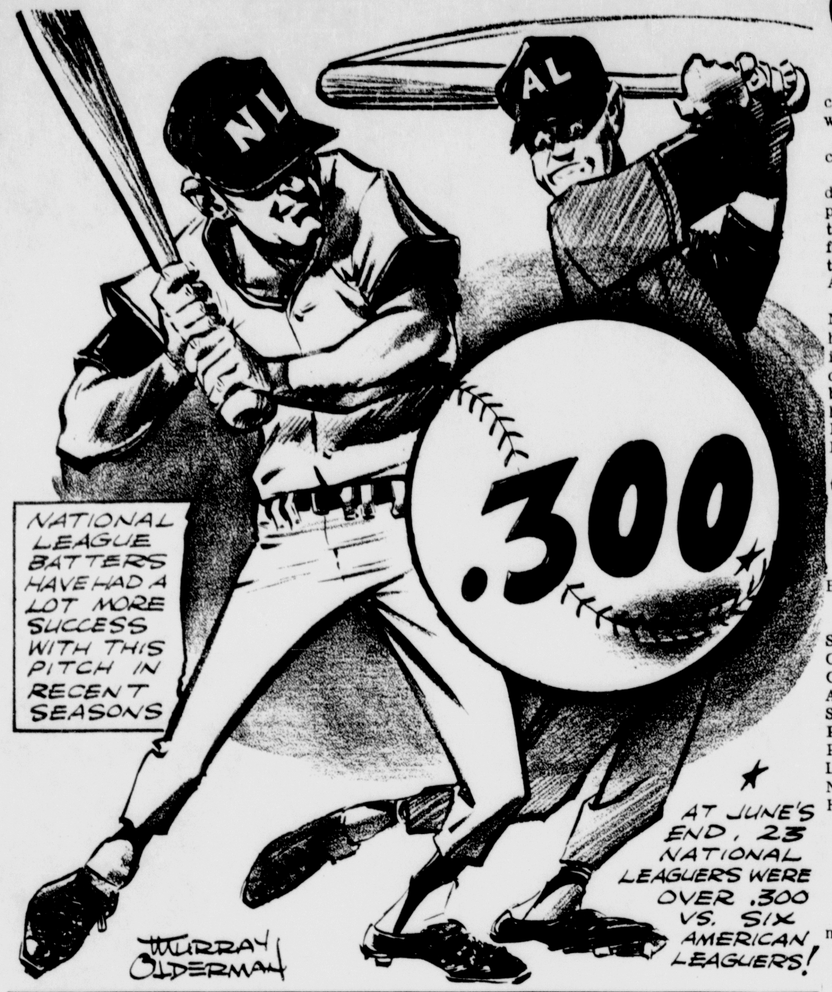

"When we were on the mound," Perez continued, "Cepeda tried to prevent a fight. He told me in Spanish to take it easy. The fight started when Lee ran out. He though Cepeda was holding me."

STRENGTH IN NUMBERS

Overtime Duel to Reds

Aaron bided his time Wednesday night as Chicago's Rick Nye pitched around him in his first three trips to the plate. The fourth time, Aaron unloaded a three-run homer that helped Atlanta drop the Cubs 4-2.

Ruiz, Cincinnati's expert on National League benches, pinch hit for Jim Maloney in the 10th inning and made the most of his one trip to the plate. He doubled, stole third and then raced home with the winning run on Nelson Briles' wild pitch as the Reds shaded St. Louis 2-1.

Chicago's third straight loss to Atlanta kept the Cubs one-half game back of St. Louis in the battle for the National League lead. In other games, Los Angeles topped Pittsburgh 5-3, San Francisco nipped New York 2-1 and Philadelphia edged Houston 3-2.

Nye, only a rookie, knew enough to studiously avoid Aaron's menacing bat the first three times the Braves' slugger came to the plate.

The Cardinals and Reds were tied at 1-1 after nine innings when Ruiz, who does so much bench sitting that he brings along his own cushion, batted for Maloney.

Hal Lanier drove in San Francisco's winning run with a two-out single in the seventh and then Perry bailed McCormick out of a jam by getting Tommy Davis to rap into an inning ending double play in the bottom of the seventh.

Shoddy Houston fielding led to two of Philadelphia's three runs against the Astros as Rick Wise, with ninth-inning help from Dick Hall, won his third game.

Wise drove in a run with a fourth-inning single and successive errors on the hit by losing pitcher Mike Cuellar and Ed Mathews allowed another Phillie run to score.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)— According to the Canadian philosopher Marshall McLuhan, the spoken word gave way to the written word, but now "we are leaving the age of printing and passing into the age of electronic communications."

This has large implications for Protestant theology, says a theologian, the Rev. Dr. Howard Hageman. Writing in the Church Herald, he notes that God's Word had come to mean "the printed words of Scripture." However, he adds, "if the printed word is now slipping in favor of another kind of word," this forces "us to ask just what it is that we mean by the Word of God."

Mountain's Legends

Snow-crowned Mt. Damavand soars almost 19,000 feet above Iran's fertile plains. Among the many legends about the mountain are that the prophet Zoroaster lived on its slopes; the simurgh, fabulous bird of wisdom and great size, lived on its summit; and Faridun, a folk hero, chained the tyrant Zahak in one of its caves.

Mincher's Two-Run Shot In Ninth Gives 4-3 Win Over Boston

The California Angels had a terrible time hitting the ball Wednesday night, but almost every time they did it went out of the park.

Of the four hits they were allowed by Boston pitchers Jim Lonborg and Jose Santiago, the Angels made three of them good for homers, including Don Mincher's two-run shot in the bottom of the ninth that won the game 4-3. Roger Repoz and Paul Schaal hit the other ones.

Only Jim Fregosi had the temerity to hit anything less than a homer, a mere single. It came just before Mincher's homer, however, so perhaps the Angels will forgive the transgression.

The Red Sox themselves were 2-for-5 in the slugging department, getting homers from Joe Foy and George Thomas and just three other hits, all of them singles.

In other American League action Wednesday night, Chicago edged Baltimore 3-2 in 11 innings, Minnesota bombed New York 10-4, Detroit shaded Cleveland 3-2 and Washington beat Kansas City 5-3.

In the top of the ninth at Anaheim, the Red Sox, who had been trailing all the way, threatened to pull it out. With two out Jerry Adair singled and Thomas, two-run shot put them ahead 3-2.

Lonborg had pitched beautifully for seven innings for the Sox, giving up but two hits in all that time. Unfortunately, both hits were homers, Repoz' third of the season in the first inning and Schaal's fifth in the third.

George Brunet, in the meantime, was doing just about as well for the Angels. He allowed just three hits until the ninth, including Foy's 12th homer in the fourth inning. Thomas' homer in the ninth almost turned him into a loser, but Mincher's blast off Santiago put the winning smile on his face.

Chicago and Baltimore fought to a standstill until Tommie Agee delivered a single with two out in the 11th, scoring Jim Stewart who ran for J. C. Martin who led off the inning with a single.

Mike Adamson, 19, started his first game for the Orioles, stopped the Sox on three hits in six innings, driving in one run and scoring another.

Dick Reese and Ted Uhlaender carried the big sticks for the Twins, knocking in seven runs between them. Reese had a three-run homer and a total of four RBI while Uhlaender had a two-run shot and three runs batted in. It was the Twins' eighth straight victory.

Roy Oyler squeezed in Mickey Stanley in the eighth with the winning Detroit run after Stanley drove in Norm Cash with a triple earlier in the inning. Tony Horton homered for the Red Sox.

Frank Howard's 21st homer drove in two runs for Washington, and Cap Peterson's double accounted for two more. Howard's blast went 461 feet in the third inning and Peterson's hit came in the fifth.

Lilbourn was to have met Cairo and Pocahontas and Sikeston Blues were to have battled.

The tournament has been extended a day with the finals of the tournament tentatively set for Sunday afternoon.

Rain threatens again today and in case of another cancellation or cancellations the tournament will be moved ahead one day.

It is the first time the season has been split and the first time it has run as long as eight days. A week has been the usual season.

The archery season on deer will run from October through Dec. 15. For the first time, the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service is opening part of the Mingo Refuge, near Puxico, for archery hunters.

The St. Louis Football Cardinals announced season ticket sales have reached a record 35,000. Sales will continue through July 31.

Bill McClain, Treadwell High School basketball coach in Memphis, Tenn. will also speak.

EVERYBODY AGREED it wasn't the normal pushing and shoving match ballplayers like to call a fight.

Both the Cincinnati Reds' and the St. Loui Cardinals' benches and bullpens emptied in the fifth inning of the Cardinals' 7-3 victory Monday night.

The fight started when pitcher Bob Gibson and the Reds' Tony Perez exchanged words after Perez flied out. The players massed around the mound and suddenly fists were flying.

"I got between Gibson and Perez," said Orlando Cepeda, who traded blows with second baseman Pete Rose, "and tried to separate them. People always talk about Latins fighting, and I didn't want anything like that here."

Cepeda said everything was under control until Cincinnati pitcher Bob Lee ran from the bullpen into the pack. "Lee came in, calling me and Gibson all sorts of names," Orlando said. "We didn't want to fight. That's for the birds."

Julian Javier went down on a close pitch by Don Nottebart in the third inning. In the fourth inning, Lou Brock was hit on the leg by a pitch. With Perez up in the fifth, Gibson sailed a pitch over Perez's head at the backstop.

"I don't think he was trying to hit me," Perez said, "but he might have thought he had to protect his team after Brock got hit. We started talking as I went back toward the dugout, but it was nothing serious.

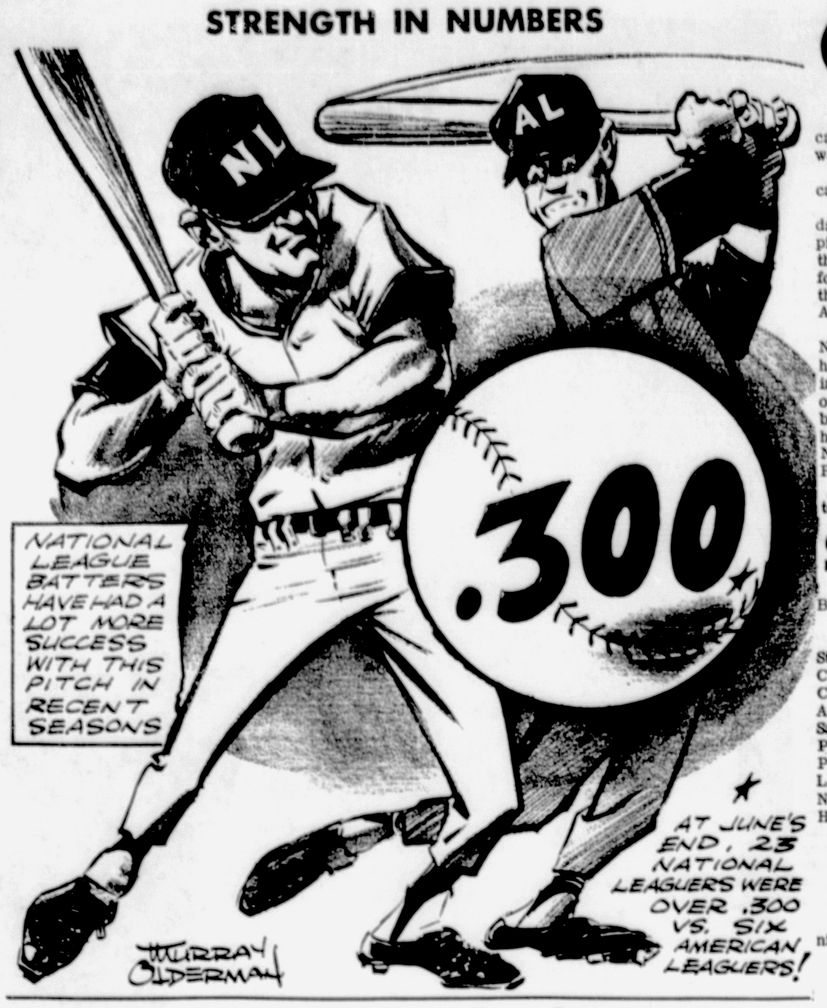

"When we were on the mound," Perez continued, "Cepeda tried to prevent a fight. He told me in Spanish to take it easy. The fight started when Lee ran out. He though Cepeda was holding me."

STRENGTH IN NUMBERS

Overtime Duel to Reds

Aaron bided his time Wednesday night as Chicago's Rick Nye pitched around him in his first three trips to the plate. The fourth time, Aaron unloaded a three-run homer that helped Atlanta drop the Cubs 4-2.

Ruiz, Cincinnati's expert on National League benches, pinch hit for Jim Maloney in the 10th inning and made the most of his one trip to the plate. He doubled, stole third and then raced home with the winning run on Nelson Briles' wild pitch as the Reds shaded St. Louis 2-1.

Chicago's third straight loss to Atlanta kept the Cubs one-half game back of St. Louis in the battle for the National League lead. In other games, Los Angeles topped Pittsburgh 5-3, San Francisco nipped New York 2-1 and Philadelphia edged Houston 3-2.

Nye, only a rookie, knew enough to studiously avoid Aaron's menacing bat the first three times the Braves' slugger came to the plate.

Chuck Hartenstein relieved, and Aaron's 21st home run of the year sailed into the left field seats. Felipe Alou doubled home another Atlanta run in the eighth and that was enough to stand off a last-ditch Chicago rally in the ninth.

The Cardinals and Reds were tied at 1-1 after nine innings when Ruiz, who does so much bench sitting that he brings along his own cushion, batted for Maloney.

Hal Lanier drove in San Francisco's winning run with a two-out single in the seventh and then Perry bailed McCormick out of a jam by getting Tommy Davis to rap into an inning ending double play in the bottom of the seventh.

Shoddy Houston fielding led to two of Philadelphia's three runs against the Astros as Rick Wise, with ninth-inning help from Dick Hall, won his third game.

Wise drove in a run with a fourth-inning single and successive errors on the hit by losing pitcher Mike Cuellar and Ed Mathews allowed another Phillie run to score.

THE NEW "WORD"

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—According to the Canadian philosopher Marshall McLuhan, the spoken word gave way to the written word, but now "we are leaving the age of printing and passing into the age of electronic communications."

This has large implications for Protestant theology, says a theologian, the Rev. Dr. Howard Hageman. Writing in the Church Herald, he notes that God's Word had come to mean "the printed words of Scripture." However, he adds, "if the printed word is now slipping in favor of another kind of word," this forces "us to ask just what it is that we mean by the Word of God."

Mountain's Legends

Snow-crowned Mt. Damavand soars almost 19,000 feet above Iran's fertile plains. Among the many legends about the mountain are that the prophet Zoroaster lived on its slopes; the simurgh, fabulous bird of wisdom and great size, lived on its summit; and Faridun, a folk hero, chained the tyrant Zahak in one of its caves.

Mincher's Two-Run Shot In Ninth Gives 4-3 Win Over Boston

The California Angels had a terrible time hitting the ball Wednesday night, but almost every time they did it went out of the park.

Of the four hits they were allowed by Boston pitchers Jim Lonborg and Jose Santiago, the Angels made three of them good for homers, including Don Mincher's two-run shot in the bottom of the ninth that won the game 4-3. Roger Repoz and Paul Schaal hit the other ones.

Only Jim Fregosi had the temerity to hit anything less than a homer, a mere single. It came just before Mincher's homer, however, so perhaps the Angels will forgive the transgression.

The Red Sox themselves were 2-for-5 in the slugging department, getting homers from Joe Foy and George Thomas and just three other hits, all of them singles.

In other American League action Wednesday night, Chicago edged Baltimore 3-2 in 11 innings, Minnesota bombed New York 10-4, Detroit shaded Cleveland 3-2 and Washington beat Kansas City 5-3.

In the top of the ninth at Anaheim, the Red Sox, who had been trailing all the way, threatened to pull it out. With two out Jerry Adair singled and Thomas, two-run shot put them ahead 3-2.

Lonborg had pitched beautifully for seven innings for the Sox, giving up but two hits in all that time. Unfortunately, both hits were homers, Repoz' third of the season in the first inning and Schaal's fifth in the third.

George Brunet, in the meantime, was doing just about as well for the Angels. He allowed just three hits until the ninth, including Foy's 12th homer in the fourth inning. Thomas' homer in the ninth almost turned him into a loser, but Mincher's blast off Santiago put the winning smile on his face.

Chicago and Baltimore fought to a standstill until Tommie Agee delivered a single with two out in the 11th, scoring Jim Stewart who ran for J. C. Martin who led off the inning with a single.

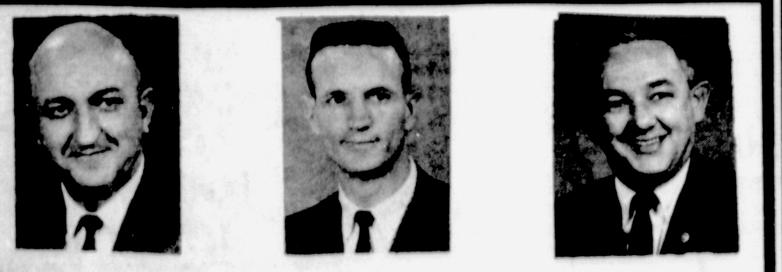

Mike Adamson, 19, started his first game for the Orioles, stopped the Sox on three hits in six innings, driving in one run and scoring another.

Dick Reese and Ted Uhlaender carried the big sticks for the Twins, knocking in seven runs between them. Reese had a three-run homer and a total of four RBI while Uhlaender had a two-run shot and three runs batted in. It was the Twins' eighth straight victory.

Roy Oyler squeezed in Mickey Stanley in the eighth with the winning Detroit run after Stanley drove in Norm Cash with a triple earlier in the inning. Tony Horton homered for the Red Sox.

Frank Howard's 21st homer drove in two runs for Washington, and Cap Peterson's double accounted for two more. Howard's blast went 461 feet in the third inning and Peterson's hit came in the fifth.

DEXTER - Sixty-seven children from Bernie, Bloomfield and Dexter are enrolled in the summer Head Start program at the First Missionary Baptist church.

The program differs from many other area Head Start programs in the Bootheel in that it is not attached to any school district. It is sponsored by the community action agency.

The church donated its facilities in kind for the program, including kitchen and classroom facilities, Gerald Fox, Head Start director, noted.

The Rev. Marshall E. Dark, pastor of the church, and church officials have cooperated in an effort to make the program a success, Fox said.

Head Start is primarily for preschool children from low-income families and strives to provide these children with social and learning experiences which may not have been available to them in their homes.

After participating in the program, the children should be better prepared to adjust to the learning experiences in the classroom when they start formal schooling.

The Dexter program has four classes, with the children divided into two groups for lunch, snacks and park activities.

The schedule calls for an hour of creative play in the morning, followed by a snack. The children also have a rest period and go to a nearby city park for an hour, where they use the playground facilities. They also get a hot lunch.

Play equipment used in the classrooms was donated in kind by the Bloomfield school system.

The children are given a medical checkup and any innoculations that are needed. At the end of the program a follow-up study will be made by the social worker, Mrs. Della Wiseman.

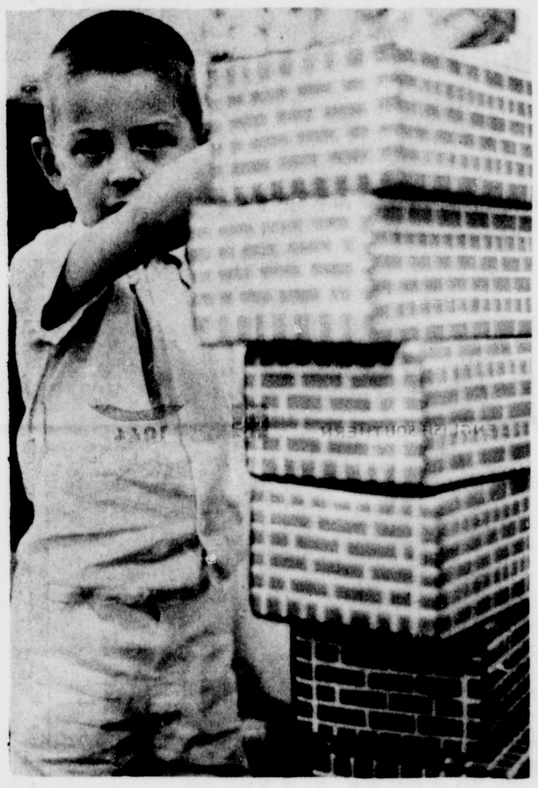

Other personnel in the Head Start program include:

Mrs. Ann C. Day, Mrs. Carolyn Brown, Miss Delores Banken and Mrs. Oralea Hawley, teachers.

Fund for Capital Improvements To Shrink

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — An analysis of budget figures showed Wednesday next year's legislature won't have nearly as much money for capital improvements as was appropriated this year.

From general revenue (tax) money this year's legislature appriated about $546.3 million, including almost $75 million for capital improvements.

That was an increase of approximately 26.6 per cent over the previous year but not nearly all of the money can be spent in one year.

Studies by Arthur W. Betts, legislative fiscal affairs advisor, show that it takes most institutions three or four years to spend the money allotted to them for buildings. Each legislature has to reappropriate millions of dollars for this purpose.

Thus the $75 million allotted this time will stand up for several years.

Budget estimates indicate the next session may have only a little over $20 million for capital improvements. Much of this is expected to go for construction of a new maximum security prison, the location of which has not been determined.

Fred T. Wilkinson, state corrections director, has said he plans to ask the next legislature for about $17 million to build the new institution. Both Kansas City and St. Louis have been mentioned as potential sites.

John C. Vaughn, comptroller and budget director, hit his general revenue estimates almost on the nose for the 1966-67 fiscal year.

He estimated $445.6 million and collections totaled $445,119 million. That represented a gain of $30,437 million over the previous year, a little less than 10 per cent.

For the fiscal year started July 1, Vaughn has estimated intake of $475.3 million, based on normal growth. Most of last year's increase was accounted for by higher income and sales tax collections.

Table Rock Lake Fee Protest Meeting Slated

SHELL KNOB, Mo. (AP) -- With the federal regulations on recreation in the Table Rock lake area as the target, the Central Crossing Association— representing almost every tourist business in the vicinity — will amass its forces in Shell Knob at a meeting tonight.

The association's aim is the repeal of the "Golden Eagle Passport" program begun earlier this year under the Land and Water Conservation Act of 1965. High on the list of objections to the program has been the "use fees" charged tourists, campers, and fishermen in the 168 recreational sites involved.

Harold McIlrath, president of the association, said the group also will ask for an investigation of the policies and practices of all federal agencies concerned with the program.

Invitations to the meeting have been accepted by Rep. Durward Hall, R-Mo., and Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, D-Ark.

An observer is expected to attend on behalf of Sens. Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long of Missouri.

Representatives also are expected for Gov. Warren E. Hearne and Col. Frank Bane of the Little Rock Corps of Engineers.

Acceptances have been received from the mayors of Aurora, Neosho and Monett in Missouri, and Maryville, Ark.; the Southern Lakes Association, and the Ozarks Playground Association.

McIlrath pointed to a disturbance incident at Hermitage Beach on Pomme de Terre Reservoir Tuesday as "an indication of the rising public indignation about these areas."

It was reported by the Hickory County sheriff's office that 10 to 15 youths who had been drinking were involved in a dispute over entrance permits.

Skilled Worker Shortage Noted

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis metropolitan area needs considerably more skilled workers than it has, but it is not likely to get them in the near future, the St. Louis Regional Industrial Development Corp. reported Wednesday.

Dr. Sam Barone, associate professor of economics at St. Louis University, and Dr. Leroy J. Grossman, RIDC director of economic research, said the most pronounced shortages were in the general machine shop trades and a variety of skilled jobs pertaining to manufacturing.

The two men made a comprehensive study of labor supply and demand in the eight-county metropolitan area.

They found that there are critical shortages of nurses, medical technologist, therapists, licensed practical nurses and other medical personnel.

The demand for workers skilled in electronic data processing substantially exceeds the supply, the researchers said.

And there are not enough secretaries and stenographers to go around.

Half World Debt To U.S. Owed on World War 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Other nations now owe the United States more than $41 billion—about half in principal and interest from World War I debt.

Officials estimated today that foreign governments and organizations owe Uncle Sam about $20.8 billion as of last March 31 exclusive of interest and World War I debt.

Principal and interest from World War I added another $21 billion to the bill.

If past experience is any guide, the figures will go even higher.

Seventeen nations still owe money from World War I. At last listing 96 nations and 5 international organizations owed the other debt.

More than 99 per cent of the World War II and post-war debt is being repaid on time but the story is much different for World War I. Only Finland makes timely payments and is the only country not in arrears.

It's all legal, however. The United States in 1953 agreed that no further payments need be made on World War I debt until final settlement of German reparations. Payments actually stopped, except for Finland, in 1932.

What ever happened to the old fashioned Fourth of July, that I remember reading about and seeing in the movies? Back then (according to popular legend), the men, women, and children got together in the park for an old fashioned homey type picnic with ants and spills and all the usual fun a picnic has that certain way of bringing out.

The men drank beer, the kids ran wild, and the women gossiped and exchanged recipies as benefitted their more gentel nature. There were always sack races and pie eating contests, and lots of fireworks and swimming fun, and I think I even read once where they included a parade, a band and dancing in all these festivities.

I'm not real sure, but one thing I know they had, and that was togetherness.

Now its a different story and I totally blame my own sex! Ever since some nitwit of a woman stood up and demanded the right to vote, woman has had it! I would prefer to be a clinging vine any old time and be waited on and admired than to be thought of as just one of the fellows. You can pick the president any day of the week you like, just as long as you pull out a chair or open the car door for me. But oh no, someone had to open her big mouth and shout to the men that we were superior (we all knew it anyway, the big kick was not letting the men know we knew), and quickly man handed over all his rights, privileges, and his pants to us.

Listen lady, if men had had it so great, they wouldn't have been so anxious to get rid of it!!

Well anyway, as a result of all that stupidity on the part of some broad, this Fourth of July, found me fixing the picnic lunch, carting it to the park, the kids to the pool, women organizing the games, running here and there, and you know where the papas were? Yup, out on the golf course. They should have been doing the running and the organizing, and we ladies of gentler nature the fanning and the chatting.

Oh my, togetherness has long since gone, now its only femaleness, (and that word has just about lost its meaning).

All I can say is ladies, lets rebel! Let's sit right down on our middle age spread, and let the fellows run the show for awhile.

I'm pooped, to heck with progress, I say regress and maybe next year the fellows will light the firecrackers for a change.

Highway Toll Soars to 732

Late reports Wednesday of Independence Day weekend fatalities boosted the holiday traffic toll to 732, within range of the National Safety Council's estimate of 700 to 800.

The statistics broke a record no one wanted to break. The previous high mark for a Fourth of July weekend was 576 during last year's three-day holiday.

A nonholiday tally made by The Associated Press for comparative purposes showed 530 fatalities in a four-day period.

The Safety Council said the large number of fatalities reflects an increase in the number of drivers and motor vehicles and the millions of miles motorists traveled.

highlighted by the Thunderbirds, the famous U.S. Air Force official aerial demonstration team that will perform at 6:30 p.m., and the Screaming Eagles, a six-man skydiving team from Fort Campbell, Ky., performing several times.

Another main attraction will be a four - plane minimum interval take off (MITO) exercise, an event seldom seen by the public. The MITO exercise will consist of two B-52 Stratofortresses and two KC-135 Stratotankers lifting off the runway within 15 seconds of each other.

Burning Truck's Horn Saves Farm Family —

GOODMAN, Mo. (AP) — A freak accident, which resulted in the destruction of a two-story frame farm house, also sounded its own alarm and enabled Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Robbins to escape with their five children.

Ethmer Williams, Goodman volunteer fireman, said somehow a ton and a half truck caught fire in the yard. The electrical system was shorted and somehow the truck engine started. The truck rolled against the house setting it afire.

But fortunately the electrical short also started the horn that awakened the family, and enabled the seven occupants to escape.

A dozen Goodman and Neosho firemen were summoned to the farm, but the house was totally destroyed.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Now both Rosie the whooping crane and her mate Crip, are model expectant parents and zoo officials hope the marriage will yield two infant birds of a rare species.

Fred Stark, director of the San Antonio zoo, said Wednesday Rosie's two eggs may hatch this weekend.

There were 45 cranes left in the wild, Stark said, when officials counted them last spring. He said there are 12 more in captivity.

BLYTHEVILLE AIR FORCE BASE, ARK. -- Col. Eugene D. Minietta, 97th Bomb Wing commander, announced today that Blytheville Air Force Base will open its gates Thursday, July 13, from 3:30 - 8 p.m. for the base's annual Open House. The general public is invited to attend.

Coffee Corner
by Cheri

What ever happened to the old fashioned Fourth of July, that I remember reading about and seeing in the movies? Back then (according to popular legend), the men, women, and children got together in the park for an old fashioned homey type picnic with ants and spills and all the usual fun a picnic has that certain way of bringing out.

The men drank beer, the kids ran wild, and the women gossiped and exchanged recipies as benefitted their more gentel nature. There were always sack races and pie eating contests, and lots of fireworks and swimming fun, and I think I even read once where they included a parade, a band and dancing in all these festivities.

I'm not real sure, but one thing I know they had, and that was togetherness.

Now its a different story and I totally blame my own sex! Ever since some nitwit of a woman stood up and demanded the right to vote, woman has had it! I would prefer to be a clinging vine any old time and be waited on and admired than to be thought of as just one of the fellows. You can pick the president any day of the week you like, just as long as you pull out a chair or open the car door for me. But oh no, someone had to open her big mouth and shout to the men that we were superior (we all knew it anyway, the big kick was not letting the men know we knew), and quickly man handed over all his rights, privileges, and his pants to us.

Listen lady, if men had had it so great, they wouldn't have been so anxious to get rid of it!!

Well anyway, as a result of all that stupidity on the part of some broad, this Fourth of July, found me fixing the picnic lunch, carting it to the park, the kids to the pool, women organizing the games, running here and there, and you know where the papas were? Yup, out on the golf course. They should have been doing the running and the organizing, and we ladies of gentler nature the fanning and the chatting.

Oh my, togetherness has long since gone, now its only femaleness, (and that word has just about lost its meaning).

All I can say is ladies, lets rebel! Let's sit right down on our middle age spread, and let the fellows run the show for awhile.

I'm pooped, to heck with progress, I say regress and maybe next year the fellows will light the firecrackers for a change.

Highway Toll Soars to 732

Late reports Wednesday of Independence Day weekend fatalities boosted the holiday traffic toll to 732, within range of the National Safety Council's estimate of 700 to 800.

The statistics broke a record no one wanted to break. The previous high mark for a Fourth of July weekend was 576 during last year's three-day holiday.

A nonholiday tally made by The Associated Press for comparative purposes showed 530 fatalities in a four-day period.

The Safety Council said the large number of fatalities reflects an increase in the number of drivers and motor vehicles and the millions of miles motorists traveled.

highlighted by the Thunderbirds, the famous U.S. Air Force official aerial demonstration team that will perform at 6:30 p.m., and the Screaming Eagles, a six-man skydiving team from Fort Campbell, Ky., performing several times.

Another main attraction will be a four - plane minimum interval take off (MITO) exercise, an event seldom seen by the public. The MITO exercise will consist of two B-52 Stratofortresses and two KC-135 Stratotankers lifting off the runway within 15 seconds of each other.

Static displays of tactical aircraft and equipment will be displayed with military personnel on hand to brief the public.

The purpose of the Open House is to report to the public how military tax dollars are being utilized.

BEARCAT, VIETNAM (AHTNC) -- Army Sergeant Robert L. Neal, son of Mrs. Pearl Williamson, Parma, Mo., was assigned to the 86th Engineer Battalion in Vietnam, June 8.

Sgt. Neal, a non - commissioned officer in charge of the dispensary in the battalion near Bearcat, entered the Army in 1946 and was last stationed at Ft. Devens, Mass.

(KO649) USCGC YAKUTAT (WHEC-380) (FHTNC) -- Fireman Apprentice Jimmy A. Davis, USCG, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin H. Davis of 404 Hunter St., Sikeston, Mo., is serving aboard the high endurance Coast Guard cutter USS Yakutat in the Western Pacific.

While serving in Vietnam, the Yakutat will join other Navy and Coast Guard units for "Operation Market Time" patrols to help prevent infiltration of enemy troops and supplies into South Vietnam by sea.

Prior to the Vietnam assignment the duties of the Yakutat included collection of meteorological and oceanographic data, acting as aircraft ocean checkpoints and search and rescue of distressed ships and aircraft.

Burning Truck's Horn Saves Farm Family —

GOODMAN, Mo. (AP) — A freak accident, which resulted in the destruction of a two-story frame farm house, also sounded its own alarm and enabled Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Robbins to escape with their five children.

Ethmer Williams, Goodman volunteer fireman, said somehow a ton and a half truck caught fire in the yard. The electrical system was shorted and somehow the truck engine started. The truck rolled against the house setting it afire.

But fortunately the electrical short also started the horn that awakened the family, and enabled the seven occupants to escape.

A dozen Goodman and Neosho firemen were summoned to the farm, but the house was totally destroyed.

Model Expectant Parents

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Now both Rosie the whooping crane and her mate Crip, are model expectant parents and zoo officials hope the marriage will yield two infant birds of a rare species.

Fred Stark, director of the San Antonio zoo, said Wednesday Rosie's two eggs may hatch this weekend.

There were 45 cranes left in the wild, Stark said, when officials counted them last spring. He said there are 12 more in captivity.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

By Lynn Twitty

Construction of the building units in the first phase of the school's building expansion plan should begin at once. The buildings included in this first phase are: an addition to the library at Senior High, enlargement of the kitchen and dining facilities, two classrooms to be added to the science-math complex and a nine-classroom, shop or laboratory expansion of the vocational school. The vocational school is a part of the comprehensive Senior High School and is used not only for day school classes for our high school classes and those of neighboring communities, but also for a very extensive day and evening school program for youth and adults.

The Clinton Construction Company of Sikeston was awarded the contract as a result of their low bid. The total bid for this phase of the building program was $505,124. The bid was about six percent above our estimated cost, due to, we assume, the extremely rapid rise of construction costs during the last few months. Some schools have reported bids coming in 20-25% over their original estimated cost of construction.

As usual, our budget is extremely tight but it is the opinion of the Board that all of the program as originally planned, (the second phase to include a new elementary school and field house) can be completed.

The units included in the first phase were placed first in priority because they most affect the educational program, because these facilities were the most crowded and because some federal funds allocated to us for expansion of the vocational school had to be committed before the end of the fiscal year, June 30th. Planning for school additions or new buildings is - or at least should be - a slow and painstaking process. Many people, in addition to the architects and engineers and including Board members, teachers, administrators and lay people are involved in numerous meetings and planning sessions. Logically the results should better serve the educational needs of our community and use the taxpayer's dollar more effectively than if we merely turn the whole job over to the architect. We expect, that if all goes well, the plans for the second phase - the elementary school and the field house, should be ready for final Board approval by late summer. Making predictions about when a building program, of this magnitude is completed, and which involves labor problems, the difficulty of getting materials on time, federal and state building and wage restrictions, the weather and a miscellany of other elements, is about as risky as handicapping a horse race, but somehow or other the Board will get these buildings which are essential for better schools for our kids and the adults whom we serve. We believe their past practice of placing first those buildings which are directly related to and most necessary for our educational program is and will continue to be sound. That is: classrooms, laboratories and libraries and then those extras which also are necessary for education, athletic facilities, field houses and auditoriums, but are not quite so important as a classroom where the student receives his basic education. Fortunately, we have somehow arrived at the point where some of these second priority buildings, such as the field house, can be added. We hope that some means of financing an auditorium-theatre type facility, possibly through a joint school board-city government action, can come in the not too distant future.

A recent federal court order prohibiting use of the "track" system in the Washington, D.C. public schools does not necessarily prohibit this type of student grouping or placement in all schools but does raise some questions about it.

The judge who made this ruling contended that children in that particular school were grouped on the basis of standarized tests which in many cases did not reveal the innate intelligence of the individual but rather scored him on the basis of experiences and those coming from lower income groups, primarily Negro children, had not had the experiences which enable them to score well.

We have used a modification of the track system in our school for several years. We place children into classes on the basis of a number of measures, only one of which is the standardized test. We also place them in individual classes on this basis rather than into tracks one, two or three in which the student takes all of his classes at a particular level. We find that children should be placed in a fast learning group, for example in English, but that he learns best in a slower learning class in another subject such as perhaps mathmetics.

We believe that it makes sense to place children into classes with other students whose abilities allow them to proceed at about the same rate, rather than to place the fast learner with a slow learner. In the latter system, the teacher must generally prepare either for the fast group or the slow group and the other is frequently lost or not challenged to learn.

The public school has long been the favorite, "whipping boy" of our society. Johnny can't read, and the fault is all in the schools. Forgetting that kids, on the average, read better than ever before. They can't spell. There are too many "frills". The slaughter on the highways is due to the school's failure to teach people to drive. Think of any ill in our society and the simplest way to explain it is to blame it on the schools.

Naturally the schools are not doing the job that could be done. In fact, we know how to do a darn sight better. But all of this takes more money and this in essence means more highly trained people and the support of a public that in most cases is reluctant to accept change. Then, too, sometimes we just simply don't do as well as we should, we fail, we make mistakes - fall flat on our faces. We also suspect that people in other vocations are not always 100% successful in obtaining their aims.

The latest in accusations against the schools is that they contribute to delinquency. This is what the President's Crime Commission stated in their report, "The schools have not adequately adapted to the new social and economic conditions, with the results that these shortcomings contribute to heightened delinquency".

They said that schools themselves are forcing student dropouts in some cases by failing to concentrate on slow learners, prejudging slum children as those whose learning abilities are lower than middle-class white people and in instances by labeling children as trouble-makers, passing the word among teachers and making conditions so uncomfortable that the youth wants to leave school.

About anything that can be said applies to some school somewhere in the United States. Doubtless in some instances these accusations are true but if society expects schools to remedy all of its ills, to accomplish all of the good purposes that can be gained, then that society must be willing to pay the price in money, must accept the changes that are necessary, and to give education the attention that it must have if it is to achieve these goals.

The wages which can be paid to workers on public school construction jobs in certain Southeast Missouri counties, by law, can not be less than a minimum set by the Missouri Department of Labor for this section of the state. Incidentally, this rate may vary widely in the different sections of the state. Sikeston, in the St. Louis union jurisdiction, has the highest wage rate in the state. For example, New Madrid and Mississippi Counties are not in the St. Louis area and consequently can build very considerably cheaper than we can. Frequently, the minimum wage for certain crafts set by the union is above the state scale.

Some of the minimum scales which must be paid on our school building program, for which a contract was let last week, and this includes: the basic hourly rate; Health and Welfare; pensions; vacations and apprentice training and other fringe benefits. These hourly rates are: electricians, $6.42; laborers, $3.27; pipe fitters, $7.28 and plumbers, $5.46. Others of the various crafts range between these scales.

Practical Nurse Students Return

Students of Sikeston public schools practical nurse program returned June 28 from St. Joseph, where they attended the State National Association for Practical Nurse Education Service and Convention. They were guest at events prepared by the host chapter of the Licensed Practical Nurses Association June 26 and participated June 27 in the student processional which included 382 student nurses from all over Missouri.

This year Sikeston students won permanent possession of the original membership trophy, which must be won three consecutive years by the same school to become a permanent award. Also, Sikeston's LPN Association had the second greatest increase percentagewise in membership in the state.

This trip was made possible through the sponsorship of organizations, businesses and individuals throughout the area served by this training program. Students through individual and group projects also earned money to help defray expenses.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A statistical survey shows a sharp increase in the number of Australian missionaries serving overseas. The number rose 1,656 between 1959 and 1965 to a total of 4,416.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

By Lynn Twitty

Construction of the building units in the first phase of the school's building expansion plan should begin at once. The buildings included in this first phase are: an addition to the library at Senior High, enlargement of the kitchen and dining facilities, two classrooms to be added to the science-math complex and a nine-classroom, shop or laboratory expansion of the vocational school. The vocational school is a part of the comprehensive Senior High School and is used not only for day school classes for our high school classes and those of neighboring communities, but also for a very extensive day and evening school program for youth and adults.

The Clinton Construction Company of Sikeston was awarded the contract as a result of their low bid. The total bid for this phase of the building program was $505,124. The bid was about six percent above our estimated cost, due to, we assume, the extremely rapid rise of construction costs during the last few months. Some schools have reported bids coming in 20-25% over their original estimated cost of construction.

As usual, our budget is extremely tight but it is the opinion of the Board that all of the program as originally planned, (the second phase to include a new elementary school and field house) can be completed.

The units included in the first phase were placed first in priority because they most affect the educational program, because these facilities were the most crowded and because some federal funds allocated to us for expansion of the vocational school had to be committed before the end of the fiscal year, June 30th. Planning for school additions or new buildings is - or at least should be - a slow and painstaking process. Many people, in addition to the architects and engineers and including Board members, teachers, administrators and lay people are involved in numerous meetings and planning sessions. Logically the results should better serve the educational needs of our community and use the taxpayer's dollar more effectively than if we merely turn the whole job over to the architect. We expect, that if all goes well, the plans for the second phase - the elementary school and the field house, should be ready for final Board approval by late summer. Making predictions about when a building program, of this magnitude is completed, and which involves labor problems, the difficulty of getting materials on time, federal and state building and wage restrictions, the weather and a miscellany of other elements, is about as risky as handicapping a horse race, but somehow or other the Board will get these buildings which are essential for better schools for our kids and the adults whom we serve. We believe their past practice of placing first those buildings which are directly related to and most necessary for our educational program is and will continue to be sound. That is: classrooms, laboratories and libraries and then those extras which also are necessary for education, athletic facilities, field houses and auditoriums, but are not quite so important as a classroom where the student receives his basic education. Fortunately, we have somehow arrived at the point where some of these second priority buildings, such as the field house, can be added. We hope that some means of financing an auditorium-theatre type facility, possibly through a joint school board-city government action, can come in the not too distant future.

A recent federal court order prohibiting use of the "track" system in the Washington, D.C. public schools does not necessarily prohibit this type of student grouping or placement in all schools but does raise some questions about it.

The judge who made this ruling contended that children in that particular school were grouped on the basis of standarized tests which in many cases did not reveal the innate intelligence of the individual but rather scored him on the basis of experiences and those coming from lower income groups, primarily Negro children, had not had the experiences which enable them to score well.

We have used a modification of the track system in our school for several years. We place children into classes on the basis of a number of measures, only one of which is the standardized test. We also place them in individual classes on this basis rather than into tracks one, two or three in which the student takes all of his classes at a particular level. We find that children should be placed in a fast learning group, for example in English, but that he learns best in a slower learning class in another subject such as perhaps mathmetics.

We believe that it makes sense to place children into classes with other students whose abilities allow them to proceed at about the same rate, rather than to place the fast learner with a slow learner. In the latter system, the teacher must generally prepare either for the fast group or the slow group and the other is frequently lost or not challenged to learn.

The public school has long been the favorite, "whipping boy" of our society. Johnny can't read, and the fault is all in the schools. Forgetting that kids, on the average, read better than ever before. They can't spell. There are too many "frills". The slaughter on the highways is due to the school's failure to teach people to drive. Think of any ill in our society and the simplest way to explain it is to blame it on the schools.

Naturally the schools are not doing the job that could be done. In fact, we know how to do a darn sight better. But all of this takes more money and this in essence means more highly trained people and the support of a public that in most cases is reluctant to accept change. Then, too, sometimes we just simply don't do as well as we should, we fail, we make mistakes - fall flat on our faces. We also suspect that people in other vocations are not always 100% successful in obtaining their aims.

The latest in accusations against the schools is that they contribute to delinquency. This is what the President's Crime Commission stated in their report, "The schools have not adequately adapted to the new social and economic conditions, with the results that these shortcomings contribute to heightened delinquency".

They said that schools themselves are forcing student dropouts in some cases by failing to concentrate on slow learners, prejudging slum children as those whose learning abilities are lower than middle-class white people and in instances by labeling children as troublemakers, passing the word among teachers and making conditions so uncomfortable that the youth wants to leave school.

About anything that can be said applies to some school somewhere in the United States. Doubtless in some instances these accusations are true but if society expects schools to remedy all of its ills, to accomplish all of the good purposes that can be gained, then that society must be willing to pay the price in money, must accept the changes that are necessary, and to give education the attention that it must have if it is to achieve these goals.

The wages which can be paid to workers on public school construction jobs in certain Southeast Missouri counties, by law, can not be less than a minimum set by the Missouri Department of Labor for this section of the state. Incidentally, this rate may vary widely in the different sections of the state. Sikeston, in the St. Louis union jurisdiction, has the highest wage rate in the state. For example, New Madrid and Mississippi Counties are not in the St. Louis area and consequently can build very considerably cheaper than we can. Frequently, the minimum wage for certain crafts set by the union is above the state scale.

Some of the minimum scales which must be paid on our school building program, for which a contract was let last week, and this includes: the basic hourly rate; Health and Welfare; pensions; vacations and apprentice training and other fringe benefits. These hourly rates are: electricians, $6.42; laborers, $3.27; pipe fitters, $7.28 and plumbers, $5.46. Others of the various crafts range between these scales.

Practical Nurse Students Return

Students of Sikeston public schools practical nurse program returned June 28 from St. Joseph, where they attended the State National Association for Practical Nurse Education Service and Convention. They were guest at events prepared by the host chapter of the Licensed Practical Nurses Association June 26 and participated June 27 in the student processional which included 382 student nurses from all over Missouri.

This year Sikeston students won permanent possession of the original membership trophy, which must be won three consecutive years by the same school to become a permanent award. Also, Sikeston's LPN Association had the second greatest increase percentagewise in membership in the state.

This trip was made possible through the sponsorship of organizations, businesses and individuals throughout the area served by this training program. Students through individual and group projects also earned money to help defray expenses.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A statistical survey shows a sharp increase in the number of Australian missionaries serving overseas. The number rose 1,656 between 1959 and 1965 to a total of 4,416.

Davis Buys Business

50 years ago
July 6, 1917

Norman Davis, one of the partners in the Davis & Campbell straw firm, with offices in Peoples Bank buiding, bought Mr. Campbell's interest in the business last week and will conduct the business under his name alone.

To the Public! As a result of malicious gossip an article appeared in The St. Louis Globe-Democrat under the date of July 2, 1917, alleging among other things that arsenic had been found in flour of a Sikeston Milling Co., and that several hundred sacks had been confiscated. This statement is untrue. Not a sack of our flour has been confiscated. This statement is untrue. Not a sack of our flour has been confiscated here or anywhere else since we began business in 1893, and we hope our many friends and customers will not be misled, but will continued to demand the flour that has long been known as the standard few could equal and none excel. This article was inspired for the purpose of doing this concern and irreparable injury and we hope the public will weaken such underhanded efforts by placing no credence in the same. The Scott County Milling Co.

Tuesday morning two houses on North Handy street burned down and a third house was badly damaged by the fire. The fire originated in the house occupied by J. W. Walker and family, when a child in attempting to build a fire by using coal oil, dropped the can in the fire.

Thursday afternoon information came to the Standard office that the numbers drawn for Missouri in the first war draft had been released in St. Louis. The Sikeston numbers for both precincts were received over the telephone and the names corresponding to numbers looked up. This information is not official, but no doubt is nearly correct. Following are the names that correspond to the numbers received: Ward One -- Harry B. Crouch, Ralph L. Righter, Reginald C. Buell, John R. Miller, Bert Shuffit, Roy C. Edwards, Bernard G. Gill, Edman S. Erdman, Fred Leo Gintert, Chas. A. Andres, Tosie Herbert Walker, Adolph Sewell, colored and W. Henderson, colored. Ward two -- Elizah P. Casebeer, Elbert P. Ellis, Everett Couch, Raleigh C. Groves, James Little, Everett Ramsey, Harry Ethridge, Lee Perry, Chas. Wilson, Edward Stacy, Gid Morse, Curt Hughes, and Alvin I. Taylor.

Ann Landers

All That Chatter Okay Sugar!

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me what is happening to decent manners? I go to the market and the butcher says, "You are next, Honey." Then the checkout man says, "Here's your change, Doll." The senior citizen who carried my groceries to the car says, "Have a nice day, Sweetheart."

When the garage man called me "Beautiful" I decided to write a letter to Ann Landers. The final indignity occurred when I finished my letter to you, handed the letter to the postman and asked him to mail it. He said, "Of course I will, Sugar." I told him to skip it because I wanted to add another line.

(This one.) Where I was brought up, intimate names were reserved for a few favored few, on special occasions. Now they have become part of our everyday language. Is this the way it is everywhere or only in Los Angeles? --- MRS. WILL SUFFICE

Dear Mrs. Suffice: Folks are less formal than they used to be, and this goes for everywhere, not just Los Angeles. These people who use pet names are simply trying to be friendly -- not intimate. If you feel they are being TOO friendly, simply tell them, Baby.

Dear Ann Landers: There IS a way to handle crude people who pry into the lives of others and ask intimate questions.

I am an arrested alcoholic. For years I have been the victim of unbelievably cruel people who pose as "interested" friends. Because of my own insecurity, I had the ridiculous notion that I owed these people answers. I know now that I do not. Several months ago someone asked me, in the presence of my older child, whom we adopted, "What do you know about his REAL mother?"

It was on that day that I learned to cope with such boors. I now do one of three things:

1. Ignore the question -- as if I did not hear it.

2. If the person repeats the question and persists, I stare at him or her with a look of incredulity and say, "I don't think I heard your properly. Will you please repeat that?" If the question is repeated, I say, "I couldn't believe you were asking such a personal question." Then I go on and talk about something else.

3. Say, "I really don't care to discuss that subject with anyone."

I hope you will print my letter for the benefit of others who have not yet learned. I wish I had seen a letter like this 10 years ago. --- S. J.

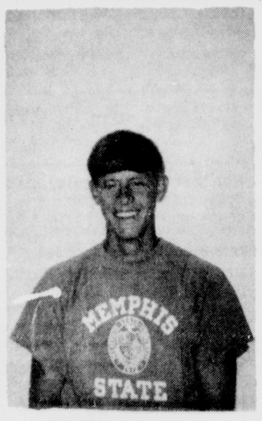

Dear S.: I am delighted to print your letter. It has a great deal of merit and I approve --- totally.

Confidential to: Who Needs Him? You do. And so do your children. Stop being such a stubborn mule and tell him you are sorry for behaving in such an outrageous manner. It is apparent that you did not have all the facts, which is usually the case when people go off half-cocked. An old English philosopher once said, "The degree of one's emotions varies inversely with one's knowledge of the facts -- the less you know, the hotter he gets."

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

BY Jack Strass L.L.D.

While insanity may be grounds for getting married, Feeney insisted it was also grounds for ending one, namely his. Immediately upon returning from his honeymoon, he claimed his wife became spooky. First, she began hearing things. Then, she began seeing things.

The payoff came, however, when she began waking him up in the middle of the night and insisting that people were running around in the basement. This might have been possible except for the fact that their house had no basement.

Whereupon, Feeney put his wife into a mental institution and started an action to annul their marriage on the grounds that his wife had not had the mental capacity to enter into the marriage.

"No sooner had we unpacked our honeymoon bags," he told the judge, "it became crystal clear. The woman I married was as nutty as a jay bird."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Feeney a reprieve from his marriage?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that while a marriage requires the mutual consent of two people of sound mind, there was no proof that Feeney's wife was of unsound mind at the time they were married. As a matter of fact, noted the judge, Feeney noticed his wife's mental illness after they returned from their honeymoon, but not before.

Settlement Looms In Bridge Dispute

CARUTHERSVILLE - An official of the bureau of public roads predicts that the dispute over the Mississippi River bridge proposed for Caruthersville will be settled this week.

The differences of opinion over the bridge center around the horizontal clearance between bridge piers. The Missouri Highway Department has planned 800 foot spans while the Corps of Engineers, prodded by navigation interests, is urging 900 foot spans.

Jack Wilkes, head of the bureau of Public Road's bridge division, said that "we fully expect to make a compromise recommendation, probably some time next week."

A report from Washington said that Wilkes visited the Missouri Highway Department in Jefferson City to discuss the bridge plans. There were indications that a compromise might have been reached.

Marvin J. Snider, head of the Missouri highway agency, voiced great displeasure two weeks ago about not being able to find out the status of the application to build the bridge.

However, the state agency and the bureau of public roads has been in general agreement over the bridge specifications and argued that the added cost of the wider spans, about $1.5 million, was not necessary.

The application submitted by Missouri seeks a permit to put one pier at each side of the river's 1,600 foot navigable portion and one pier in the middle to create two 800 foot spans.

Navigation interests and the corps of engineers, however, urge wider spans. They have proposed that there either be two 900 foot spans or an irregular arrangement of piers.

Snider told the Journal that he had conferred with Wilkes and agreed to make changes in the bridge plans. However, until they are acted upon by the U.S. coast guard, which has the final authority since the department of transportation came into existence, the specifications will be uncertain.

Snider, who is chief engineer of the state agency, said he was impressed by Wilkes' apparent interest in getting the bridge question resolved. He also said the engineers are working in Jefferson City now to determine the best structural design for the bridge.

Shipping interests claim that tows moving downstream with the current require wider clearance than do tows going against the current, which are easier to control. This has been their argument for the wider spans.

Wilkes indicated that with the plans in the hands of the coast guard the final answer to the big question should be given soon.

The bridge, which will cross the Mississippi River just south of Caruthersville, is part of the Interstate System and is to be financed with 90 per cent federal funds, and 10 per cent from the states of Missouri and Tennessee.

It will carry Interstate 155, a spur route to ink with I-55 south of Hayti and I-40 near Jackson, Tenn. It will be the only bridge across the Mississippi between Memphis and Cairo.

MAIL BOX

Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri
Dear Sir:

People who voice their opinions on the war in Vietnam are divided into two categories - either "hawks" or "doves." There is another group, however, which fits into neither category and might properly be called "owls." Their wisdom allows them to learn from history, so as not to repeat it and make the same mistakes.

The "owls" see the similarity between the Vietnamese war and the "police action" of Korea, the war which America didn't win, and don't want this to happen again. Realizing that the stalemate of Korea brought no peace, they advocate peace through victory.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Earl M. Compton

To the Public! As a result of malicious gossip an article appeared in The St. Louis Globe-Democrat under the date of July 2, 1917, alleging among other things that arsenic had been found in flour of a Sikeston Milling Co., and that several hundred sacks had been confiscated. This statement is untrue. Not a sack of our flour has been confiscated. This statement is untrue. Not a sack of our flour has been confiscated here or anywhere else since we began business in 1893, and we hope our many friends and customers will not be misled, but will continued to demand the flour that has long been known as the standard few could equal and none excel. This article was inspired for the purpose of doing this concern and irreparable injury and we hope the public will weaken such underhanded efforts by placing no credence in the same. The Scott County Milling Co.

Tuesday morning two houses on North Handy street burned down and a third house was badly damaged by the fire. The fire originated in the house occupied by J. W. Walker and family, when a child in attempting to build a fire by using coal oil, dropped the can in the fire.

Thursday afternoon information came to the Standard office that the numbers drawn for Missouri in the first war draft had been released in St. Louis. The Sikeston numbers for both precincts were received over the telephone and the names corresponding to numbers looked up. This information is not official, but no doubt is nearly correct. Following are the names that correspond to the numbers received: Ward One -- Harry B. Crouch, Ralph L. Righter, Reginald C. Buell, John R. Miller, Bert Shuffit, Roy C. Edwards, Bernard G. Gill, Edman S. Erdman, Fred Leo Gintert, Chas. A. Andres, Tosie Herbert Walker, Adolph Sewell, colored and W. Henderson, colored. Ward two -- Elizah P. Casebeer, Elbert P. Ann Landers

All That Chatter Okay Sugar!

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me what is happening to decent manners? I go to the market and the butcher says, "You are next, Honey." Then the checkout man says, "Here's your change, Doll." The senior citizen who carried my groceries to the car says, "Have a nice day, Sweetheart."

When the garage man called me "Beautiful" I decided to write a letter to Ann Landers. The final indignity occurred when I finished my letter to you, handed the letter to the postman and asked him to mail it. He said, "Of course I will, Sugar." I told him to skip it because I wanted to add another line.

(This one.) Where I was brought up, intimate names were reserved for a few favored few, on special occasions. Now they have become part of our everyday language. Is this the way it is everywhere or only in Los Angeles? --- MRS. WILL SUFFICE

Dear Mrs. Suffice: Folks are less formal than they used to be, and this goes for everywhere, not just Los Angeles. These people who use pet names are simply trying to be friendly -- not intimate. If you feel they are being TOO friendly, simply tell them, Baby.

Dear Ann Landers: There IS a way to handle crude people who pry into the lives of others and ask intimate questions.

I am an arrested alcoholic. For years I have been the victim of unbelievably cruel people who pose as "interested" friends. Because of my own insecurity, I had the ridiculous notion that I owed these people answers. I know now that I do not. Several months ago someone asked me, in the presence of my older child, whom we adopted, "What do you know about his REAL mother?"

It was on that day that I learned to cope with such boors. I now do one of three things:

1. Ignore the question -- as if I did not hear it.
2. If the person repeats the question and persists, I stare at him or her with a look of incredulity and say, "I don't think I heard your properly. Will you please repeat that?" If the question is repeated, I say, "I couldn't believe you were asking such a personal question." Then I go on and talk about something else.
3. Say, "I really don't care to discuss that subject with anyone."

I hope you will print my letter for the benefit of others who have not yet learned. I wish I had seen a letter like this 10 years ago. --- S. J.

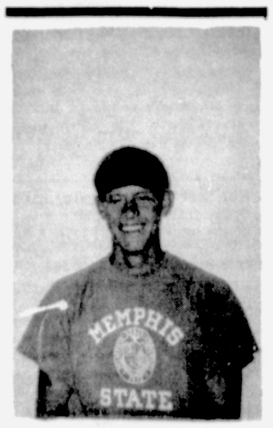

Dear S.: I am delighted to print your letter. It has a great deal of merit and I approve --- totally.

Confidential to: Who Needs Him? You do. And so do your children. Stop being such a stubborn mule and tell him you are sorry for behaving in such an outrageous manner. It is apparent that you did not have all the facts, which is usually the case when people go off half-cocked. An old English philosopher once said, "The degree of one's emotions varies inversely with one's knowledge of the facts -- the less you know, the hotter he gets."

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

BY Jack Strass L.L.D.

While insanity may be grounds for getting married, Feeney insisted it was also grounds for ending one, namely his. Immediately upon returning from his honeymoon, he claimed his wife became spooky. First, she began hearing things. Then, she began seeing things.

The payoff came, however, when she began waking him up in the middle of the night and insisting that people were running around in the basement. This might have been possible except for the fact that their house had no basement.

Whereupon, Feeney put his wife into a mental institution and started an action to annul their marriage on the grounds that his wife had not had the mental capacity to enter into the marriage.

"No sooner had we unpacked our honeymoon bags," he told the judge, "it became crystal clear. The woman I married was as nutty as a jay bird."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Feeney a reprieve from his marriage?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that while a marriage requires the mutual consent of two people of sound mind, there was no proof that Feeney's wife was of unsound mind at the time they were married. As a matter of fact, noted the judge, Feeney noticed his wife's mental illness after they returned from their honeymoon, but not before.

Settlement Looms In Bridge Dispute

CARUTHERSVILLE - An official of the bureau of public roads predicts that the dispute over the Mississippi River bridge proposed for Caruthersville will be settled this week.

The differences of opinion over the bridge center around the horizontal clearance between bridge piers. The Missouri Highway Department has planned 800 foot spans while the Corps of Engineers, prodded by navigation interests, is urging 900 foot spans.

Jack Wilkes, head of the bureau of Public Road's bridge division, said that "we fully expect to make a compromise recommendation, probably some time next week."

A report from Washington said that Wilkes visited the Missouri Highway Department in Jefferson City to discuss the bridge plans. There were indications that a compromise might have been reached.

Marvin J. Snider, head of the Missouri highway agency, voiced great displeasure two weeks ago about not being able to find out the status of the application to build the bridge.

However, the state agency and the bureau of public roads has been in general agreement over the bridge specifications and argued that the added cost of the wider spans, about $1.5 million, was not necessary.

The application submitted by Missouri seeks a permit to put one pier at each side of the river's 1,600 foot navigable portion and one pier in the middle to create two 800 foot spans.

Navigation interests and the corps of engineers, however, urge wider spans. They have proposed that there either be two 900 foot spans or an irregular arrangement of piers.

Snider told the Journal that he had conferred with Wilkes and agreed to make changes in the bridge plans. However, until they are acted upon by the U.S. coast guard, which has the final authority since the department of transportation came into existence, the specifications will be uncertain.

Snider, who is chief engineer of the state agency, said he was impressed by Wilkes' apparent interest in getting the bridge question resolved. He also said the engineers are working in Jefferson City now to determine the best structural design for the bridge.

Shipping interests claim that tows moving downstream with the current require wider clearance than do tows going against the current, which are easier to control. This has been their argument for the wider spans.

Wilkes indicated that with the plans in the hands of the coast guard the final answer to the big question should be given soon.

The bridge, which will cross the Mississippi River just south of Caruthersville, is part of the Interstate System and is to be financed with 90 per cent federal funds, and 10 per cent from the states of Missouri and Tennessee.

It will carry Interstate 155, a spur route to ink with I-55 south of Hayti and I-40 near Jackson, Tenn. It will be the only bridge across the Mississippi between Memphis and Cairo.

Story Hour at Dexter Library

The hour, which will be from 2 to 3 p.m., is for children 6-8 years old. Older youngsters may also attend.

Reading certificates will be presented to children reading three books a week and attending all story hours during July.

The theme is "Busy Bees," and youngsters will be given "Busy Bee" pens when enrolling.

Dear Sir:

People who voice their opinions on the war in Vietnam are divided into two categories - either "hawks" or "doves." There is another group, however, which fits into neither category and might properly be called "owls." Their wisdom allows them to learn from history, so as not to repeat it and make the same mistakes.

The "owls" see the similarity between the Vietnamese war and the "police action" of Korea, the war which America didn't win, and don't want this to happen again. Realizing that the stalemate of Korea brought no peace, they advocate peace through victory.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Earl M. Compton

AT&T Ordered To Trim Profits

WASHINGTON (AP)— The government has ordered giant American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to curb profits on part of its operations and to slash its interstate rates $120 million a year.

The Federal Communications Commission ordered AT&T Wednesday to operate its interstate and foreign operations which account for about 25 per cent of the company's over-all revenues— within a profit range of 7 to 7.5 per cent.

The commission in a unanimous 107-page order also directed the company to submit by Sept. 1 a plan for reducing interstate rates by $120 million a year. The plan is to become effective 30 days later.

AT&T called the FCC order "most disappointing. If allowed to stand for the long pull, this restriction on our earning prospects would inevitably slow down our effort to provide constantly more and better communications service to the public."

The FCC recalled that before 1964 it permitted AT&T to maintain interstate earnings at the 7.5 per cent level. In the spring of 1965 when profits inched past 8 per cent, the commission urged AT&T to cut its rates.

This resulted in lowered rates for long distance telephone calls in the evening.

But despite these rate reductions put into effect in late 1965, Bell System profits continued to rise. Last year, according to FCC figures, AT&T interstate earnings were 8.56 per cent.

In specifying that the Bell System by Sept. 1 must submit a plan to reduce rates by $120 million— about 3 per cent of its interstate earnings— the FCC did not say how the reduction is to be accomplished.

FTC Cracks Down on Pain Killer Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission says advertising which makes false claims about the benefits of various headache remedies must be halted— fast, fast, fast.

Control yourself, the commission in effect told manufacturers of pain relievers Wednesday in proposing a new rule aimed at what it called "unfair and deceptive advertising practices" the FTC said are used to push sales on nonprescription painkillers.

The commission implied the public is likely to swallow claims that one type of pain reliever works faster or is stronger even though, said the FTC, it appears the various brands are equally effective.

Indicating it may have reached the end of its rope in accepting such advertising, the commission set Sept. 15 as the deadline for filing written comments on its proposed rule.

The FTC announcement of the proposed new rule specified no products, companies or advertisements. The commission estimated there are about 40 producers and 100 distributors of analgesic drugs.

The FTC said advertisers should make claims of faster, stronger or longer-lasting analgesics a thing of the past unless they can prove a significant difference does exist in the individual brand.
